The Shatin to Central Link – Tai Wai to Hung Hom Section (hereafter referred to as SCL (TAW-HUH) or the Project) is an approximately 11 km long extension of the Ma On Shan Line, which connects the West Rail Line at Hung Hom forming a strategic east-west rail corridor. It is a Designated Project under the Environmental Impact Assessment Ordinance (Cap. 499) (EIAO).

The Environmental Impact Assessment Report of the SCL (TAW-HUH) (Register No. AEIAR-167/2012) was approved by the Environmental Protection Department (EPD) under the EIAO in February 2012 (hereafter referred to as the approved EIA Report). An Environmental Permit (EP-438/2012) (EP) was issued in March 2012. The EP has been varied subsequently and the current EP (EP-438/2012/K) was issued in October 2016.

The construction of the SCL (TAW-HUH) has been divided into a series of Civil Construction Works Contracts and Works Contract 1109 covers the construction of the To Kwa Wan (TKW) station and Ma Tau Wai (MTW) station, and the tunnels between the TKW and Ho Man Tin (HOM) stations and the associated structures. Works Contract 1109 was awarded to Samsung-Hsin Chong JV (SSHCJV) in July 2012.

As the construction works of the Works Contract 1109 will have impact on the potential archaeological resources survived in the Sacred Hill (North) Study Area as identified in the approved EIA Report, it is recommended to carry out archaeological survey-cum-excavation and additional investigation at the Sacred Hill (North) Study Area (hereafter referred to as Phase 1 Archaeological Work). ERM-Hong Kong, Limited (ERM) was commissioned by the SSHCJV to conduct the Phase 1 Archaeological Work with Licences to Search and Excavate for Antiquities (Licence Nos. 342 and 363) held by Dr Liu Wensuo who directed the fieldwork. The fieldworks of Phase 1 Archaeological Work were conducted between November 2012 and December 2013 covering an area of approximately 14,500 m^2.

Grid excavation system was adopted for the archaeological excavation. To facilitate better and clearer recording and to suit actual site conditions, some grids were combined during the excavation. Figure 2.1a of Volume 1 of this Final Report presented the final grid system adopted for the excavation.
According to the excavation findings of Phase 1 Archaeological Work, three main layers were identified, comprising the fill layer dated to the Mid-20th Century (Layer 1), the Late Qing Dynasty to Republican period (Layer 2) and the Song-Yuan Dynasties (Layer 3). A total of 238(1) archaeological features were identified spanning from the Song-Yuan Dynasties to the Mid-20th century. All the features had been disturbed by modern urbanisation of Kowloon City and Kai Tak Airport developments to different degrees. The Late Qing Dynasty to the Mid- 20th century archaeological features (Feature Groups 4 to 5 as mentioned in Table 4.6 of Volume 2) comprised 7 stone built wall structures, 4 building features, 148 ditches, 33 ponds/garbage pits/pits/large pits and 4 round shape wells. The Song-Yuan Dynasties archaeological features (Feature Groups 1 to 3) comprised 1 stone built wall structure, 3 building features, 3 ditches, 14 ponds/garbage pits/pits, 2 wells, 3 kilns and 16 burial features. For a well KSH2012 J4 in the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area, it was built in the Song-Yuan Dynasties and reused in the Late Qing Dynasty to Republican period after it was abandoned following the Song-Yuan Dynasties.

(1) KSH2012 H23 and H25 were cancelled while J4 was counted as 2 wells in according to its stratigraphic relation. The total quantity of archaeological features unearthed in Phase 1 Archaeological Work area has been revised from 239 to 238. Besides, there are differences between the Interim Report issued in April 2014 and the Final Report in terms of the statistics and analysis of archaeological features identified in the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area.

The archaeological features discovered in Layer 1 were stone built wall structures related to coastal reclamation works during the Mid-20th century. (Feature Group 5).

Archaeological features discovered below Layer 1 and Layer 2a to Layer 2d were mainly associated with agricultural activities such as irrigation ditches serving the small patches of farmland, ponds/garbage pits/pits/large pits and wells and some remains of building features or stone built wall structures that can be dated to the Late Qing Dynasty to Republican period according to the finds identified from the layer (Feature Group 4).

Archaeological features discovered below Layer 3a, Layer 3b and Layer 3d comprised remains of building features, stone built wall structure, wells, kilns, burials and pits/garbage pits that can be dated to the Song-Yuan Dynasties (Feature Groups 1 to 3).

It was confirmed that the southern and southeast portions of the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area was the sea area of Kowloon Bay before reclamation, without archaeological deposits.

In terms of overall statistics, the Phase 1 Archaeological Work excavation resulted in records of 14,746 items or 23,696.7 kg of general finds and 6,514 items of registered special finds. The finds comprise ceramic shards, coins, metal fragments, tiles and eaves tiles, stoneware and stone tablet, glasses, bricks, plastics, wood pieces and others. In additional, 398 items of samples have also been collected to allow for further studies including soil, wood, stone, bone, carbon, shell, coral, ash, coal and concrete.

The findings of this excavation provide information on the history of the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area. A large quantity of ceramic shards (including a large amount of poor quality ceramic shards and a small amount of high quality ceramic shards) were unearthed from the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area and most of them showed signs of being used which reflected that people lived within the area and likely in the adjacent area as early as the Song-Yuan Dynasties. The presence of the Song-Yuan Dynasties building features in the area provided further evidence to confirm this.

The original landscape of the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area was that the west and north areas were at higher level and the level gradually dropped from the north to south and from the west to east. The lower level area such as Grids TP93 and TP102 to TP103 was found to have a large quantity of shards of daily utensils ceramics that can be dated to the Song-Yuan Dynasties. Based on the spatial distribution pattern of archaeological features, artefacts unearthed as well as the nature of the original landscape, it is possible that these parts of the area with the archaeological finds were the border of the settlement and were mainly used as a waste dumping area by the inhabitants living in the vicinity during the Song-Yuan Dynasties. This finding matches the conclusion made in the approved EIA Report that the area was utilised as a burial or living ground and dumping area.

As the Song-Yuan Dynasties burial features unearthed were mostly in irregular shapes, consisted of shallow burial pits and had small amounts of funerary objects, it is possible that they all resulted from hasty burial practices. It seems that some years later the burial area was then abandoned and people built several houses (KSH2012 F5-F7) and began to live there.

In the Late Qing Dynasty, people started agricultural activities at the area and in adjacent areas. These agricultural activities terminated due to urbanisation and the airport development during the period from the 1920s to Mid-20th Century. The buildings were dismantled and the area was backfilled in the Mid-20th Century due to construction of the former Kai Tak Airport.

The findings from the Phase 1 Archaeological Work are the physical evidence that provide supplementary historical records from which an understanding of the history of the excavation area and adjacent areas were ascertained. Following proper archaeological recording, the archaeological excavation was conducted down to the sterile layer (except ATP1, part of ATP3 and part of ATP4) thereby allowing comprehensive information to be obtained.

At test pit ATP1, a well (KSH2012 J5) dated to the Song-Yuan Dynasties was identified, which is structurally in very good condition. Given that no construction works are planned in the area adjacent to the well (KSH2012 J5), no impact on the well is anticipated. The well was backfilled to avoid it being exposed to the open air and natural erosion. This is an international practise which is widely adopted in different places such as Mainland China, Europe and America. In addition, a protection zone was also established to facilitate protection and future re-opening excavation works if necessary.

At the test pits ATP3 and ATP4, archaeological remains dated to the Song-Yuan Dynasties were also identified. Given that no construction excavation works are planned in the area of ATP3 and ATP4, no impact on the archaeological deposits was anticipated. After obtaining field data and the completion of recording, they were backfilled in accordance with normal archaeological practice.

An Interim Report, which was prepared to present the preliminary findings of Phase 1 Archaeological Work, was uploaded to Antiquities and Monuments Office (AMO)'s website in April 2014 for public viewing. At that time, handling of artefacts had not been completed.

In September 2013, during the course of construction works of the SCL (TAW-HUH)) under Works Contract 1109, a discovery occurred of over 500 coins (mainly dated to Song Dynasty) at the Launching Shaft Area (LSA), which is located to the west of the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area. The incident was reported to AMO by MTR Corporation Limited (MTRC). AMO initiated and MTRC agreed that an Archaeological Watching Brief (AWB) be arranged at the LSA (referred to as the Phase 2 Archaeological Work). The AWB was then conducted between December 2013 and June 2014 with Licence No. 366 held by Dr Liu Wensuo.

Based on the archaeological discovery identified in the Phase 2 Archaeological Work area, it was considered that the coverage of archaeological discovery might likely be extended outside the LSA. AMO further initiated and MTRC agreed that the AWB should be further expanded to cover the remaining excavation areas of the TKW station (hereafter referred to as the Phase 3 Archaeological Work). A new Licence (Licence No. 371) was obtained by Dr Liu Wensuo. However, the conservation measure such as backfilling of the unearthed archaeological features was not completed within the licensed period. Another Licence (Licence No. 386) was obtained by Dr Liu Wensuo. The Licence included a provision to carry out potential small scale archaeological excavation works at the TKW station that was not planned but considered necessary during detailed design or refinement of construction works. However, during the licensed period, no additional archaeological excavation work was required. The Phase 3 Archaeological Work was conducted between April and September 2014, while the backfilling of the identified archaeological features (as a conservation measure) was conducted between December 2014 and May 2015.

The Phase 2 Archaeological Work area covered an area of approximately 2,800 m^2. Nine trenches were excavated, which provided information that the middle and eastern portions of this area was the levelled mountain body of the former Sacred Hill, without archaeological potential. Therefore the surrounding areas of those test trenches allotted in the middle and east portions of the area were excavated by mechanical excavators under the supervision of the archaeological team from east to west so as to delineate the western foothill of the former Sacred Hill. For the trenches with archaeological deposits at the western portion (i.e. T1, T6, T8 and T11), these were excavated using manual labour under the supervision of the archaeological team.

The Phase 3 Archaeological Work area covered an area of approximately 6,000 m^2. It was divided into four zones (Zones A, B, C and D). Zone A was divided into nine parts (Part 1, Part 2, Part 3a, Part 3b, Part 4, Part 5, Part 6a, Part 6b and Adit B) to suit the site conditions and facilitate the excavation work. To allow for proper recording, some parts of Part 1 were sub-divided to TP1, TP7, TP8 and TP9 (1); the northern part of Part 3a was sub-divided into TP10; and Part 6b was sub-divided into TP11 to TP23); Zone C was also sub-divided into 8 trenches (C-T1, C-T1a, C-T1b, C-T2, C-T3, C-T4, C-T5 and C-T6).

From the findings of the AWB at the Phases 2 and 3 Archeological Work areas, seven layers were identified comprising the fill layer dated to the Mid-20th Century (Layer 1), the Late Qing Dynasty to Republican period (Layer 2) and the

(1) TP2 to TP6 cancelled.

Song-Yuan Dynasties (Layers 3 to 7). Apart from a few re-deposited pre-Qin (770 BC – 221BC) or Western Han Dynasty (206BC – 25 AD) pottery shards from stream deposits, no other finds earlier than the Song Dynasty were identified. A total of 81 archaeological features comprising 28 stone built wall structures, 5 building features, 27 garbage pits/pits, 4 round/square shape wells, 2 water channels, 3 tile built features, 5 stone built column bases, 4 path features, 1 ditch feature and 2 hard surface features were identified from the Phases 2 and 3 Archaeological Work areas. All the features had been disturbed by previous developments to different degrees. The Late Qing Dynasty to Republican period archaeological features comprised 2 stone built wall structures, 1 building feature, 6 garbage pits/pits, 2 wells, 1 water channel feature, 2 path features and 1 ditch feature (Feature Group 4 as mentioned in Table 4.7 of Volume 2). The Song-Yuan Dynasties archaeological features comprised 26 stone built wall structures, 4 building features, 21 garbage pits/pits, 2 wells, 1 water channel feature, 3 tile built features, 5 stone built column base features, 2 path features and 2 hard surface features (Feature Groups 1 to 3 as mentioned in Table 4.7 of Volume 2).

No archaeological feature was unearthed from Layer 1.

Archaeological features found below Layer 1 and Layer 2 were mainly pits and wells and some remains of a building feature that can be dated to the Late Qing Dynasty to Republican period according to the finds identified (Feature Group 4*)*.

Archaeological features found below Layer 4b and Layer 5a (FG1), below Layer 3b and Layer 4a (FG2), as well as below Layer 3a (FG3) comprised remains of building features, wells and pits/garbage pits that can be dated to the Song-Yuan Dynasties (Feature Groups 1 to 3*)*.

Based on the results, it was also confirmed that the middle portion of the AWB area was the levelled former Sacred Hill, without archaeological deposits. The southwest of the AWB area was a section of the former Ma Tau Chung with two sides of river banks revealed.

In terms of statistics, the excavations resulted in records of 5,266 items or 9,718.1 kg of general finds and 1,495 items of special finds were recovered from the Phases 2 and 3 Archaeological Work areas. They comprised ceramic shards, coins, metal fragments (iron and copper), woods, tiles and eaves tiles, stoneware and others. In additional, 156 items of samples (including soil, carbon, coral, wood fragments, shell, stone, bone, plant and components of a red brick well) were also collected during the Archaeological Works for further studies.

The findings of the Phase 2 and 3 Archaeological Works provided information on the history of the former Sacred Hill and the adjacent area. A large quantity of ceramic shards (including a large amount of poor quality ceramic shards and a small amount of high quality ceramic shards) were unearthed and most of them showed signs of being used, which indicated that people have lived at the excavated areas or the adjacent area as early as the Song-Yuan Dynasties. The presence of the Song-Yuan dynasties building features and wells provided further evidence to confirm this.

The findings also confirmed the original landscape of the area. The southwest and northeast areas were at a lower level at the foot hill of the former Sacred Hill and the river banks of the former Ma Tau Chung. The lower level areas such as T1 of Phase 2 Archaeological Work; Part 6b of Zone A, Zone B, C-T1, C-T1a, C-T1b, C-T5 and C-T6 of Zone C and Zone D of Phase 3 Archaeological Work area were found with a large quantity of shards of daily utensils that could date to the Song-Yuan Dynasties. Based on the spatial distribution pattern of archaeological features and finds and the nature of the original landscape, it is possible that these parts of the area were used as a living area for families during the Song-Yuan Dynasties.

The Song-Yuan Dynasties building features unearthed were mostly in the adjacent areas or at the foot hill of the former Sacred Hill. The discovered well KSWT2013 J1 was found next to the building feature (KSWT2013 F3). Due to their same stratigraphic relation, it is possible that the well was an associated feature of KSWT2013 F3.

No traces of human activities observed from the Archaeological Works during the Ming to mid- Qing Dynasties.

Archaeological features and artefacts unearthed in the archaeological works areas after the Song-Yuan Dynasties are dated to the Late Qing Dynasty to Republican period. This indicated that human activities existed again in the archaeological works areas or in adjacent areas of former Sacred Hill area. Human occupation activities associated with inhabitation of this area were later terminated due to demolition of the former Sacred Hill for the construction of the Former Kai Tak Airport in the Mid-20th Century.

The findings of the Phases 2 and 3 Archaeological Works are the physical evidence to provide supplementary historical records to understand the history of the excavated areas and adjacent areas. After proper archaeological recording, the Phases 2 and 3 Archaeological Works reached the surface of the Song-Yuan Dynasties features and were mostly backfilled. To preserve these features, the areas have been backfilled in accordance with international good practices. In addition, protection zones have been established to facilitate protection of the features and enable future re-opening for further archaeological work, if necessary. Also, components of well KSWT2013 J2 were collected during disassembling to allow for future reconstruction.

To conclude, overall the archaeological works have contributed ample evidence to understand the history of the Sacred Hill area and have provided fundamental materials for future academic research and Song-Yuan Dynasties heritage conservation in Hong Kong. Archaeological features of the Song-Yuan Dynasties such as the well KSH2012 J5 and associated features in ATP1 of the Phase 1 Archaeological Work; well KSWT2013 J1, building feature KSWT2013 F3 in the Phase 2 Archaeological Work area; and building features KSWT2013 F4 and F5 in the Phase 3 Archaeological Work area, etc., were also backfilled which allows for future archaeological studies and potential for display for public enjoyment.

As the three Phases of Archaeological Works are related to the former Sacred Hill (North) Study Area, they are interrelated and conducted under the same Project. The artefacts identified were also in large quantity. It is considered more appropriate to consolidate the results into one report so as to show the overall picture of the archaeological works. Due to the extensive amount of information that needs to be presented in this Final Report, the report has been divided into 4 volumes. Volume 1 presents the background, methodology of the archaeological works; Volume 2 discusses the unearthed archaeological features; Volume 3 presents the findings of artefacts, and Volume 4 provides the summary of key findings, interpretations, discussions and conclusions of the archaeological works.

沙田至中環綫-大圍至紅磡段（以下簡稱沙中綫或工程項目）是一條約長11公里、連接西鐵綫紅磡站的馬鞍山綫之延綫，從而形成一條「東西走廊」。 此工程項目根據《環境保護條例》定為指定工程項目。

根據《環境影響評估條例》，沙中綫《環境影響評估報告》(登記冊檔號AEIAR-167/2012)(下稱已審批的環評報告)已於2012年2月獲環境保護署審批，並於2012年3月獲發環境許可證(編號EP-438/2012）。此環境許可證後來曾經修訂，現時的環境許可證(編號EP-438/2012/K)乃於2016年10月批出。

沙中綫之建設分成一系列的土建施工工程合約。 工程合約1109包括土瓜灣站及馬頭圍站的建設，以及貫通何文田站和土瓜灣站的隧道建設及其他附屬設施的建設。工程合約1109於2012年7月授予三星新昌聯營公司負責施工。

由於工程合約1109的施工將會影響前聖山（北）研究範圍內潛在的考古資源，因此，已審批的環評報告建議進行考古調查暨發掘及額外調查工作（第一期考古工作）。香港環境資源管理顧問有限公司受三星新昌聯營公司委託，由劉文鎖博士持有《挖掘及搜尋古物牌照》(牌照編號342及363)並主導第一期考古工作的田野考古發掘。第一期考古工作的田野工作在2012年11月至2013年12月期間進行，覆蓋面積大約有14,500平方米。

是次發掘以方格系統進行發掘。為了更清晰記錄及按實際情況，發掘時部分方格相連了。最終應用了的方格系統，可見於本報告，卷一之圖2.1a。

第一期考古工作考古發掘共發現了三個地層，包括了形成於20世紀中期的墊土層（第1層）、晚清民國時期地層（第2層）和宋元時期地層（第3層）。是次發掘共發現了238個[1]考古遺蹟，年代跨越宋元時期到晚清民國至20世紀中期。所有發現的遺蹟都因現代九龍城地區的城市化與機場之發展而受到不同程度的擾亂。晚清民國至20世紀中葉的考古遺蹟（詳列在本報告卷2表格4.6的遺蹟分組4到5），包括7處石砌牆基遺蹟、4處房屋建築遺蹟、148條溝狀遺蹟、33座化糞池/垃圾坑/灰坑/大灰坑遺蹟、4口圓形井。宋元時期考古遺蹟（遺蹟分組1到3），包括1處石砌牆基遺蹟、3處房屋建築遺蹟、3條溝狀遺蹟、14座化糞池/垃圾坑/灰坑遺蹟、2口井、3座窯以及16座墓葬遺蹟。其中的一口井KSH2012 J4建於宋元時期，後來被廢棄，至晚清民國期間被重新使用。

(1) 化糞池/垃圾坑/灰坑 KSH2012 H23及H25 已取消。而根據地層關係，J4井則被算為2口井。因此第一期考古工作範圍發現的考古遺蹟總數由239改為238。此外，第一期考古工作範圍發現的考古遺蹟之統計和分析結果在2014年4月之中期報告和最終報告所陳出的有分別。

在第1層內發現的考古遺蹟是石砌牆基，它們與20世紀中期的沿岸填海工程有關(遺蹟分組5)。

在第1層下及第2a至2d層下發現的考古遺蹟主要與當時的農業活動有關，如壟溝、化糞池/垃圾坑/灰坑/大灰坑和井，還有一些建築遺蹟的基址或石砌牆基。根據發現的遺物來推斷，它們的年代在晚清到民國時期（遺蹟分組4)。

在第3a、 3b及3d層下發現的考古遺蹟包括房屋遺蹟、石砌牆基、井、窯、墓葬和灰坑/垃圾坑，其年代在宋元時期（遺蹟分組1到3)。

此外，根據發掘結果，第一期考古工作區的南部和東南部為填海前的九龍灣海域，沒有發現任何考古遺存。

數據方面，第一期考古工作結果共發現了14,746項或23,696.7公斤普通遺物和登記了6,514項重要器物。它們包括了陶瓷器、錢幣、金屬器（鐵和銅）、瓦和瓦當、石製品和石碑、玻璃器、磚、塑膠、木頭等。此外，發掘進行期間還採集了398項標本，包括土樣、木頭碎塊、石頭、骨頭、木炭、貝殼、珊瑚、灰燼、煤塊和水泥以作將來研究和分析之用。

這次發掘結果為第一期考古工作區的歷史研究提供了實物資料。大量存有使用痕跡的陶瓷器的發現，包括大量質量較差和少量相對較高質量的陶瓷器碎片，反映了第一期考古工作區及附近區域早在宋元時期已經有人居住。而在發掘地點所發現的宋元時期房屋遺蹟提供了進一步的實物材料作為佐證。

第一期考古工作區的原地貌是北高西高，然後地勢自北向南、自西向東逐步遞減。地勢較低的低窪區域如探方TP93 及TP102至TP103內發現大量宋元時期的日用陶瓷器物碎片。根據遺蹟及遺物之分佈空間及原地貌特徵，在宋元時期，第一期考古工作區有發現遺蹟及遺物的地方可能是當時在九龍灣畔聚落的居住區邊緣，以及居民傾倒垃圾的地方。這個發現與工程項目的已審批的環評報告中的結論指出這裡曾用作墓葬區、居住區和傾倒垃圾的地方不謀而合。

是次發掘所發現的宋元時期墓葬大部分都是呈不規則形，墓坑較淺，隨葬品少，這些墓葬可能是因較為倉促的埋葬而成。若干年後，當這個墓葬區廢棄後，人們開始在此區域建造房子，並居住於此。

在清代晚期，人們開始在第一期考古工作區進行農耕活動。而這種農耕活動因為1920年代至20世紀中期的城市化和啟德機場發展而逐漸消失。到了20世紀中期，前啟德機場的發展、建設和填海工程，使這些房屋、井、海堤也被掩埋。

第一期考古工作區的發掘結果為了解發掘地點及隣近地方的歷史提供了實物資料。在完成適當的考古記錄後，除了探坑ATP1、部分的ATP3及部分的ATP4以外，是次發掘進行至生土層以取得完整的考古資料。

在探坑ATP1發現了屬於宋元時期且保存狀況良好的井KSH2012 J5。由於KSH2012 J5井及其周邊區域均沒有計劃挖掘工程，因此不會受到施工的影響，所以KSH2012 J5井已回填，以免其暴露於空氣和受到自然侵蝕。這是一個國際上廣泛使用的保護方法，在中國內地、歐洲及美洲很常見。另外，在回填後，設立了一個保護區，以便更好的保護KSH2012 J5井，并為將來需要重新開挖時提供條件。

在探坑ATP3及ATP4也發現了宋元時期的遺存。由於ATP3及ATP4區域沒有計劃挖掘工程，所以考古堆積不會受到施工的影響。因此，在完成發掘取得田野資料及完成記錄工作後，已根據考古規程將之回填。

在尚未全部完成文物整理的情況下，考古隊上交了一份關於第一期考古工作初步發現的中期報告，並在2014年4月被上傳至古物古蹟辦事處的網頁上，以供公眾查閱。

2013年9月，香港鐵路有限公司(下稱港鐵)向古物古蹟辦事處匯報，在沙中綫工程合約1109九龍城土瓜灣站第一期考古工作區以西的豎井區域施工期間，發現了500多枚銅錢，主要為宋代圓形方孔錢幣。古物古蹟辦事處提出，並在港鐵公司同意後，對豎井區域進行考古監察工作（第二期考古工作)。這項考古監察工作由劉文鎖博士持牌（牌照編號366），於2013年12月至2014年6月期間進行。

根據第二期考古工作的考古發現，考古發現之覆蓋範圍很可能向外延伸至豎井範圍外。古物古蹟辦事處再次提出並在港鐵公司同意下，擴大考古監察工作以覆蓋整個土瓜灣站的挖掘範圍（第三期考古工作)。劉文鎖博士為此考古監察工作取得新牌照（牌照編號371），但因保護措施(如對回填已發現的考古遺蹟)未能於牌照有效期間完成，劉文鎖博士再為完成工作取得牌照(牌照編號386）。此牌照亦容許在土瓜灣站範圍進行一些沒有預計，但在詳細設計或因施工而作出修改,又認為有需要進行的小型的考古發掘工作。不過，在牌照有效期間，並沒有需要進行這額外的考古工作。第三期考古工作於2014年4月至9月期間進行。作為保護措施的考古遺蹟回填工作則在2014年12月至2015年5月完成。

第二期考古工作的覆蓋範圍約2,800平方米，共發掘了9座探方並了解到第二期考古工作範圍的中部及東部為已被移平的前聖山山體部份，這些位置並沒有考古潛質。因此，座落在中部及東部的探方附近範圍，由考古隊監察下，以挖土機由東至西發掘，以確定前聖山西面山腳位置。西部有考古潛質之探方(即T1, T6, T8及T11)則由考古隊帶領以人手發掘。

第三期考古工作的覆蓋範圍約為6,000平方米，分為4個區域（分別為A區、B區、C區及D區)，A區按實際情況及發掘工作分為9個部分（部分1, 部分2, 部分3a, 部分3b, 部分4, 部分5, 部分6a, 部分6b 及通風口B部分)；為更配合記錄工作，部分1之某些範圍再分為探方TP1, TP7, TP8及TP9 [(1)]；

(1) 探方TP2至探方TP6已取消.

部分3a北再分為探方TP10; 及部分6a分為探方TP11 至探方TP23; C區亦分為8個探方(C-T1, C-T1a, C-T1b, C-T2, C-T3, C-T4, C-T5及C-T6)。

在第二期及第三期考古工作區的考古監察工作共發現了七個地層，包括了形成於20世紀中期的墊土層（第1層）、晚清民國時期地層（第2層）和宋元時期地層（第3層至7層）。除了少量發現於河涌、屬二次堆積的先秦（公元前770年至公元前221年）和西漢時期（公元前206年至公元25年）的陶片外，沒有發現比宋代更早的遺蹟、遺物。是次考古工作共發現了81個考古遺蹟，包括28處石砌牆基遺蹟、5座房屋建築遺蹟、27座垃圾坑/灰坑遺蹟、4口圓形/方形井、2條水渠、3處瓦礫堆積、5個石砌柱礎、4處道路遺蹟、1條溝狀遺蹟以及2處硬面遺蹟。所有發現的遺蹟都因昔日之發展已受不同程度的擾亂。晚清民國時期的考古遺蹟包括2處石砌牆基遺蹟、1座房屋建築遺蹟、6座垃圾坑/灰坑遺蹟、2口井、1條水渠、2處道路遺蹟以及1條溝狀遺蹟（詳列在本報告卷2表格4.7的遺蹟分組4)。宋元時期考古遺蹟包括26處石砌牆基遺蹟、4座房屋建築遺蹟、21座垃圾坑/灰坑遺蹟、2口井、1條水渠、3處瓦礫堆積、5個石砌柱礎、2處道路遺蹟以及2處硬面遺蹟(詳列在本報告卷2表格4.7的遺蹟分組1到3)。

在第1層沒有發現任何遺蹟。

在第1層及第2層下發現的考古遺蹟主要為灰坑及井，還有一些建築遺蹟的殘存部份。根據發現的遺物來推斷，它們的年代在晚清到民國時期(遺蹟分組4)。

在第4b層及5a層下(遺蹟分組1) 、第3b層及4a層下(遺蹟分組2)以及第3a層下(遺蹟分組3)發現的遺蹟包括房屋、井和灰坑/垃圾坑，其年代在宋元時期（遺蹟分組1到3)。

此外，根據結果顯示，考古工作區的中部為已被移平的前聖山山體區，並沒有考古遺存。而發掘區西南部為前馬頭涌的部分河床及其兩岸。

數據方面，第二期及第三期考古工作共發現了5,266項或9,718.1公斤普通器物和登記了1,495 項重要器物。它們包括了陶瓷器、錢幣、金屬器（鐵及銅）、木頭、瓦和瓦當、石製品等。此外，考古工作進行期間還採集了156項標本，包括土樣、木炭、珊瑚、木頭、貝殼、石頭、骨頭、植物和紅磚井組件以作將來研究、分析之用。

第二期及第三期考古工作的結果為前聖山地區及附近區域的歷史研究提供了實物資料。大量的陶瓷器的發現，包括大量質量較差和少數較高質量的陶瓷器碎片，反映了考古工作區域及附近區域早在宋元時期已經有人居住。而在考古工作區域所發現的宋元時期的房屋遺蹟及井，提供了進一步展開考古學和歷史研究的實物材料。

考古工作結果亦確定了考古工作區西南及東北區的原地貌，是前聖山山腳以及前馬頭涌兩岸地勢較低部分。這些低平區域如第二期考古工作區

內的T1和第三期考古工作A6b區、B區、C區的C-T1、C-T1a、C-T1b、C-T5、C-T6以及D區內，發現了大量的屬於宋元時期的日用器物碎片，根據遺蹟及遺物之分佈空間及原地貌特徵，在宋元時期，考古工作區域的低平區域及其附近可能是屬於當時的居住區。

是次考古工作所發現的宋元時期居住遺蹟大多分佈於前聖山山腳地帶。其中，KSWT2013 J1井發現於建築遺蹟KSWT2013 F3旁，根據它們相同地層關係， KSWT2013 J1井可能是建築遺蹟KSWT2013 F3的附屬設施。

此次考古工作未發現任何屬於明代至清代中期的人類活動的遺跡和遺物。

宋元時期之後所發現的遺蹟和遺物屬晚清民國時期，此發現表示人類活動在考古工作區及附近區域再次出現。其後持續到20世紀中期，人類居住活動因為在前聖山地區的啟德機場建設而終止。

第二期及第三期考古工作結果為了解發掘地點和附近區域的歷史提供了實物資料。在完成詳細的考古記錄後，大部分的宋元遺蹟已回填。為了保護這些遺蹟，遺蹟及其周邊部分做已回填，此仍按國際的良好做法而行。在回填後，設立了保護區，以便更好的保護這些宋元遺蹟，并為將來若有需要重新開挖提供條件。另外，KSWT2013 J2井在得到完整的記錄後，對其全部組件做了記錄性拆除，并予以妥善收集和保存，以使將來必要時得以重建。

1 INTRODUCTION

1.1 BACKGROUND

1.1.1 Project Background of Phase 1 Archaeological Work

The Shatin to Central Link – Tai Wai to Hung Hom Section (hereafter referred to as SCL (TAW-HUH) or the Project) is an approximately 11 km long extension of the Ma On Shan Line and connects the West Rail Line at Hung Hom forming a strategic east-west rail corridor. It is a Designated Project under the Environmental Impact Assessment Ordinance (Cap. 499) (EIAO).

The Environmental Impact Assessment Report of the SCL (TAW-HUH) (Register No. AEIAR-167/2012) was approved by the Environmental Protection Department (EPD) under the EIAO in February 2012 (hereafter referred to as the approved EIA Report). An Environmental Permit (EP-438/2012) (EP) was issued in March 2012. The EP has been varied subsequently and the current EP (EP-438/2012/ K) was issued in October 2016.

As the Project will have impact on the potential archaeological resources survived in the Sacred Hill (North) Study Area as identified in the approved EIA Report, it is recommended to carry out archaeological survey-cum-excavation and additional investigation at the Sacred Hill (North) Study Area (hereafter referred to as Phase 1 Archaeological Work) (see Figure 1.1).

The construction of the Project has been divided into a series of Civil Construction Works Contracts and Works Contract 1109 covers the construction of To Kwa Wan station (hereafter referred to as TKW station) and Ma Tau Wai (MTW) station, and tunnels between the TKW and Ho Man Tin (HOM) stations and the associated structures. Work Contract 1109 was awarded to Samsung-Hsin Chong Joint Venture (SSHCJV) in July 2012. The Phase 1 Archaeological Work is covered under this Civil Construction Works Contract. ERM-Hong Kong, Limited (ERM) has been commissioned by the SSHCJV to conduct the Phase 1 Archaeological Work.

An Archaeological Action Plan (AAP) was prepared by ERM and approved by the Antiquities and Monuments Office (AMO) in September 2012 before the commencement of the Phase 1 Archaeological Work in order to fulfill the requirement of EP. The Licence to Excavate and Search for Antiquities (the Licence) was issued on 29 October 2012 (Licence No. 342) to Dr Liu Wensuo, and was renewed in October 2013 (Licence No. 363). The fieldworks of the Phase 1 Archaeological Work were conducted between November 2012 and December 2013.

An Interim Report presenting the key findings of the Phase 1 Archaeological Work had been prepared and uploaded on the AMO website in April 2014 for public viewing. However, due to the huge quantity of artefacts unearthed, the finds process has not been completed when the Interim Report was prepared and issued.

1.1.2 Project Background of Phase 2 Archaeological Work

In September 2013, during the course of Phase 1 Archaeological Work, over 500 coins (mainly dated to Song (宋) Dynasty) were discovered by the construction workers at the Launching Shaft Area (LSA) which is located to the west of the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area and the incident was reported to AMO by MTR Corporation Limited (MTRC). AMO initiated and MTRC agreed that an Archaeological Watching Brief (AWB) be arranged at the LSA (hereafter referred to as the Phase 2 Archaeological Work) (see Figure 1.2). An AWB Proposal was prepared by ERM and approved by the AMO and the new Licence (Licence No. 366) was obtained by Dr Liu Wensuo who directed the fieldwork. The Phase 2 Archaeological Work was conducted between December 2013 and June 2014.

1.1.3 Project Background of Phase 3 Archaeological Work

Based on the archaeological discovery identified at the LSA, it was considered that the coverage of archaeological discovery might likely be extended outside the LSA. An AWB for the remaining excavation areas of the entire TKW station was considered necessary to salvage the archaeological deposits that might be potentially impacted by the excavation works of the entire TKW station. AMO further initiated and MTRC agreed that the AWB shall be further expanded to cover the remaining excavation areas of the TKW station (hereafter referred to as the Phase 3 Archaeological Work) (see Figure 1.2). Another AWB Proposal was prepared by ERM and approved by the AMO and a new Licence (Licence No. 371) was obtained by Dr Liu Wensuo. However, the conservation measure such as backfilling of the archaeological features unearthed was not completed within the licensed period. As a result, another AWB Proposal was prepared by ERM and approved by the AMO and the Licence (Licence No. 386) was obtained by Dr Liu Wensuo. This Licence has included a provision to carry out potential small scale archaeological excavation works at the TKW station that was not planned but considered necessary during detailed design or refinement of construction works. However, during the licensed period, no additional archaeological excavation work was required. The Phase 3 Archaeological Work was conducted between April and September 2014, while the backfilling of the identified archaeological features (as conservation measure) was conducted between December 2014 and May 2015.

This Final Archaeological Excavation Report (hereafter referred to as the Final Report) of the three Phases of Archaeological Works at the former Sacred Hill for the Shatin to Central Link Tai Wai to Hung Hom Section Works Contract 1109- Stations and Tunnels of Kowloon City Section presents the findings of all three Phases of Archaeological Works in order to provide an overall assessment of the findings and archaeological condition of the former Sacred Hill area.

1.2 ARCHAEOLOGICAL TEAM MEMBERS

The key team members participated in the Archaeological Works include:

Ms Peggy Wong	Project Manager/ Experienced Archaeologist
Dr Liu Wensuo	Licensed Archaeologist
Mr Raymond Ng	Experienced Archaeologist/ Ceramic Expert
Dr Jin Zhiwei	Experienced Archaeologist
Dr Liu Wei	Experienced Archaeologist/ Ceramic Expert
Dr Guo Lixin	Experienced Archaeologist
Dr Yao Chongxin	Experienced Archaeologist
Ms Chen Chong	Experienced Archaeologist/ Ceramic Expert
Dr Liu Miao	Experienced Archaeologist/ Ceramic Expert
Ms Yuan Quan	Experienced Archaeologist/ Ceramic Expert
Dr Wang Guanyu	Experienced Archaeologist/ Ceramic Expert

In addition to the above key professional members, the following field archaeologists/field assistants were employed to support the team:

Ms Kitty Liu, Mr Alan Chan, Mr Edward Chiu, Mr Justin Ho, Mr Nicky Chan, Ms Vivian Lau, Mr William Sin, Mr Chan Ping Fai, Ms Maggie Chen and Ms Tracy Wong, Ms Jada Ko, Ms Jenny Wong, Ms Oscar So, Mr Ricky Mak, Mr Ng Tung Leung, Mr Nick Lam, Mr Leo Kwan, Ms So Shuk Wai, Mr Lau Yiu Ming, Mr Alex Cheung, Mr Jacko Pang, Mr Sherman Wong, Mr Charles Wong, Mr Chris Yau and Ms Emily Yau.

They assisted the experienced archaeologists in supervising the field excavation, taking the field records, and handling and processing the finds.

In addition to the above team members, about 20 to 50 workers were involved in different stages of the fieldwork to assist the excavation.

Finds processing was led by Dr Liu Wensuo, Mr Raymond Ng and Dr Liu Wei who were supported by the experienced archaeologists/ceramic experts including Dr Wang Guanyu, Dr Yuan Quan, Dr Liu Miao and Ms Chen Chong; assistant archaeologists including Mr Alan Chan, Mr Nicky Chan, Ms Vivian Lau; and field assistants including Ms Jenny Wong, Mr Justin Ho, Ms Tracy Wong, Ms Maggie Chen, Mr Chan Ping Fai, Ms Oscar So, Mr Ricky Mak, Mr Ng Tung Leung, Mr Nick Lam and Mr Lau Yiu Ming.

Co-authors of this Final Report include: Dr Liu Wensuo, Mr Raymond Ng, Dr Liu Wei, Ms Peggy Wong and Ms Kitty Liu.

Maps and drawings for this Final Report were produced by Ms Kitty Liu, Mr Nicky Chan, Mr Alan Chan, Mr Chan Ping Fai and Mr Raymond Ng as well as ERM's in-house GIS & Graphics Team.

1.3 ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

During the Archaeological Works, experts in the field had been invited to the Site or being consulted to share their knowledge on various findings. They provided valuable information on the subject. We would like to take this opportunity to thank all of them for their time to visit the Site, review the finds and respond to our enquiries and share their information with us, in particular the following individuals.

1.4 STRUCTURE OF THIS REPORT

Due to the extensive findings of the Archaeological Works, this Final Report is divided into four Volumes:

Volume 1 presents the background information, objectives and methodology, and topographical, geological, archaeological and historical background of the former Sacred Hill area;

Volume 2 presents the stratigraphy and features unearthed from the Archaeological Works;

Volume 3 presents the finds unearthed from the Archaeological Works; and Volume 4 presents the conclusions, interpretations and recommendations.

Following this introductory section, the remainder of this Volume 1 of the Final Report comprises the following sections:

Section 2 presents the objectives and methodology; and

Section 3 presents the topographical, geological, archaeological and historical background of the former Sacred Hill area.

This Volume 1 of the Final Report is supported by the following Annexes:

2 OBJECTIVES AND METHODOLOGY

2.1 OBJECTIVES

2.1.1 Phase 1 Archaeological Work

Phase 1 Archaeological Work was divided into two main parts: the archaeological survey-cum-excavation (ASE) and additional investigation (known as Green Area).

The objective of the ASE is to conduct full scale archaeological excavation to salvage impacted archaeological materials in the Sacred Hill (North) Study Area and preserve them by record prior to the commencement of the construction of the TKW station and the associated structures.

The objective of the additional investigation is to demarcate the archaeological potential of the two Green Areas indicated in Appendix 4.6 of the approved EIA Report (see Figure 2.1a) such that mitigation measures (if required) could be formulated based on the findings of the investigation.

2.1.2 Phases 2 and 3 Archaeological Works

The objectives of the Phases 2 and 3 Archaeological Works are to conduct an AWB at the LSA (Phase 2 Archaeological Work) and an AWB at the excavation areas of the TKW station (Phase 3 Archaeological Work) to ensure that any archaeological resources identified in the course of the excavation are adequately recorded and recovered and appropriate measures are taken on site.

2.2 SCOPE

2.2.1 Phase 1 Archaeological Work

The ASE area and additional investigation comprised excavation of three test pits (ATP1, ATP3 and ATP4) within the Green Areas which covered approximately 14,500 m^2 as shown in Figure 2.1a.

2.2.2 Phase 2 Archaeological Work

Phase 2 Archaeological Work covered the LSA of the TKW station (with the size of about 70m long x 40m wide) where a Tunnel Boring Machine (TBM) Launching Shaft would be constructed for launching and retrieval of the TBM (see Figure 2.1b).

2.2.3 Phase 3 Archaeological Work

Phase 3 Archaeological Work covered four main excavation areas of the TKW station, Zones A to D, as shown in Figure 2.1b and discussed below.

Zone A

This is the excavation area between the Phase 1 and Phase 2 Archaeological Work areas. This area would be excavated for the construction of the TKW station. In addition, an Adit B is located to the north of Zone A which is a subway connecting the TKW station to the entrance at Nam Kok Road. Part of this adit falls within the archaeological work boundary while the remaining part of this adit either cross underneath the existing public road or the existing Sung Wong Toi Playground.

Zone B

This portion is the proposed Ventilation Shaft of the TKW station.

Zone C

Zone C is related to the construction of Adit C which is a subway connecting the TKW station to the entrance at Pak Tai Street. Part of the adit falls within the archaeological work boundary while remaining part of the Adit crosses underneath the existing Sung Wong Toi Road.

Zone D

During the Phase 3 Archaeological Work, as the archaeological features identified in Zone B and Zone C showed that they extend over to the area between Zone B and Zone C (referred to as Zone D) (see Figure 2.1b), AMO initiated and MTRC agreed that the AWB would be extended to Zone D.

2.3 METHODOLOGY

Upon the approval of the AAP and AWB Proposals by the AMO and receipt of the Licenses for the Archaeological Works under the Antiquities and Monuments Ordinance by the qualified archaeologist, Dr Liu Wensuo, the following tasks were conducted.

2.3.1 Task 1 – Setting out the Site boundary

Phase 1 Archaeological Work Area:

Qualified land surveyor(s) set out the site the boundary of ASE and locations of the proposed test pits in the Green Areas.

Phases 2 and 3 Archaeological Work Areas:

Prior to the initiation of Phases 2 and 3 Archaeological Works, the sheet pile or pipe piles construction works at the LSA, Adit C and the Ventilation Shaft have been completed according to the design of the TKW station. Therefore, the sheet piled or pipe piled boundaries of the LSA, Adit C and the Ventilation Shaft defined the boundaries for the Phase 2 Archaeological Work Area, Phase 3 Archaeological Work Area Zone C, and Phase 3 Archaeological Work Area Zone B, respectively. Setting out of the AWB boundaries at these areas was therefore not required.

For Phase 3 Archaeological Work Area Zone A and Zone D areas, qualified land surveyor(s) marked on site the north and south boundaries.

2.3.2 Task 2 – ASE and AWB Field Monitoring

Phase 1 Archaeological Work Area:

Task 2a - Mechanical Excavation of Topsoil

Based on the findings of the previous archaeological excavation as listed in Table 3.1 which was conducted to the immediate north of the Phase 1 Archaeological Work, the cultural layer is located approximately between 1.5m and 4.4m below the existing ground level (bgl). The topsoil/fill soil (with no archaeological potential, approximately 1.4m thick subject to site condition) within the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area and the concrete slab and fill soil of the proposed test pits in the Green Areas were excavated using mechanical equipment . The mechanical excavation process was monitored by the archaeological team to ensure the mechanical excavation work was carried out within the defined depth. If any archaeological deposits were identified within the top soil/fill soil layer, manual excavation was used to record and recover the finds in these areas.

As some excavation areas reached over 4.4m bgl, a 4.5m (horizontal distance) from the ASE boundary was reserved in order to form a safe temporary slope for open excavation. Since Song-Yuan (宋元) Dynasties archaeological features were identified at the northwest area of the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area which extended into the temporary slope area, the archaeological excavation was then enlarged toward the temporary slope area. TP EA1 was combined into Grid TP90 and two more grids, TP EA2 and TP EA3 were allocated to cover the temporary slope area with archaeological deposits (see Figure 2.1a).

For the test pits excavation in the Green Areas, appropriate safety measures (including sloping or benching of the walls of the pits) were adopted.

Task 2b - Archaeological Survey-cum-Excavation

Upon removal of the concrete slab and top/fill soil down to approximately 1.4m bgl and forming a temporary slope, the excavation grids, as indicated in Figure 2.1a, were set out by qualified land surveyors.

The ASE was divided into three stages. Stage 1 excavation was allotted with twenty nos. of 5m x 5m grids (TP1 to TP20) (1) distributed over the Stages 2 and 3 excavation areas. Stages 2 and 3 excavations were demarcated by an existing modern drainage box culvert in the ASE area (see Figure 2.1a). The drainage box culvert is a deep reinforced concrete structure that had destroyed any surviving archaeological deposits when it was constructed. Stage 2 excavation area covered the area to the east of the box culvert while Stage 3 excavation area covered the area to the west. A 10m x 10m grids system was established for the excavation with grids numbers allotted from TP21 to TP164 (2) (see Figure 2.1a).

(1) TP1 combined as TP71.

(2) Some grids were combined or in irregular shape to suit site condition during the course of excavation.

Stage 1 Archaeological Survey

Stage 1 archaeological survey was conducted to identify the depth of cultural layer, if exist, in different locations within the ASE area such that the excavation strategies/sequence for Stages 2 and 3 excavations could be determined. This also enabled the identification of the original coastline and extent of the abandoned drainage nullah constructed by the Japanese (hereafter referred to as the former nullah) during their occupation period (see Figure 2.1a). The former nullah was constructed deep down below the existing ground by open cut excavation which would have destroyed any surviving archaeological deposits when it was constructed (1).

During Stage 1 archaeological survey, Stages 2 and 3 excavations were carried out concurrently under the following circumstances:

- Identification of archaeological deposits or features extended outside the Stage 1 grid into the Stage 2 or Stage 3 grids;
- Inadequate data can be obtained from the Stage 1 grids regarding the presence of archaeological deposits;
- Larger size grids required for deeper excavation due to safety consideration; and
- Presence of underground utilities or excavation reached underground water level that constrained the grids excavation or deeper excavation.

Stages 2 and 3 Excavations

Based on the findings of the Stage 1 archaeological survey, it was found that the top/fill soil layer is thicker than originally anticipated (i.e. 1.4m bgl). As a result, mechanical excavation was adopted at where the fill soil was found deeper than 1.4m. The work progress was monitored by the archaeological team to ensure that the cultural layer would not be disturbed.

As certain quantity of archaeological deposits were identified in grids TP13, TP15, TP16, TP18 of the Stage 1 archaeological survey, excavation for the adjacent grids (part of the Stage 2 or Stage 3 excavation) was then radiated out from these grids. In those areas of the Stage 1 archaeological survey without deposits identified, the excavation was conducted at selective grids in adjacent areas to obtain field data to confirm the extent of the area without archaeological deposits and thus mechanical excavation under the supervision of the archaeological team can be adopted. All the grids with archaeological deposits were excavated and to the archaeological deposits discovered were properly recorded and completely recovered.

With reference to the findings of the archaeological survey-cum-excavation which was carried out for a Drainage Services Department (DSD) Pumping

(1) Based on Contract Drawing no. 1109/TSUW/SHJ/C06/124, the maximum depth of the nullah running through the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area was about 8m bgl, which is well below the anticipated cultural layer within the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area. Any artefact in the nullah area would be destroyed during the construction of the nullah.

Station (1) between 2009 and 2010, The DSD Pumping Station is located to the northwest of the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area, the former nullah ran across the DSD Pumping Station site (see Figure 1.1) and the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area (see Figure 2.1a). As the construction of the former nullah has completely destroyed the archaeological deposits along the alignment of the nullah, archaeological excavation within the former nullah was considered not necessary. The archaeological excavation therefore terminated at the edge of the former nullah. The results from several grids assigned to define the boundary of the former nullah confirmed that no archaeological deposits were found in that area. The edge of the former nullah as shown in Figure 2.1a was excavated manually and assisted by the use of hydraulic backhoe(s) under the supervision of the archaeological team. For area identified with no archaeological potential under the Stage 1 archaeological survey area, the areas were mechanically excavated under the supervision of the archaeological team to fulfil the requirement of the approved EIA report.

A number of grids (TP10, TP14, TP17, TP19 and TP20) were allocated in the south or southeast portion of the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area to identify the original coastline based on the available information from historical geological maps. The original coastline was determined based on the identification of onshore and coastal deposits/seabed sediments such as coarse sand or natural shells. Subject to the site condition, the south or southeast area from the original coastline was likely the sea or low flat intertidal areas where archaeological potential is very low and limited to secondary deposits or random deposits. Upon AMO agreement, archaeological excavation continued for the other areas by using both mechanical equipment and manual handling under the supervision of the archaeological team and findings are properly recorded.

During the grid excavation, approximately 1-2m wide baulks (vertical cross-sections of the standing side of the excavation unit) were allowed between grids for observation and control of stratigraphy and for recording purpose. For those grids where archaeological features covered more than one grid, the concerned baulks were excavated in order to expose the whole archaeological features for recording. For those areas confirmed with no archaeological deposits, the baulks were not excavated.

To facilitate better and clearer recording and suit the site condition, Stage 1 Grids TP1 to TP20 had been combined with Stages 2 and 3 Grids (see Figure 2.1a). Where considered appropriate, some of the grids were also combined. Figure 2.1a presented the final grid system adopted for the excavation.

Task 2c – Additional Investigation (Green Areas)

The Green Areas comprised three test pits (ATP1, ATP3 and ATP4). ATP1 was eventually combined with ATP2 covering an area of approximately 150m2 due to the following reasons:

(1) Please refer to 2009-2010 archaeological survey-cum-excavation in Table 3.1 for details.

- The actual protection area of the adjacent DSD Pumping Station was larger than it was shown on the drawings and concrete blocks were placed outside the protection area as the buffer area that cannot be removed.

- Due to safety consideration, set back of 1.5m to 2m from the concrete blocks were required. As a result, the originally proposed ATP1 and ATP2 locations could not be conducted since they fall within the safety boundary.

ATP3 and ATP4 were 5m x 5m test pits. Due to the north temporary safety slope of the ASE has been extended to the north for the archaeological excavation up to the boundary of the ASE in this area, the locations of ATP3 and ATP4 were adjusted.

Upon removal of the concrete slab and fill soil, those three pits were excavated manually under the supervision of the archaeological team. Slope safety protection measures (sloping of walls of pits or benching) were adopted. Identified archaeological deposits were collected and recorded.

Phases 2 and 3 Archaeological Work Areas:

Task 2d –Top Soil Layer

Based on the findings of desktop study, the previous archaeological findings in the adjacent areas and data obtained from the Phase 1 Archaeological Work, it was estimated that the depth of the top soil layer is approximately 1.2 to 1.5m bgl. This top soil layer was excavated by mechanical excavator(s) under the supervision of the archaeological team to ensure that there would be no over excavation to archaeological potential area.

Fill Layer

Phase 2 Archaeological Work Area

After removal of the top soil layer, test trenches T2, T4, T5, T12[(1)] were allocated in the LSA area to examine the archaeological potential at different areas. Focus was placed first to the areas considered having no or lower archaeological potential (i.e. the eastern part of LSA) which could avoid to disrupt archaeological potential deposits due to over excavation. Test trench T1 was also excavated at the southern part of the LSA to examine stratigraphy and the presence of any cultural layer of the area. As the west foothill slope of the former Sacred Hill was identified from T1 and the areas with no archaeological potential area were confirmed from the test trenches at the eastern part of the LSA, the fill layer of the whole site was then excavated to reach the surface of the next layer (either the sterile layer at the eastern part of LSA or Late Qing (清) Dynasty to Republican Period layer) mainly using mechanical excavator under the supervision of archaeological team with occasional manual labour support,

(1) T2 and T3 were combined as T2. T7 and T9 were cancelled

when appropriate. When the cultural layer was reached, the excavation was carried out by manual method.

In order to identify the west foothill slope which assisted to define area with or without archaeological potential, the fill layer was excavated from the east to west.

After completion of the excavation of the west foothill alignment that differentiated area with or without archaeological deposit, the western part of LSA with archaeological potential was then allotted with 4 test pits T1, T6, T8 and T11 from south to north, respectively (see Figure 2.1b). Then full manual excavation was conducted under the supervision of the archaeological team. Upon identification of archaeological features, AMO was informed for site inspection and agreed on the appropriate follow up actions. Except T1, the remaining areas (i.e. T6, T8 and T11 with limited archaeological deposits) were excavated to sterile layer.

Phase 3 Archaeological Work Area

For Phase 3 Archaeological Work Area, four zones (Zones A, B, C and D) were excavated concurrently.

Zone A was divided into nine parts (Part 1, Part 2, Part 3a, Part 3b, Part 4, Part 5, Part 6a, Part 6b and Adit B) to suit site condition and facilitate the excavation work. To allow for proper recording, some parts of Part 1 was sub-divided to TP1, TP7, TP8 and TP9 [(1)]; the northern part of Part 3a was sub-divided into TP10; and Part 6b was sub-divided into TP11 to TP23). The excavation commenced from south to north as the south portion was confirmed to be the mountain body of the former Sacred Hill with no archaeological potential after excavation. Based on the stratigraphy information of ATP1 of the Phase 1 Archaeological Work, the fill layer of northern area of Zone A adjacent to ATP1 of Phase 1 Archaeological Work was removed by mechanical excavator under the supervision of the archaeological team. From the excavation result, it was confirmed that this area was the former Sacred Hill area.

Since Zone B was located next to T1 of the Phase 2 Archaeological Work, the top soil/ fill layer up to surface of cultural layer was removed by mechanical excavators under the supervision of the archaeological team with reference to the soil profile information of T1.

Since Zone C was located next to Zone B, the top soil/ fill layer up to surface of cultural layer was removed by mechanical excavators under supervision of the archaeological team with reference to the soil profile information of Zone B.

When Zones B and C reached surface of Song-Yuan Dynasties layer, the archaeological features identified from these Zones showed the intention to extend towards the area between Zones B and C (known as Zone D). As a result, AMO initiated and MTRC agreed that Zone D be excavated to further examine the archaeological feature.

(1) TP2 to TP6 cancelled.

From Layer 2 below the fill layer, Zones A to D, were excavated manually layer by layer until reaching the archaeological features of the Song-Yuan Dynasties.

For areas with no archaeological potential, the excavation reached sterile layer. For areas with the Song-Yuan Dynasties layer, the excavation was terminated at the surface of the Song-Yuan Dynasties features in order to expose the features.

2.3.3 Task 3 - Field Recording

The site codes assigned for the Phase 1, and Phases 2 and 3 Archaeological Works are KSH2012 and KSWT2013, respectively. A small quantity of organic materials were unearthed including timber or wooden items and a very small quantity of animal bones. Apart from the wood pieces at the exterior of feature H11 which were preserved in-situ along with feature H11, all of the organic materials were collected by the archaeological team and properly conserved. Part of the wood samples were collected by the Conservation Office of the Leisure and Cultural Services Department (LCSD) during the course of fieldwork to allow better protection and conservation of the finds after proper recording.

Archaeological features were recorded and samples were collected, when considered necessary by the licensed archaeologist or AMO. In addition, video records were taken to document the key excavation processes and unearth of the special finds, where necessary.

The levels of the excavated area and archaeological features were surveyed and certified by a team of qualified land surveyors provided by SSHCJV.

All unearthed finds were collected, processed and stored at the on-site containers store.

2.3.4 Task 4 - Reporting

This Final Report presents the findings of the three Phases of Archaeological Works in accordance with AMO's Guidelines for Archaeological Reports.

As the three Phases of Archaeological Works are related to the former Sacred Hill (North) Study Area, they are interrelated and conducted under the same Project. The artefacts identified were also in large quantity. It is considered more appropriate to consolidate the results into one report so as to show the overall picture of the archaeological works. Due to the extensive amount of information that needs to be presented in this Final Report, the report has been divided into 4 volumes. Volume 1 presents the background, methodology of the archaeological works; Volume 2 discusses the unearthed archaeological features; Volume 3 presents the findings of artefacts, and Volume 4 provides the summary of key findings, interpretations, discussions and conclusions of the archaeological works.

Upon acceptance of the Final Report, it will be kept in the Reference Library of the Hong Kong Heritage Discovery Centre and uploaded onto the AMO's website for public viewing.

The finds and field archives will be handed over to AMO following the Guidelines for Handling of Archaeological Finds and Archives (as at 28 November 2011) after acceptance of the Final Report.

3 TOPOGRAPHICAL, GEOLOGICAL, ARCHAEOLOGICAL AND HISTORICAL BACKGROUND OF THE FORMER SACRED HILL AREA

3.1 TOPOGRAPHICAL BACKGROUND

The three Phases of Archaeological Works areas are situated east of the Kowloon Peninsula in the urban area and at the northwest coast of Kowloon Bay. It is located at the western end of the former Kai Tak Airport near the Kowloon City, north of the Sung Wong Toi Road (宋皇臺道), and bound by the Olympic Avenue (世運道) at the northwest/west. The majority of the former Kai Tak Airport area was built mainly by reclamation of the Kowloon Bay. The area at the western end of the former Kai Tak Airport was built mainly by filling of original ground and levelling of a small mound. Only south or southeast portion of the area was the former sea or coastal area which was reclaimed. After abandonment of the Kai Tak Airport in 1998, the area was vacant.

Through the analysis of old maps, photographs, literature and supplemented by the results from the three Phases of Archaeological Works, the general original topography of the three Phases of Archaeological Work areas can be established: the early period Song-Yuan Dynasties (960-1368) site and later period Late Qing Dynasty to Republican period site. Both of them existed at the northwest coast of Kowloon Bay and situated at the foot hill of or at the flat area by the former Sacred Hill. The former Sacred Hill was a small mound composed of weathered rocks with the height of approximately 35 m (吳灝陵 1960: 105). The hill top was flat with three huge granite rocks. The biggest rock was engraved with three Chinese characters "宋王臺" (Sung Wong Toi) which was repaired in 1807 (清.嘉慶十二年). At the southwest of the former Sacred Hill, there was a small stream (known as Ma Tau Chung). At the southeast of the former Sacred Hill, it was the sea of the Kowloon Bay. The northwest of former Sacred Hill was connected to another small mound probably known as "Kau Pai Shek"(筊杯石) (see Figure 3.7 showing the mound). The area around these two mounds was relatively flat and was mainly used as farmland during the Late Qing Dynasties until around the 1920s before urbanisation (see Figures 3.15 and 3.24).

Phase 1 Archaeological Work identified the original topography before the construction of Kai Tak airport, including the two periods: the Song-Yuan Dynasties and Late Qing Dynasty to Republican period. During the Late Qing Dynasty to Republican period, the original topography was mainly farmland, sand dune and beach distributed at the north or northwest portion of Phase 1 Archaeological Work area, toward southeast faced the sea. The former Sacred Hill and part of a nullah built between December 1941 and August 1945 were found at the western end of the area. The Song-Yuan Dynasties sand dune and beach were also found.

The Phase 2 and Phase 3 Archaeological Work areas were situated at the southwest and north of the former Sacred Hill. Through the excavation, the orientation and foothill area of the former Sacred Hill could generally be established and a section of the stream at the southwest of the former Sacred Hill was also found.

3.2 GEOLOGICAL BACKGROUND

According to the geological map (Strange & Shaw 1985) (see Figure 3.1), the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area is mainly on alluvium land with a small portion at the southeast on marine sand with fill. Therefore, it was the intertidal area by the coast. The Phases 2 and 3 Archaeological Work areas are located mainly on Kowloon Granite (Klk), which is Cretaceous intrusive rock (the mound mentioned in Section 3.1). The lithology of Kowloon Granite is equigranular medium-grained granite (CEDD 2008) while a small portion at the west is on alluvium land.

Further review of the geological profile as shown in Figure 3.2 indicated that above the granite solid geology, there was a thick and relatively flat layer of soil which had a high potential of identifying archaeological deposits as the flat topography was favourable for human activities or settlement.

3.3 ARCHAEOLOGICAL BACKGROUND

Prior to this archaeological excavation, the archaeological investigation and excavation at the former Sacred Hill area have been piecemeal and not comprehensive. Since the early 20th century, archaeological remains were found in the area. Artefacts had also been reported between 1940s and around 1970. During this 20th century period, only these few archaeological works were conducted in the area. Until early 21st century, due to development works of the area, a number of small scale archaeological investigations and excavations were conducted. Features and artefacts belong to the Song-Yuan Dynasties to Qing Dynasty were unearthed. The archaeological works conducted are detailed in Table 3.1.

It should be noted that due to the limitations from previous archaeological investigations conducted, coverage of excavated areas and other conditions of each previous works, the discovery from the above mentioned archaeological works could only provide a predictive archaeological potential of the area at the three Phases of Archaeological Works. It is not possible to provide precise and detailed information about the nature and distribution of the archaeological deposits of the area unless the area is fully excavated. Therefore, based on available information obtained, the desktop study identified no Site of Archaeological Interest recorded by the AMO within or adjacent to the three Phases of Archaeological Works areas (AMO 2012).

Table 3.1 Key Findings of Previous Archaeological Works in the Study Area

Archaeological Works (Year)	Description
1918 - 1937	Mr W. Schofield conducted the first archaeological investigation between 1918 and 1937, in which pre-Han (漢) wares and Tang (唐, 618-906 A.D.) to Song Dynasties artefacts were discovered on the shores of the former Sacred Hill. The finds were found from the surface of the hill, in shallow pits for seedling pine and small cuttings on the west side of the hill; from a beach southeast of the hill; and from the exposed surface of a cutting through the southern end of the earthwork facing east (Schofield 1968: 67-73). Figure 3.3 shows a sketch drawn by Schofield showing location of beach discovery.
1971	A large quantity of ceramics was unearthed when the former Sacred Hill was excavated between the 1940s and around 1970. The finds were then reviewed by Mr. Watt J. C. Y., the Assistant Curator of the City Museum and Art Gallery of Hong Kong at the time. As the finds were not unearthed through a systematic archaeological excavation, a precise dating of the finds was considered not possible. According to the typology of the ceramics, Mr. Watt believed that they could mainly be dated to the Song Dynasty and categorised by Watt into five main types: Longquan (龍泉) type celadons, black glazed wares, white wares, Ying-ching (影青) type wares and greenish glaze wares. In addition, a large number of the Southern Han (南漢) (905-971 A.D.) and Song (宋, 960-1279 A.D.) Dynasties coins were found with the ceramics (Watt 1971:144).
2002-2003	As part of the archaeological investigation for the *South East Kowloon Development, Site Investigation at North Apron of Kai Tak Airport (*ERM 2003), a test pit was excavated in a safety island of the Olympic Avenue and a celadon bowl rim dated to the Song Dynasty was discovered (ERM 2003:53) (see Figure 3.4 for locations of test pits AT1 to AT3 conducted under this investigation*).*
2008	As part of the EIA Study for the Kai Tak Development Engineering Study cum Design and Construction of Advance Works – Investigation, Design and Construction (Kai Tak EIA Report) (MCAL 2009), an archaeological impact assessment (AIA) was conducted including an archaeological excavation of a series of test trenches (AA1 to AA5). Trench AA1 was designed to locate the historic Ma Tau Chung village and no archaeological deposits were identified (see Figure 3.4 for the location of trench AA1). Trenches AA2 and AA5 were located at the area over 500m northeast from the three Phases of Archaeological Works areas in 2012-2014 and were aimed to identify any remains of the Lung Tsun Bridge (龍津橋) and therefore not discussed in detail here. Trench AA3 revealed a series of cultural layers in which, a large quantity of the Song-Yuan Dynasties ceramics was found (see Figure 3.4 for the location of Trench AA3) (Archaeological Assessments Limited 2008:45). Only redeposition of the 19th to early 20th century materials were identified in Trench AA4 (see Figure 3.4 for the location of Trench AA4) (Archaeological Assessments Limited 2008:45). De-watering problems prevented further excavation of the trenches to lower levels and it was recommended that works be continued at a test trench coded as AA3 (presented in the Kai Tak EIA Report) in the far north-eastern part of the Sacred Hill (North) Study Area as a series of 30m trenches. It was recommended in the Kai Tak EIA report that any archaeological findings within these trenches might inform the wider archaeological potential of the former coastal area north of the former Sacred Hill. Thus, the Kai Tak EIA report recommended a further archaeological survey-cum-excavation at the north of the former Sacred Hill (ARUP 2011b).

2009	An archaeological survey was conducted in 2009 under the Sewage Interception Scheme in Kowloon City – Investigation via the DSD to examine the archaeological potential of the proposed work area of the pumping stations, namely pumping station no. 1 (SPS1) and no. 2 (SPS2). SPS2 is the "DSD Pumping Station" as shown in Figure 3.4 while SPS1 is approximately 750m northeast of SPS2. Five 10m x 10m test pits were excavated (see *Figure 3.4 f*or their locations*)* in SPS2 but only 51 pieces of the Song Dynasty pottery shards unearthed. It was reported that the cultural layer of the SPS2 work area had been disturbed and it is concluded the area had low heritage significance (ENSR 2009:20).
2009-2010	An archaeological survey-cum-rescue excavation for a DSD pumping station was undertaken to salvage any remaining archaeological deposits within the proposed work area which was located within the Sacred Hill (North) Study Area, from October 2009 to July 2010. The excavation was divided into three main areas (Areas 1, 2, and 3) and was carried out two phases. Phase I work covered excavation in Areas 1 and 2 and a total of 24 trenches were excavated. A total of 19 archaeological features and large quantities of finds were unearthed in Areas 1 and 2, which included a large quantity of pottery and porcelain shards that could be dated back to the Song-Yuan Dynasties. The findings strongly suggested that inhabitants existed in the northern area of the former Sacred Hill area since the Song-Yuan Dynasties. The Phase II excavation covered Area 3 and a total of 7 trenches were excavated. The total excavation area for Areas 1, 2 and 3 was approximately 916m^2 (ERM 2011) (see Figure 3.4). Further to the Kai Tak EIA Report which recommended conducting an archaeological survey-cum-excavation at Trench AA3 and its surrounding area, the fieldwork was conducted between November 2009 and March 2010. The total excavation area was 731m^2 and the total weight of finds unearthed was 2,370kg which included a large amount of finds that could be dated to the Song-Yuan Dynasties (AECOM 2011) (see Figure 3.4).

3.4 HISTORICAL BACKGROUND

3.4.1 General History of Hong Kong Area

Archaeological discovery indicated that Hong Kong's history could date back to Neolithic period over 6,000 years ago. Historical writings concerning the area of Hong Kong became more since the Tang Dynasty probably due to the growing prosperity and heavy Chinese immigration to the Guangdong area during the Tang Dynasty (Ng 1983:20).

During the Tang Dynasty, Hong Kong as part of Dongguan (東莞) County, Guangzhou Nanhai (廣州南海) Prefecture, Lingnan (嶺南) Circuit (嶺南道廣州南海郡東莞縣) was under the rule of Tunmen Zhen (屯門鎮) (Tuen Mun military division), which was stationed in the present Natao (南頭) district at Shenzhen (深圳) City (歐陽修、宋祁撰 1975: 1095-1096; 李吉甫撰 1983:890). Xin Tang Shu (新唐書) (New Tang Annals) recorded that salt fields were established in present Hong Kong region (歐陽修、宋祁撰 1975: 1095-1096).

Song Dynasty

Hong Kong was part of Dongguan County under the administrative region of the Guangnan East Circuit (廣南東路) during the Song Dynasty. At that time, the Dongguan County was one of the major salt production districts with four salt production fields. Guan Fu Chang (官富場), one of the salt production fields, was probably located in Kowloon and the area in the vicinity. Due to the imperial salt development of the area, it is believed that the marine transportation at the Kowloon area was rather well developed at the time. Many marine vessels and ships from Jiangsu (江蘇), Zhejiang (浙江) and Fujian (福建) provinces which travelled to south would pass by Hong Kong (劉蜀永 1995:4).

It is also believed that some settlements of salt workers should have been established since then and the inland was also settled by people working for cultivation which provided food supply to the local. Literatures such as Yudi Jisheng (輿地紀勝) (王象之 1992:2852) and Songhuiyao Jigao (宋會要輯稿) (徐松輯 1957:5288) also describe smuggling activities related to salt production at the region.

One major history that related to Kowloon area was the attack of the Yuan Dynasty army towards Song Emperor during the Southern Song Dynasty which forced the Song Emperor fled to south. When the Song Emperor, Tuen Chung, (端宗) ascended to the throne in Foo Chow (福州), the armies of the Yuan Dynasty pressed upon him and he fled by sea to Chuen Chow (泉州), then to Chiu Chow (潮州) and Kap Tsz Mun (甲子門) in Wai Chow (惠州). At the beginning of the 2nd year of his reign (1277), the emperor entered the Guangzhou territory, via the Mui Wia (梅蔚) Island and landed at Guan Fu Chang and set up his temporary palace near the former Sacred Hill area, which is the present To Kwa Wan (簡又文 1960:122-174). The 1819 edition of the Xin'an Gazetteer also recorded "二黃（皇）店（殿）村" (Two Emperors' Palace village) and indicated that the remains of the palace still existed at the time and local people constructed the Pak Tai temple on top of the remains (簡又文 編，1960:56).

Some said that the Emperor Tuen Chung from time to time visited a small mound near the seashore and the legend is given as the reason for the name of the small mound as "宋王臺" (Sung Wong Toi) Hill. According to the 1819 edition of the Xin'an Gazetteer, Emperor Tuen Chung's younger brother, Wai Wong Ping (衛王昺), had resident at Sung Wong Toi. The great rock at the "Toi" engraved with three characters "宋王臺"(Sung Wong Toi). The existing rock engraved with "宋王臺" (Sung Wong Toi) is inscribed with the text on the year of repair in 1807 (嘉慶十二年重修). That means the Sung Wong Toi great rock existed before 1807. In the same year, the Emperor moved to Kwu Tap (古塔) at Tung-lung island (Jen 1967:35) and then to Tsin Wan (淺灣) (now known as Tsuen Wan (荃灣)). In the eleventh moon of the same year, the Yuan Dynasty's armies attacked and the Emperor sailed away to Sau Shan (秀山) and then having camped in Kowloon for about ten months.

According to history and local genealogical records, a big wave of immigrants from mainland China migrated to the Lingnan area since the Song Dynasty. Due to the salt production development and economic needs, some people from Jiangxi (江西) and Fujian area migrated to the Dongguan County. For example, according to the genealogical record of Lam clan (林氏) of Chuk Yuen village (竹園), their ancestor was originated from Putian (莆田) of Fujian during the Late Song Dynasty (張瑞威 2013:8-9).

Another historical background is that from the Tang Dynasty, coastal ceramic trade between the southern coast of China and southeast Asia, south Asia and east Asia areas was growing and until the Song-Yuan Dynasties which it reached its peak. Hong Kong is situated along this maritime route known as maritime silk road.

Yuan Dynasty

During the Yuan Dynasty, Hong Kong was under the administrative region of the Dongguan County under the Guangzhou Circuit of Jiangxi province (江西行省廣州路). One major changes was probably the change of Guan Fu Chang to *Guan Fu Tsai (官富寨)* that the management system of salt administration was incorporated into Huangtien *(黃田)* Field *(Jen 1967:25).*

It was likely that after the Yuan Dynasty army conquered the Southern Song Dynasty, three Chinese characters "宋王臺" (Sung Wong Toi) were engraved horizontally upon the western face of a great rock on the summit of the former Sacred Hill (Jen 1967:26).

Ming Dynasty

In 1370 (明.洪武三年), the Guan Fu Tsai was changed to Guan Fu Xun Si (巡司), a political sub-district under the charge of an Assistant Magistrate (巡檢) (Jen 1967:21-38) (see Figure 3.5 showing an old map marked with the changed status as "官富巡司").

Due to coastal defence issues, during 1368 to 1398 (明.洪武年間) and 1425 to 1566 (明.洪熙至嘉靖年間), Coastal Evacuation Policies were promulgated to move coastal population inland. During the 15th century, the coastal areas of the Dongguan County were attacked by marauding bandits and pirates. In order to protect against the bandits and pirates, the Xin'an County (新安縣) was set up in 1573 (明. 萬曆元年), Kowloon area was zoned under the Xin'an County. In 1586 and 1643, two editions of the Xin'an Gazetteer were published but both of them were lost. According to the record of the 1819 edition of the Xin'an Gazetteer (新安縣志), Hong Kong was zoned within the Xin'an County, which covered 2/5 of the County.

Qing Dynasty

In 1661, the Coastal Evacuation was promulgated by the Qing Emperor in order to stifle the supply of the Anti-Manchu (滿州) troops in Taiwan, people living along the coast of Guangdong were moved 50 li (里) inland. The settlers of coastal areas were forced to move back to the inland. Until 1669, Boundary Extension was promulgated, settlers moved back and newcomers in particular the Hakka (客家) people were encouraged to immigrate to the coast of Guangdong and Hong Kong in late 17th to early 18th century.

In 1807 (清.嘉慶十二年)，Sung Wong Toi along with the great rock engraved with characters "宋王臺"(Sung Wong Toi) on top of the former Sacred Hill were repaired with further Chinese inscription recorded the date of repair (see Figure 3.6) (Jen 1967:27).

The 1819 edition of the Xin'an Gazetteer recorded the resident site of Guan Fu and the Sung Wong Toi monument (簡又文 編，1960:56). In 1843, in order to reinforce the coastal defence due to frequent attack by pirates, the Qing government relocated the Assistant Magistrate of Chik Mei (赤尾) Village in Nantao City of Xin'an County (南頭城赤尾村官富巡檢司) to further south and stationed in Kowloon Tsai (九龍寨)(formerly the Guan Fu Tsai) with the new title known as the Assistant Magistrate of Kowloon (九龍巡檢司) (劉蜀永 1995:23; 九龍城區議會 2011:27; Jen 1967:25) and the office was then established in Kowloon Walled City in 1847 (清. 道光二十七年).

Following Qing's failure in Second Opium Wars to Britain, Kowloon Peninsula and Stonecutter's Island were successively ceded in perpetuity to Britain under the Peking Treaty (北京條約) in 1860 (清. 咸豐十年). The area south of Boundary Street (see Figure 3.7) in Kowloon was ceded to Britain and the area was formally taken over by the Hong Kong Government in 1861 (Jen 1967:26-27).

An old map of c. 1862-1874 showing Song Emperor Terrace "宋皇台" marked on the map (see Figure 3.8).

In early 1899, the Sung Wong Toi Reservation Ordinance was enacted by the Hong Kong Colonial Government (Jen 1967:28).

Some historical information (including photographs and maps) indicated that during the Late Qing Dynasty (around 1840 to 1911), the former Sacred Hill area in Kowloon was mainly a cultivation area.

3.4.2 Naming of the Former Sacred Hill

As mentioned above, "宋王臺" (Sung Wong Toi) had been recorded on a great rock with repair date of 1807 and in the 1819 version of the Xin'an Gazetteer but the old map of c. 1862-1874 marked as "宋皇台"(see Figure 3.8) literally meaning the Song Emperor Terrace. It is now known as the Sacred Hill which is believed to be named by the colonial government during their establishment of maps of Hong Kong after Kowloon was taken over by the Great British as no Chinese literature recorded such a name and even older generation of Hong Kong people did not know of it (簡又文編 1960:141; Jen 1967:26). Some old maps prepared in the late 19th century to early 20th century referred the Sacred Hill as "Hill of the King of the Sung" (see Figures 3.13, 3.18 and 3.22).

3.4.3 History of the Three Phases of Archaeological Works Area

There is very limited detailed record about the history of the three Phases of Archaeological Works area. Nevertheless, through the analysis of piecemeal available information from limited literatures, old maps and old photographs, the results still provided us some clues to the understanding of the history of the area. Table 3.2 below listed out the findings. Mapping analysis was also conducted using available current and old survey sheets/maps with available georeferenced information in each sheet/map to demarcate the locations of the three phases of Archaeological Works area. It should be noted that as the comprehensiveness, accuracy and scales of these sheets/maps vary, the analysis result is based on GIS experts' and cultural heritage specialists' best estimation. Therefore, it is common that discrepancy may exist between maps.

Period	Description	Figure Reference
c. 1860	A panoramic sketch drawn by Collinson during the early colonial period of Hong Kong showing the former Sacred Hill.	3.9
1863	It is said that to the southwest of the former Sacred Hill, there was once a village called Two Emperors' Palace (二皇殿村) (1), which was so named because the Emperor Tuen Chung and his brother Wai Wong Ping (衛王昺) who succeeded him, visited that village together. The location of the Village probably refers to " Ye-wong-lien" as shown on the 1863 old map. It was believed that the original location of the village is as shown in Figure 3.34 (Jen 1967:31). The village was mainly occupied by Li clan with approximately 300 people (吳灞陵 1960: 106) . The old map spelled Sung Wong Toi as "Sung-wong-toe".	3.10
1864	The numbers showed in the 1864 old map refer to the size (in terms of square yards) of cultivated land of the numbered areas. The numbered areas referred to place name which are marked as blue text (Kowloon Town and Matow Wei) on Figure 3.11. The map indicated that a small mound was surrounded by the cultivation area except the southeast of the mound was the sea area. At the west foothill of the mound, there was a village marked as "Matow" village (馬頭村) and a stream. Further west/northwest, there was another village "Matow Wei" (馬頭圍).	3.11
1887	The 1887 map showed that apart from the cultivated land, there were scattered houses around the area. The stream west of the mound was marked as "Ma Tau Chung"(馬頭涌) with a bridge. The area northeast of the mound was known as "Kau Pai Shek"(珓杯石) (2) by the coast.	3.12
1894	1894 old map indicated that the cultivated land area was marked as "Kau Pui Shek" with some buildings at the area (i.e. the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area).	3.13

(1) Amongst the many old villages listed in 1819 edition of the Xin'an Gazetteer, there is a name written in the form of "二黃店", meaning two Wong's store. It is clear that this was a mistake and should be Two Emperors' Palace.

(2) The Chinese of Kau Pai Shek was known as "珓杯石" meaning two pieces of wood carved in the shape of oyster shells which are used for the purpose of divination in worshipping idols. (Jen 1967:28)

Period	Description	Figure Reference
	The mound was named as "Hill of the King of the Sung" (i.e. the Phase 2 Archaeological Work area) with houses of "Matow" village at the west foothill.
	In front of the Matow village houses (SW) runs the stream "Ma Tau Chung" (i.e. the Phase 3 Archaeological Work area) with a bridge.
1898-99	In 1898, under the terms of the Convention for the Extension of Hong Kong Territory (展拓香港界址專條), Britain leased the New Territories (including new Kowloon) as a crown colony of the Great Britain. Mr Ho Kai (何啟) with other Kowloon residence request to preserve Sung Wong Toi as a public resort and to prohibit the leasing of any piece of land within it for constructing buildings or any other purposes. The colonial government of Hong Kong accepted and delineated a certain land area surrounding Sung Wong Toi as Sung Wong Toi Park for protection. Funding was also allocated to construct a stone wall around the great rock and a small stone tablet at the foot of former Sacred Hill bearing the words "Sung Wong Toi Reservation, Quarrying Absolutely Forbidden" and two lines of Chinese characters beneath reading "此地禁止採石保護宋王臺" as established. The Sung Wong Toi Reservation Ordinance was enacted in 1899 for its protection (吳灞陵 1960: 105; Jen 1967:28).	3.22
c. 1900	A number of historical photographs or postcard illustrated the condition of the area at the time. The area was mainly farmland with a small mound and scattered houses.	3.14 to 3.15
1902-03	The 1902-03 historical map showed similar information as the 1894 historical map. The mound with the boulder engraved with "宋王臺" (Sung Wong Toi) was marked as "Sacred Hill".	3.16
1904-24	Prior to around 1924, the area was still left untouched and mainly occupied by farmlands with scattered houses but major reclamation and development in Kowloon had already started at Sham Shui Po, Jordan, along the Hung Hom Bay and To Kwa Wan. The Kowloon Bay area had also been reclaimed in 1910-1920s for the Kai Tak Bund residential development.	3.17
	In 1915, the head of the Chinese Department of the University of Hong Kong, upon hearing that the Sung Wong Toi area was to be sold by auction, appealed to the Government to reserve the area permanently. A leading citizen of Hong Kong, Mr Li Sui Kam (李瑞琴) supported and paid for the erection of an encircling stone balustrade for protection. (Jen 1967:28; 李景康 1960:264; 陳伯陶1960:91)
1920s	The 1920 and 1922 historical maps (Figures 3.18 and 3.19) also showed similar information to that in the 1894 historical map (Figure 3.13). The 1922 historical map (Figure 3.19) is considered the most accurate map prepared at the time since it is a 1:600 old survey map.	3.18 & 3.19
	Two drawings and two photographs showing the Sung Wong Toi Park.	3.20 & 3.21
1920s and 1930s	Planning of reclamation works at the Hill of the King of the Sung and Kau Pui Shek areas were underway as shown in the Kowloon City Area Development Plan in the 1920s. It shows that the former Sacred Hill area was planning to be reclaimed for new roads and the Kau Pui Shek area was planned to build Sung Street, Tai Street and Ping Street, Kau Pui Shek Road and Ching Lung Street.	3.22
	In 1927/28, the two Emperors Palace village (二王殿村) with approximately 20 houses was evacuated and a temple of the village named (上帝廟) was moved to the former Sacred Hill area by Tam Kung Road by the Government (吳灞陵 1960: 105).

	Some historical photographs of c.1920 and 1930s showing the area was still mainly occupied by cultivated land and the former Sacred Hill still remain untouched but some tenement buildings have been built at the northeast of former Sacred Hill.	3.23 & 3.24
1936-37	Two historical photographs showed the tenement buildings at Ping Street area dated to 1936/37 (i.e. the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area).	3.25
1937	Prior to the former Sacred Hill was levelled, Schofield who had seen it described the hill as "a crescent-shaped hill, convex towards the east where it raised steeply from the beach. It commanded a good view of the south slope of the Kowloon hills and the plain beneath, the east half of the Victoria harbour, and of Lyemun channel and the west end of the Fat Tau Mun channel. The concave side, on which lies the main path to the top, was terraced for cultivation up to 15 or 20 m." (Schofield 1968:67).	3.3
1924-39	Throughout the years between 1924 and 1939, reclamation works in Kowloon continued. This development plan also showed that the presence of a nullah at the east of the former Sacred Hill.	3.26
1940	The 1940 old map showed the reclaimed area around the "Hill of the King of the Sung", the presence of Tai Street, Ping Street and Kau Pui Shek Street in the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area. It also showed that the landscape at Kau Pui Shek had changed from cultivation area to residential area. The stream Ma Tau Chung had also been filled.	3.27
Japanese occupation between 1941 and 1945	During the Japanese occupation, they extended the Kai Tak Airport by demolition of the buildings and streets established in the 1920 to 1930s in the adjacent area and a drainage nullah was built. Figure 3.28 summarised the different stage of Kai Tak Airport development.	3.28
	The 1944 aerial photo showed that a nullah was built. The construction of the nullah made use of stones taken from the walls of Kowloon Walled City and stones cut from the former Sacred Hill. In 1943, a ritual was conducted for the removal of the Sung Wong Toi inscription stone to make way for stone cutting for the construction of the nullah (吳灞陵 1960: 105).	3.29
	At the west foothill of the former Sacred Hill, there was a temple named as Tam Kung temple (譚公廟) but the temple was removed (吳灞陵 1960: 105).
	After the Liberation in 1945, the Government held to its former desire to preserve the engraved Sung Wong Toi rock.
1947	1947 old map also showed that Tai Street, Ping Street and SE section of Kau Pui Shek Street were converted to a nullah and the area became part of the Kai Tak Airport.	3.30
1949	A 1940s old photo showed the former Sacred Hill still existed and the nullah was built.	3.31 and 3.32
	1949 aerial photo and oblique view photo showed that the area east of the nullah became part of the Kai Tak area while west of the nullah showed squatters were built at west and NW foothill of the former Sacred Hill.
Late 1950s	An oblique view of an old photo showed that the nullah started to be filled for further extension of the Kai Tak Airport. While west of the	3.33 nullah remained more or less similar to the situation as showed in the 1949 aerial photo.

	The section of the engraved Sung Wong Toi rock was trimmed into a rectangular shape and placed within a small garden above 500 feet west of the original Sacred Hill. The construction of the Sung Wong Toi Garden was completed in 1957.	3.6
	Since June 1956, the Chiu Clansmen's Association (趙族宗親會) was preparing the publication of the "Memorial of Sung Wong Toi" (宋皇臺紀念集) and two first quality stone tablets in commemorating the Sung Wong Toi and a simple and dignified unveiling ceremony was held in 1959 (趙立勳 1960:265-266; Jen 1967:29).
1960s	A scholar Jen Yu-wen through his research prepared a map showing possible location of Song Dynasty historical sites (Jen 1967:21-38).	3.34
	Former Kai Tak Airport extended. A 1964 aerial photograph showing the area was filled to become part of the former Kai Tak Airport. The nullah was also filled up for construction of the new runway.	3.33
	The Kai Tak Airport operated until 1998 when the new international airport was opened.

3.5 SUMMARY OF BASELINE CONDITIONS

In summary, literatures about the history of former Sacred Hill area are very general, limited and piecemeal. In accordance to the discoveries of Mr Schofield, pre-Han Dynasty archaeological finds had been discovered at the former Sacred Hill area, however, the findings provided limited information to understand more about the local history at the period.

General history of Hong Kong becoming more from about Tang Dynasty probably due to the growing prosperity and heavy immigration to the south, such as Lingnan District (嶺南地區). During the Song Dynasty, there had been people migrated to Hong Kong area of the Dongguan County and the Kowloon area was the Guan Fu Chang for salt production. In the end of Southern Song Dynasty, Mongolian invasions forced the Emperor fled and looked for refuge by the shores of the sea. It is also believed that a temporary palace had been set up near the former Sacred Hill area. In the Yuan Dynasty, immigration to Kowloon area continued and Guan Fu Chang might have been changed to Guan Fu Tsai. Until the Ming Dynasty to the early Qing Dynasty, due to Coastal Evacuation Policies, coastal population were moved inland and resulted in Hong Kong to become barren. It was possibly during the Yuan Dynasty, three Chinese characters "宋王臺" (Sung Wong Toi) were engraved horizontally upon the western face of a great rock on the summit of the former Sacred Hill as memorial of the history by the local people and the Sung Wong Toi had been restored in the 12th Year of Jiaqing (嘉慶), Qing Dynasty. The Xin'an Gazetteer of the Qing Dynasty also recorded the Sung Wong Toi monument and the Two Emperors' Palace village. The first archaeological discovery at the former Sacred Hill area identified pre-Han wares and Tang to Song Dynasties artefacts on shores of the former Sacred Hill but there was lack of primary deposits information for further detailed interpretation. Later on, large quantities of the Song Dynasty ceramics and Southern Han (南漢) (905-971 A.D.) and Song Dynasty coins were found with the ceramics at the former Sacred Hill when it was levelling for Kai Tak Airport development. Again, the lack of primary deposits information constrained further detailed interpretation of the finds.

From the 21th century, a number of archaeological works had been conducted at the former Sacred Hill area in a more systemic way. The Song-Yuan Dynasties finds have been the dominating finds among the discoveries. The area in and around the DSD Pumping Station at the northeast of the former Sacred Hill have been identified with large quantities of the Song-Yuan Dynasties deposits but a nullah built during Japanese occupation had significantly damaged/destroyed some parts of the primary deposits. Although some of the archaeological findings strongly suggested that inhabitants existed in the Kowloon City area since the Song-Yuan Dynasties, the location of the inhabitant is unknown.

No Ming to early Qing Dynasties archaeological features or artefacts unearthed at the area. The second dominating finds unearthed at the former Sacred Hill area had been the Late Qing Dynasty to Republican period finds.

As a result, Phase 1 Archaeological Work area was considered to have low archaeological potential as various evidences suggest that the area was utilised as a burial or living ground and then turned into a dumping area. Only original soil layer was considered to have archaeological potential. Artefacts concentration was predicted to be low at the area east, south and north of the DSD Pumping Station. The Phase 1 Archaeological Work located south of the DSD Pumping Station was therefore predicted to have low artefacts concentration.

With regard to Phases 2 and 3 Archaeological Work areas, these areas have been considered to have low archaeological potential as they are located at the levelled former Sacred Hill. It is believed that the levelling work of the former Sacred Hill during and after Japanese occupation had mostly disturbed or damaged any surviving archaeological deposits. However, in September 2013, over 500 coins (mainly dated to the Song Dynasty) were discovered by the construction workers at the Launching Shaft Area (LSA) which is located to the west of the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area and the incident was reported to AMO by MTRC. As a result, AMO initiated and MTRC agreed that an archaeological watching brief (AWB) be arranged at the LSA (Phase 2 Archaeological Work). Based on the archaeological discovery identified from Phase 2 Archaeological Work, it was considered that the coverage of archaeological discovery might likely extend outside the LSA, AWB at the remaining excavation areas of the entire TKW station was implemented to salvage the archaeological deposits that might be potentially impacted by the excavation works of the entire TKW station (Phase 3 Archaeological Work).

4 STRATIGRAPHY AND ARCHAEOLOGICAL FEATURES UNEARTHED FROM THE ARCHAEOLOGICAL WORKS

4.1 INTRODUCTION

This is the Volume 2 of the Final Archaeological Excavation Report (Final Report) of the three Phases of Archaeological Works at the former Sacred Hill area for the Shatin to Central Link Tai Wai to Hung Hom Section Works Contract 1109- Stations and Tunnels of Kowloon City Section. It presents the stratigraphy and features unearthed from the archaeological works.

Please refer to Volume 1 of the Final Report for the project background, objectives and methodology of the archaeological works, and topographical, geological, archaeological and historical backgrounds of the former Sacred Hill area (Sections 1 to 3); Volume 3 for the finds unearthed from the archaeological works (Section 5); and Volume 4 for the summary of key findings, conclusions, interpretations, discussions and conclusions of the archaeological works (Section 6).

This Volume 2 of the Final Report is supported by the following Annexes:

4.2 STRATIGRAPHY

4.2.1 Overview

As the Phase 1 and Phases 2 and 3 Archaeological Work areas are geographically located in two separate areas, and the stratigraphy of these two areas are not identical, the two areas are discussed separately. Furthermore, as two distinct layer numbering systems were adopted, the layer with the same layer number allotted between Phase 1 and Phases 2 and 3 Archaeological Work areas may not be identical thus an overall stratigraphy for the three phases of Archaeological Works cannot be provided. Figure C1-4 and Figure C2-7 in Annexes C1 and C2 only show brief version matrix illustrating the stratigraphic relations between layers and archaeological features. For stratigraphic relations between features, please refer to the Annexes E1a and E1b for details and drawings showing the stratigraphic relations between features are provided in Annexes E3a and E3b.

4.2.2 Stratigraphy of the Phase 1 Archaeological Work Area (KSH2012)

The Phase 1 Archaeological Work area is situated at the east/northeast area of the former Sacred Hill. The northern and northwest portions were the former coastal area and the southern portion was the former seawater area of the Kowloon Bay.

At the northern and the northwest portion, the cultural deposits are thicker at the west and north areas and gradually become thinner from north to south and from west to east. Up to four main layers (Layers 1 to 3 and the sterile layer) were found and layers 2 and 3 were sub-divided into five sub-layers. Table 4.1 presents the stratigraphy of the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area.

At the southern portion, after removal of the topsoil fill layer (Layer 1), only the sterile layer (sandy shore) was found.

The overall strata of the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area are illustrated in the overall North-South section and East-West section drawings of the representative test pits/grids (and the adjoined pits/grids where appropriate) which show the strata of the east and north section (see Annex C1).

The detailed distributions of the strata in each excavated test pit/grid are presented in Annex D1. As mentioned in Section 2.3.2 of Volume 1 of this Final Report, to facilitate better and clearer recording and suit the site condition, Stage 1 Grids TP1 and TP20 have been combined with the Stages 2 and 3 Grids. Other grids were also combined to suit where appropriate. Figure 2.1a of Volume 1 of this Final Report presents the final grid system adopted for the excavation.

For the investigation pits ATP1 (1), ATP3 and ATP4 as shown in Figure 2.1a in Volume 1 of this Final Report, their strata are similar to the ASE area. As no construction excavation works will be carried out in the additional investigation area (please refer to Figure 2.1a of Volume 1 of this Final Report for the location) where these pits were located and a number of the Song-Yuan Dynasties features were identified, the excavation of these pits was terminated at the Song-Yuan Dynasties layer (i.e. the excavation of ATP1 was terminated below Layer 3b of Phase 1 Archaeological Work area while the excavations of ATP3 and ATP4 were terminated below Layer 3a of Phase 1 Archaeological Work area). After proper recording, these pits were backfilled.

(1) Test pit ATP1 was combined with test pit ATP2 to form an irregular shape pit covering an area of approximately 150m². For detail reasoning, please refer to Section 2.3.2 of Volume 1 of this Final Report.

Summary of the Overall Stratigraphy of the Phase 1 Archaeological Work Area

With reference given to the original landscape, the stratigraphy of the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area is described as complex and can be divided into three main layers (i.e. Layer 1, Layer 2 and Layer 3), with Layers 2 and 3 further sub-divided into five sub-layers (i.e. Layers 2a to 2e and Layers 3a to 3e). With regard to the primary deposits, all of the cultural layers (Layer 2 and Layer 3 of the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area) from northwest to the southeast of the Archaeological Work area are inclined. This indicates that the formation of the cultural layers followed the original sharply inclining landscape from the north to the south (coast). The results indicate that the highest extent of the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area is located at the north or northwest portion and that the southern portion is mainly the former sandy shore area.

The discovery of these strata clearly revealed the original landscape at that time. Layer 3e is a relatively special layer. Layer 3e is almost only found at the edge of the sandbank of the beach, such as in Test Pits TP93, TP102, TP103, TP110, TP111, TP112, TP113, TP121, TP122, TP130 and TP131. Based on the findings from the spot and adjacent test pits results at the surrounding area, it is speculated that due to the action of waves, Layer 3e should be a disturbed layer formed during the Song-Yuan dynasties.

4.2.3 Stratigraphy of the Phases 2 and 3 Archaeological Work Areas (KSWT2013)

Overall Stratigraphy

With reference to the original landscape, the stratigraphy of the Phases 2 and 3 Archaeological Work areas comprised four different parts, including:

- the northeast area of the former Sacred Hill (Part 6b of Zone A of the Phase 3 Archaeological Work, comprising A-TP11, A-TP12, A-TP14, A-TP15, A-TP17, and A-TP18 to A-TP23 as shown in Figure 2.1b of Volume 1 of this Final Report);

- the southwest area of the former Sacred Hill (T1, T6, T8 and T11 of the Phase 2 Archaeological Work; Zone B, C-T1, C-T1a, C-T1b, C-T5, C-T6 of Zone C and Zone D of the Phase 3 Archaeological Work as shown in Figure 2.1b of Volume 1 of this Final Report);

- the former Sacred Hill mountain body (T2, T4, T5, T10 and T12 of the Phase 2 Archaeological Work (1); and Part 1 (including A-TP1, A-TP7, A-TP8 and A-TP9 (2)), Part 2, Part 3a (including A-T10), Part 3b, Part 4, Part 5, Part 6a, Part 6b (including A-T13 and A-T16) of Zone A of the Phase 3 Archaeological Work as shown in Figure 2.1b of Volume 1 of this Final Report); and

- the former Ma Tau Chung (C-T2, C-T3, C-T4 of Zone C of the Phase 2 Archaeological Work as shown in Figure 2.1b of Volume 1 of this Final Report).

Tables 4.2 to 4.5 present the typical stratigraphy of each part.

Northeast Area of the Former Sacred Hill

This area refers to Part 6b of Zone A of the Phase 3 Archaeological Work (including A-TP11, A-TP12, A-TP14, A-TP15, A-TP17 and A-TP18 to A-TP23). Eight (8) layers were found and described in Table 4.2. The representative section drawings are presented in Figures C2-1 and C2-2 of Annex C2.

Former Sacred Hill Mountain Body

This area refers to T2, T4, T5, T10 and T12 of the Phase 2 Archaeological Work; and Part 1 (including A-TP1, A-TP7, A-TP8 and A-TP9), Part 2, Part 3a (including A-TP10), Part 3b, Part 4, Part 5, Part 6a, Part 6b (including A-TP13 and A-TP16) of Zone A of the Phase 3 Archaeological Work as shown in Figure 2.1b of Volume 1 of this Final Report. Two (2) layers were found and they are described in Table 4.4.

(b) T2 and T3 were combined as T2 and T7, T9 were cancelled in the Phase 2 Archaeological Work area.

(c) A-TP2, A-TP3, A-TP4, A-TP5 and A-TP6 of Part 1 in Zone A of the Phase 3 Archaeological Work area were cancelled.

Former Ma Tau Chung

This area refers to C-T2, C-T3 and C-T4 in Zone C of the Phase 3 Archaeological Work. Two (2) layers and a stream deposit were found and they are described in Table 4.5. The section drawing showing the section of the former Ma Tau Chung is presented in Figure C2-6 of Annex C2.

Notes:

(a) Depth was measured from the existing ground level to the surface of each layer. The existing ground level was about +6.50 mPD.

(b) HC refers to "he chung" (河涌) – it is regarded as a stream deposit feature (natural feature) which covers relatively large area and is thick. In order to illustrate comprehensive stratigraphic relation of C-T2 to C-T4 in Zone C of the Phase 3 Archaeological Work without information gap, it is considered necessary to include the natural feature in the stratigraphy table.

Summary of the Overall Stratigraphy of the Phases 2 and 3 Archaeological Work Areas

The stratigraphy of the Phase 2 and 3 Archaeological Work areas is comparative. The original landscape of the Phase 2 and 3 Archaeological Work areas was relatively flat and can be divided into three main parts, comprising the levelled mountain body of the former Sacred Hill, a cross section of a former stream, Ma Tau Chung, and the foothill areas which were located at the southwest and northeast of the former Sacred Hill. A large quantity of primary deposits and a well (KSWT2013 J2) were identified in the two foothill areas. For the former Sacred Hill mountain body area, only the fill layer was found on top of rock or decomposed rocks except in the area of A-TP13 and A-TP16 of Zone A in Phases 2 and 3 Archaeological Work areas which contained a cultural layer (Layer 3b of Phases 2 and 3 Archaeological Work areas) beneath the fill layer and overlaid the rock or decomposed rocks. A section of the former Ma Tau Chung area (a stream) was revealed and mainly secondary deposits were identified in this area.

4.3 ARCHAEOLOGICAL FEATURES

A total of three hundred and nineteen (319) archaeological features were unearthed in the three Phases of Archaeological Work areas, including two hundred and thirty eight (238) features in the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area (KSH2012), and eighty one (81) features in the Phases 2 and 3 Archaeological Work areas (KSWT2013). These features are discussed in more detail below.

4.3.1 Archaeological Features Unearthed from the Phase 1 Archaeological Work Area (KSH2012)

A total of two hundred and thirty eight (238) [1] archaeological features were identified from the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area comprising eight (8) stone built structures, seven (7) building features, one hundred and fifty one (151) ditches, forty seven (47) ponds/garbage pits, six (6) wells, three (3) kilns and sixteen (16) burial features. Each feature was given a specific code. Table 4.6 summarises the archaeological features identified. The detailed list, associated stratigraphy, drawings and photographs of these features are presented in Annexes E1a - Detailed Records of the Archaeological Features Unearthed In the Phase 1 Archaeological Work Area (KSH2012); Annex E2a - Photographs of the Archaeological Features Unearthed In the Phase 1 Archaeological Work Area (KSH2012); and Annex E3a - Detailed Drawings of the Archaeological Features Unearthed In the Phase 1 Archaeological Work Area (KSH2012).

The features unearthed are divided into five (5) feature groups (Feature Group (FG) 1 to 5) based on the criteria below:

Stratigraphy

Almost all the features in the same FG were found below/in the same layer. For example, for FG 1, all of the features were found below Layer 3d of the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area.

(1) KSH2012 H23 and H25 were cancelled while J4 was counted as 2 wells in according to its stratigraphic relation. The total quantity of archaeological features unearthed in Phase 1 Archaeological Work area has been revised from 239 to 238. Besides, there are differences between the Interim Report issued in April 2014 and the Final Report in terms of the statistics and analysis of archaeological features identified in the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area.

Relationship between the features, such as coexistence, disturbance and overlaid relations

The stratigraphic relationship between the features is also an important consideration. For example, the disturbance/overlaid relationship between KSH2012 F5 and KSH2012 F6 indicate that some parts of these two building features are likely to have coexistence relationship. They are therefore grouped into the same FG.

Dating of the artefacts unearthed from the features

If a disturbance relationship between features was found to exist, or there is lack of stratigraphy evidence to show the relationship, then the dating of the artefacts unearthed from the features is an important consideration. For example, KSH2012 H38 disturbed KSH2012 M27, however, they were both found below Layer 3d of the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area, and the artefacts unearthed from these features could be dated to the same period, so they would be considered as the same FG.

Based on the above grouping criteria, all features were classified into the appropriate FGs for interpretation on the sequential human activities in the past such as during the Song-Yuan Dynasties.

The grouping result is presented in Table 4.6 and the overall plans showing the locations of the archaeological features of each FG are presented in Figures 4.1 to 4.5.

Notes:

(1) Features codes KSH2012 G96, G105, G143, G152, H7, H10, H15, H19, H20, H23, H25, H36, H39, H40, H43, H44, H46-48, H52, H54, H58, H60, K1, M3 to M8, M14, M18, M19, M23 to M24, M26 were not used.

(2) Feature Group 1 (FG 1): Features found below Layer 3d (see Figure 4.1)

(4) Feature Group 3 (FG 3): Features found below Layer 3a (see Figure 4.3)

(5) Feature Group 4 (FG 4): Features found below Layer 1 and Layer 2 (including Layers 2a, 2b, 2c, 2d) (see Figure 4.4)

(6) Feature Group 5 (FG 5): Features found in Layer 1 (see Figure 4.5)

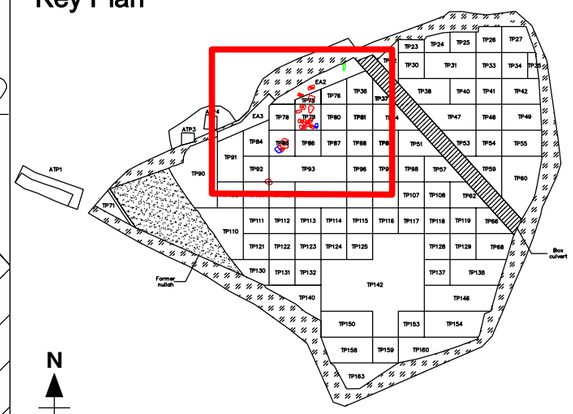
(7) Associated features of a building feature identified during field excavation are regarded as part of a building feature under a single feature number and provided with sub-feature codes. As these sub-features are counted as part of a building feature, they are not included in this table. If individual features with assigned single feature number but found to be associated features of a building feature during post excavation analysis stage, they are counted as individual feature and listed in the table. For details of sub-features included in a building feature, please refer to Section 4.3.1 below and Annex E1a.

(8) J4 was divided into two main parts, comprising J4 (Upper and Middle Part) and J4 (Bottom Part). The J4 (Upper and Middle Part) was found below Layer 1 of the Phase 1 Archaeological Work while the J4 (Bottom Part) was found below Layer 3b of the Phase 1 Archaeological Work. With reference to the stratigraphic relation and dating of the artefacts unearthed, the two parts of J4 belonged to two different FGs. J4 (Upper and Middle Part) belonged to FG4 while J4 (Bottom Part) belonged to FG2 of Phase 1 Archaeological Work. Therefore, J4 is counted as 1 well under FG2 and 1 well under FG4. For details, please refer to p. 4-49.

(9) KSH2012 H23 and H25 were cancelled while J4 was counted as 2 wells in according to its stratigraphic relation. The total quantity of archaeological features unearthed in Phase 1 Archaeological Work area has been revised from 239 to 238.



(10) For details of stratigraphic relations between features please refer to Annexes E1a and E3a.

As presented in Table 4.6, the features unearthed in the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area can be grouped into five (5) FGs (i.e. FG1 to FG5) according to the associated stratigraphic and coexistent relation of the features. The dating of a period and its associated feature(s)/layer(s) was based on the identified finds. The dating of the features is discussed in Volume 4 of this Final Report with reference to the ceramic analysis results and finds assessments discussed in Volume 3 of this Final Report.

The FGs are discussed in more detail below. Each type of features for each FG discussed is provided with examples. For more information on each of the archaeological features and the stratigraphic relationship between archaeological features, please refer to Annexes E1a, E2a and E3a.

Feature Group 1 (FG1)

FG1 included the features that were found below Layer 3d of the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area, comprising fifteen (15) burials, one (1) stone built wall structure and two (2) pits.

- Burials

Fifteen (15) burials (KSH2012 M1, M9–M13, M15-17, M20-M22, M25, M27 and M28) were found below Layer 3d of the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area. Most of the burials in FG1 are in square, rectangular or irregular shapes and shallow burial pits, with low quality funerary objects. For example, KSH2012 M1 is in square shape, with slanted sides and a flat base. Funerary objects were unearthed including tiles for placing the head and relatively rough or low quality funerary objects such as a pottery jar with four loops, Qingbai (青白) glazed porcelain bowl, a coin and an iron knife. The dimensions of this burial are: 240cm (Length) x 220 (Width) x 20cm (Depth). The photograph and detailed drawings of KSH2012 M1 are shown in Figure E2a-3a of Annex E2a and Figure E3a-3a of Annex E3a.

- Stone built wall structure

One (1) stone built wall structure, KSH2012 SQ8, was found below Layer 3d of TP EA2 in the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area. It was in linear shape, built with irregular boulders and measured 540cm (Length) x 180cm (Width) x 30cm (Height) in dimension. The photograph and detailed drawing of KSH2012 SQ8 are shown in Figure E2a-4m of Annex E2a and Figure E3a-4r of Annex E3a.

- Pits

Two (2) garbage pits (KSH2012 H37 and H38) filled with soils and containing a large quantity of porcelain and pottery shards was found below Layer 3d of the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area.

KSH2012 H37 was a rectangular shaped pit, with slanted sides and a flat base. It was filled with brownish soils and contained porcelain shards and pottery shards. Its dimensions are: 180cm (Length) x 100cm (Width) x 25cm (Depth). The photograph and detailed drawing of KSH2012 H37 are shown in Figure E2a-1ad of Annex E2a and Figure E3a-1aa of Annex E3a.

KSH2012 H38 was also a rectangular shaped pit, with slanted sides and a flat base. It disturbed the burial feature M27. It was filled with brownish soils and contained porcelain shards and pottery shards. Its dimensions are: 245cm (Length) x 140cm (Width) x 20cm (Depth). The photograph and detailed drawing of KSH2012 H38 are shown in Figure E2a-1ae of Annex E2a and Figure E3a-1ab of Annex E3a.

FG1 can be dated to the Song-Yuan Dynasties (Figure 4.1 shows the distribution of the FG1).

Feature Group 2 (FG2)

FG2 included the features that were found below Layer 3b of the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area, including one (1) building feature, two (2) ditches, two (2) pits, two (2) wells and one (1) burial.

- Building Feature

One building feature (KSH2012 F7) belonging to FG2 was unearthed in the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area.

Other features associated with the building features were also identified therefore a sub-features coding system was adopted. For example, for building feature KSH2012 F7, the associated features included the floor surface, post holes, and wall structures. A sub-feature code was assigned to each of these features.

Building Feature KSH2012 F7

Building feature KSH2012 F7 comprised 1 floor surface (KSH2012 F7 DM1), twenty eight (28) post holes (KSH2012 F7 D3-D8, D10-D12, D16-D18, and D19-D34), a well (KSH2012 F7 J5), two (2) wall structures (KSH2012 F7 QJ1 and QJ4), two (2) pits (KSH2012 H50 and H51) and 2 ditches (KSH2012 G153 and G154).

Floor (DM):

KSH2012 F7 DM1 was formed by a hard surface and the compaction of fill layers found below Layer 3b of ATP1 in the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area. The floor was formed by a reddish soil mixed with a large amount of coarse sands placed in layer-by-layer. Below the hard surface two layers including a brownish soil layer and a yellowish brown soil layer were found. It is believed that the reddish soil filled the two layers and was then compacted to form a hard surface. KSH2012 F7 DM1, the ground floor remains of a demolished built structure, was found only in ATP1 of the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area. The dimensions of KSH2012 F7 DM1 are: 915 cm (Length) x 400 cm (Width).

Post Holes (D):

Twenty-eight (28) post holes (KSH2012 F7 D3-D8, D10-D12, D16-D18, and D19-D34) were found below Layer 3b of ATP1 in the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area. Most of them were in a circular shape, but some were found in an oval shape (such as KSH2012 F7 D8), an irregular shape (such as KSH2012 F7 D18 and D26) and a sub-rectangular shape (such as KSH2012 F7 D34). Some of the post holes were found with a round stone at the bottom of the holes. According to the spatial distribution pattern of the post holes, the post holes were probably the structural support of a building and the stones were probably the column bases. As the post holes appeared to extend west outside ATP1 of the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area, the layout or extent of the demolished structure cannot be confirmed.

Wall foundations (QJ):

Two (2) wall structures (KSH2012 F7 QJ1 and QJ4) were found below Layer 3b of ATP1 in the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area. KSH2012 F7 QJ1 was located at the southwest of ATP1 of the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area while KSH2012 F7 QJ4 was located at the southeast. It is considered likely that KSH2012 F7 QJ1 and QJ4 were both the outer walls of KSH2012 F7. They were built with a mixture of yellowish red soil and sand.

KSH2012 F7 was found below Layer 3b of ATP1 of the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area with a dimension of 450cm (Length) x 1,980cm (Width).

As only part of KSH2012 F7 has been revealed during this excavation, the whole layout of KSH2012 F7 cannot be confirmed. The photograph and detailed drawing of KSH2012 F7 are shown in Figure E2a-5ck of Annex E2a and Figure E3a-5ad of Annex E3a.

- Ditches

Two (2) ditches (KSH2012 G153 and G154) were found below Layer 3b of ATP1 in the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area with the same stratigraphy as KSH2012 F7. It is considered likely that they both belonged to FG2.

The ditches are linear shape and were filled with a brownish soil. The dimensions of KSH2012 G153 are: 490cm (Length) x 27cm (Width) while those for KSH2012 G154 are: 327cm (Length) x 15cm (Width). The photographs and detailed drawings of KSH2012 G153 and G154 are shown in Figures E2a-7aa and E2a-7ab of Annex E2a and Figures E3a-7d and E3a-7e of Annex E3a.

- Pits

Two (2) pits (KSH2012 H50 and H51) were found below Layer 3b in the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area. Both were garbage pits filled with soils and contained a large quantity of porcelain and pottery shards.

KSH2012 H50, for example, was an oval shape pit with concave sides and a flat base. It was filled with brownish soils and contained two celadon incense burners and porcelain and pottery shards. It was found below Layer 3b of ATP1 of the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area. Its dimensions are: 53cm (Length) x 28cm (Width) x 10cm (Depth). The photograph and detailed drawing of KSH2012 H50 are shown in Figure E2a-1aj in Annex E2a and Figure E3a-1ag in Annex E3a. According to the stratigraphy relationship these pits are grouped into FG2.

- Wells

Two (2) wells (KSH2012 J5 and KSH2012 J4 (Bottom Part)) were found below Layer 3b in the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area.

KSH2012 J4 Bottom Part is circular in shape, built with granite blocks with a clayey soil mixture used as the bonding agent and surface finishing for the interior of the well. It was found below Layer 3b of TP110 in the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area (see Figure E2a-6f of Annex E2a). Its dimensions (including the outer bonding agent and the well platform) are: 346cm (Length) x 282cm (Width) x 170 (Depth). The diameter of the circular well body is 102cm. The photograph and detailed drawing of KSH2012 J4 Bottom Part are shown in Figure E2a-6e of Annex E2a and Figure E3a-6d of Annex E3a.

KSH2012 J5 is square in shape and was built with ten (10) layers of granite blocks and grouted with a clayey soil mixture as a bonding agent. It was well built and preserved in a good condition. For safety reasons, the excavation was not undertaken down to the bottom of the well as it was too deep for the workers to reach. The well was found below Layer 3b of ATP1 in the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area and with a dimension of 290cm (Length) x 255cm (Width) x 200cm (1) (Excavation Depth). The photograph and detail drawing of KSH2012 J5 are shown in Figure E2a-6g in Annex E2a and Figure E3a-6e in Annex E3a.

According to the stratigraphy, KSH2012 J4 bottom part and KSH2012 J5 are both grouped into FG2.

It should be noted that the well KSH2012 J5 in ATP1 in the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area is dated to the Song-Yuan Dynasties. It is a stable square well in good structural condition and is the first one found in Hong Kong. As no construction works is required in the ATP1 area, for better protection of the well, ATP1 in the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area was properly backfilled. The backfill process is detailed in Volume 4.

- Burial

KSH2012 M2 is rectangular in shape, with slanted sides and a flat base. Funerary objects comprising iron materials, porcelain shards, pottery shards and relatively rough or low quality funerary objects (including pottery vase, pottery jar with six (6) loops, celadon bowl and some copper coins, e.g. Yuanfeng Tongbao (元豐通寶), Xining Yuanbao (熙寧元寶), Xianping Yuanbao (咸平元寶), etc.) were found. The burial was found in a sand dune and overlaid by KSH2012 F6 DM2. Its dimensions are: 250cm (Length) x 230cm (Width) x 40cm (Depth). The photograph and detailed drawing of KSH2012 M2 are shown in Figure E2a-3b in Annex E2a and Figure E3a-3b of Annex E3a.

FG2 can be dated to the Song-Yuan Dynasties (Figure 4.2 shows the distribution of the features of FG2).

Feature Group 3 (FG3)

FG3 includes all features that were found below Layer 3a of the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area which comprised two (2) building features, ten (10) pits, one (1) ditch and three (3) kilns.

- Building Feature

(1) The excavation of KSH2012 J5 was terminated at 3m because of safety reason. The actual depth of the well will be deeper. .

Two (2) building features (KSH2012 F5 and F6) were found below Layer 3a of the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area.

Other features associated with the building features were also identified. Therefore a sub-features coding system was adopted. For example, building feature F6 contained the floor surface, post holes, garbage deposits and wall structures and therefore a sub-feature code was assigned to each of these features.

Building Feature KSH2012 F5

KSH2012 F5 is rectangular in shape and comprised of a hard surface (KSH2012 F5 DM1), forty-two (42) post holes (KSH2012 F5 D1, D3- D5, D9- D12, D16, D26, D27, D29- D35, D37, D40- D48, D52- D54, D56- D58, D60, D73, D74, D76- D80), seven (7) garbage deposits (KSH2012 F5 WL1-4 and WL7-9) and four (4) wall structures (KSH2012 F5 QJ1, QJ2, QJ4 and QJ5).

Floor (DM):

KSH2012 F5 DM1 was formed by a hard surface and compounded of fill layers which were found below Layer 3a of TP90 (TP2, TP82, TP90, TP99 and TP EA1 were combined as TP90, here after referred to TP90), ATP3 and ATP4 of the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area. KSH2012 F5 DM1 is the ground floor remains of a demolished built structure and was formed by reddish soil which was mixed with a large amount of coarse sands. The reddish soil was likely obtained from nearby hills and was formed layer by layer. A further two (2) layers of soil were found below the hard surface including a brownish soil layer and a yellowish brown soil layer. The dimensions of KSH2012 F5 DM1 are: 1,600 cm (Length) x 1,320 cm (Width) x 40 cm (Depth).

Based on the findings, it is believed that the reddish soil layers were filled on top of the two (2) layers of soil and compacted to form a hard floor surface.

Post Holes (D):

Forty-two (42) post holes (KSH2012 F5 D1, D3-D5, D9-D12, D16, D26, D27, D29-D35, D37, D40-D48, D52-D54, D56-D58, D60, D73, D74 and D76-80) were found below Layer 3a of TP90 and ATP3 in the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area. Most of them were circular in shape, but some were irregular shape (such as KSH2012 F5 D9 and D12), square shape (such as KSH2012 F5 D16), and sub-rectangular shape (such as KSH2012 F5 D29 and D30). Some of the post holes were found with a round stone as the stone column base to provide structural support to a roof.

Garbage deposits (WL):

Seven (7) garbage deposits (KSH2012 F5 WL1-4 and WL7-9) were found below Layer 3a of TP90 in the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area. They were irregular in shape and contained a large quantity of tile fragments, porcelain shards and pottery shards. They were overlaid by Layer 3a and likely to be the living deposits of KSH2012 F5.

Wall foundations (QJ):

Four (4) wall foundations (KSH2012 F5 QJ1, QJ2, QJ4 and QJ5) were found below Layer 3a of TP90 and ATP4 in the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area. KSH2012 F5 QJ1 and QJ2 were located at the southeast of KSH2012 F5 while KSH2012 F5 QJ4 was located at the middle of KSH2012 F5 which was built with dead corals and stones. KSH2012 F5 QJ5 was located at the north of KSH2012 F5 which was built with dead corals and stones. KSH2012 F5 QJ2 was the outer wall of KSH2012 F5 while KSH2012 F5 QJ1 was the interior wall. They were aligned in parallel to each other and in NE-SW orientation. KSH2012 F5 QJ4 was the dividing wall of KSH2012 F5 and KSH2012 F5 QJ5 was the wall which separates KSH2012 F5 and the dropped down level which is located at the east of KSH2012 F5.

KSH2012 F5 was found below Layer 3a of the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area, with a dimension of 1730cm (Length) x 3250cm (Width) x 30cm (Depth).

With reference to the stratigraphic relationship between KSH2012 F5 and KSH2012 F6, KSH2012 F5 was overlaid and disturbed KSH2012 F6, and it was built after the demolition of KSH2012 F6. However, as no cultural layer was found between KSH2012 F5 and KSH2012 F6, it indicated that the time interval between the demolition of KSH2012 F6 and construction of KSH2012 F5 was very short. They are therefore considered to be of the same FG.

Building Feature KSH2012 F6

KSH2012 F6 is rectangular in shape and comprised two (2) hard surfaces (KSH2012 F6 DM1 and DM2), twenty-seven (27) post holes (KSH2012 F6 D1-D4, D6-D7, D9-D24, D27-D31), four (4) garbage deposits (KSH2012 F6 WL1-4), four (4) wall structures (KSH2012 F6 QJ1-QJ4) , two (2) kilns (KSH2012 Y2 and Y3), (2) two pits (KSH2012 H56 and H62) and one (1) ditch (KSH2012 G155) (1).

Floor (DM):

KSH2012 F6 DM1 was formed by a hard surface and compounded of fill layer which was found below Layer 3a of TP110 (TP109, TP110 and TP120 are combined as TP110, here after referred to TP110) in the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area. KSH2012 F6 DM1was the ground floor remains of a demolished built structure. It was formed layer by layer by a reddish soil mixed with large amounts of coarse sands. Below the hard surface was a layer of brownish soil.

(1) Kilns KSH2012 Y2 and Y3, pits KSH2012 H56 and H62 and ditch KSH2012 G155 were individually coded but they are considered to be associated with KSH2012 F6 during post excavation analysis. Therefore, they are coded individually.

Based on the findings, it is believed that the reddish soil and brownish soil were filled and rammed to form a hard floor surface. Dimensions of KSH2012 F6 DM1 are: 380 cm (Length) x 202 cm (Width) x 7 cm (Depth).

Similar to KSH2012 F6 DM1, KSH2012 F6 DM2 was also formed by a hard surface and compounded of fill layers which were found below Layer 3a of TP90 ATP3 and ATP4 in the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area. KSH2012 F6 DM2 is the ground floor remains of a demolished built structure. It was formed layer by layer by yellowish brown soil mixed with large amounts of coarse sands. The yellowish brown soil was likely obtained from the adjacent hills. Below the hard surface were five (5) layers of yellowish brown soil. Dimensions of KSH2012 F6 DM2 are: 4,080 cm (Length) x 2,110 cm (Width) x 70 cm (Depth).

Based on the findings, it is believed that the hard surface was formed by filling layers of yellow brownish soil and rammed to form a hard floor surface.

It should be noted that after removal of KSH2012 F5 DM1, KSH2012 F6 DM2 was found beneath it. KSH2012 F6 DM2 was extended to connect KSH2012 F6 DM1 in TP110 in the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area. In accordance to the stratigraphy, they were hard surfaces of the same layer and were probably dated to the same era and therefore regarded as the same feature.

Post Holes (D):

Twenty-seven (27) post holes (KSH2012 F6 D1-D4, D6-D7, D9-D24 and D27-D31) were found below Layer 3a of TP110 in the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area. Almost all of them were circular in shape (except KSH2012 F6 D4, which was sub-rectangular in shape). According to their spatial distribution pattern, they were probably post holes for the structural columns of a demolished rectangular layout building.

Garbage Deposits (WL):

Four (4) garbage deposits (KSH2012 F6 WL1 to WL4) were found below Layer 3a of TP110, TP111[1] and TP121[2] in the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area. They were located at the east of KSH2012 F6 and were irregular in shape and contained a large quantity of tile fragments and pottery shards, and a small quantity of porcelain shards. They were overlaid by KSH2012 F6 DM1 and likely to be the living deposits of KSH2012 F6.

Wall Foundations (QJ):

Four (4) wall structures (KSH2012 F6 QJ1 to QJ4) were found below Layer 3a of KSH2012 TP90 and TP110 in the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area. KSH2012 F6 QJ1 and QJ2 were located at the southeast of KSH2012 F6 while KSH2012 F6 QJ4 was located in the middle. KSH2012 F6 QJ3 was located at the north of KSH2012 F6. KSH2012 F6 QJ1 was the interior wall of KSH2012 F6 while KSH2012 F6 QJ2, QJ3 and QJ4 were the outer walls which separated KSH2012 F6 and the sand dune at the east of KSH2012 F6. KSH2012 F6 QJ2 and QJ4 were built with granite slabs while KSH2012 F6 QJ1 and QJ3 were built with dead corals and stones.

[1] TP111 and TP121 did not consist of Layer 3a, the stratigraphic relation of WL1 to WL4 are based on the stratigraphic relation in TP110, for TP111 and TP121, the stratigraphic relation of garbage deposits are below Layer 3e.

[2] TP111 and TP121 did not consist of Layer 3a, the stratigraphic relation of WL1 to WL4 are based on the stratigraphic relation in TP110, for TP111 and TP121, the stratigraphic relation of garbage deposits are below Layer 3e.

KSH2012 F6 was found below Layer 3a and with a dimension of 1,940cm (Length) x 3,750cm (Width) x 60cm(Depth).

According to the stratigraphic relationship, KSH2012 F6 was found below Layer 3a of the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area; however, it was then disturbed by the building feature KSH2012 F5 which was also found below Layer 3a of the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area. Therefore, according to their stratigraphic relationship, KSH2012 F6 must be earlier than KSH2012 F5, though KSH2012 F6 disturbed the Layer 3b of the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area. It is considered likely that Layer 3b of the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area was the original landscape while KSH2012 F6 was the building, thus the stratigraphic relation of KSH2012 F6 and Layer 3b in TP90 and TP110 in the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area should all belong to FG3. Since no cultural layer was found between KSH2012 F5 and KSH2012 F6, it indicates that the time interval between the demolition of KSH2012 F6 and construction of KSH2012 F5 was very short, and therefore belong to the same FG.

Two (2) kilns (KSH2012 Y2 and KSH2012 Y3) were found within the KSH2012 F6 area in TP110 in the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area. Based on their relationship with KSH2012 F6 DM2, they are regarded as associated features of KSH2012 F6. Some burnt surfaces and large quantity of tile shards were found within KSH2012 Y2 and Y3. Therefore, both KSH2012 Y2 and Y3 were likely tile kilns. The function of KSH2012 F6 was likely a workshop which manufactured household tiles.

Two (2) pits (KSH2012 H56 and KSH2012 H62) were found within the KSH2012 F6 area in TP90 in the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area. They had the same stratigraphic relation with F6 and therefore were regarded as associated features of KSH2012 F6. They were likely the garbage pits which served the building feature KSH2012 F6.

One (1) ditch (KSH2012 G155) was found within the KSH2012 F6 area in TP90 in the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area. It had the same stratigraphic relation with F6 and therefore was regarded as associated features of KSH2012 F6. It was likely a ditch feature which served the building feature KSH2012 F6.

As KSH2012 F6 was found below Layer 3a of TP110 in the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area, KSH2012 F6 is grouped into FG3. The photograph and detailed drawing of KSH2012 F6 are shown in Figures E2a-5ax-1 to E2a-5cj of Annex E2a and Figures E3a-5s and E3a-5t of Annex E3a.

- Pits

Ten (10) pits (KSH2012 H41, H42, H45, H49, H53, H55, H56, H59, H61 and H62) were found below Layer 3a of the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area.

Except H56 and H62, they are all garbage pits filled with soils and contained a large quantity of porcelain and pottery shards. For example, KSH2012 H61 was an irregular shape pit, with slanted sides and a flat base. It was filled with blackish soils and contained a large quantity of porcelain and pottery shards. It was found below Layer 3a of TP90 and TP EA3 in the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area, with a dimension of 245cm (Length) x 125cm (Width) x 31cm (Depth).

According to the stratigraphic relationship, the pits were all found below Layer 3a of the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area, and are therefore grouped into FG3. The photograph and detailed drawing of KSH2012 H61 are shown in Figure E2a-1aq of Annex E2a and Figure E3a-1an of Annex E3a.

- Ditch

One (1) ditch (KSH2012 G155) was found below Layer 3a of TP90 and TP110 in the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area with the same stratigraphic relation as KSH2012 F6. Considering the coexistent and stratigraphic relationships with KSH2012 F6 and KSH2012 F5 DM1, KSH2012 G155 is grouped into FG3. As it was found within the KSH2012 F6 area in TP90 and TP110 in the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area and had the same stratigraphic relation with F6, it was regarded as associated features of KSH2012 F6.

KSH2012 G155 is linear in shape, filled with brownish soil, with a dimension of 995cm (Length) x 130cm (Width) x 72cm (Depth). The photograph and detailed drawing of KSH2012 G155 are shown in Figure E2a-7ac of Annex E2a and Figure E3a-7f of Annex E3a.

- Kilns

Three (3) kilns (KSH2012 Y1-Y3) were unearthed below Layer 3a of the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area.

KSH2012 Y1 is semi-rectangular in shape, with slanted sides and a flat base with a tapered rounded point. It can be divided into a kiln chamber and a kiln bed. The kiln chamber was filled by two (2) carbon layers and two (2) coral layers. Beneath the carbon and coral layers was a small pit filled with carbon ash. The kiln bed was formed by a brownish soil which was burned to become a hard surface. The kiln was found below Layer 3a of TP EA2 in the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area and disturbed by KSH2012 H33. Its dimensions are: 303cm (Length) x 125cm (Width) x 45cm (Depth).

The photographs and detailed drawing of KSH2012 Y1 are shown in Figures E2a-2a and E2a-2b of Annex E2a and Figure E3a-2a of Annex E3a.

KSH2012 Y2 is oval in shape, with slanted sides and a flat base. It was found incomplete due to the western part being disturbed by the former drainage nullah to the west. The kiln chimney, the only remaining part, was filled by two carbon debris layers and two red soil layers. A layer of filled carbon ash was found beneath the carbon and red soil layers. The kiln was found below Layer 3a of TP110 in the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area and with a dimension of 300cm (Length) x 250cm (Width) x 37cm (Depth) in dimension. The photographs and detailed drawing of KSH2012 Y2 are shown in Figure E2a-2c and E2a-2d of Annex E2a and Figure E3a-2b of Annex E3a.

KSH2012 Y3 is irregular in shape, with slanted sides and a flat base. Similarly to KSH2012 Y2, the kiln was found incomplete due to the western part being disturbed by the former drainage nullah to the west. The kiln chimney, the only remaining part, was filled with two carbon debris layers and two red soil layers. A layer of filled carbon ash was found beneath the carbon and red soil layers. The kiln was found below Layer 3a of TP90 and TP110 in the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area and with a dimension of approximately 350cm (Length) x 350cm (Width) x 60cm (Depth). The photographs and detailed drawing of KSH2012 Y3 are shown in Figures E2a-2e and E2a-2f of Annex E2a and Figure E3a-2c of Annex E3a.

Both KSH2012 Y2 and KSH2012 Y3 were found below Layer 3a of the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area. However, they were located within the KSH2012 F6 area and considered to be associated features of KSH2012 F6. KSH2012 F6 DM1 showed coexistent relation with KSH2012 Y2 and Y3. Therefore, KSH2012 Y2 and KSH2012 Y3 should belong to the same FG as with KSH2012 F6.

According to the stratigraphic relation, KSH2012 Y1, Y2 and Y3 were found below Layer 3a of the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area and are therefore grouped into FG3.

FG3 can be dated to the Song-Yuan Dynasties (Figure 4.3 shows the distribution of features of FG3).

Feature Group 4 (FG4)

Features that are grouped to FG4 were unearthed in the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area and comprised three (3) stone built structures, four (4) building features, one hundred and forty eight (148) ditches, thirty-three (33) ponds/garbage pits/pits/large pits and four (4) wells. They were all found below Layer 1 and Layers 2a-2d of the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area. Each feature type is discussed in more detail below.

- Stone Built Wall Structures

Three (3) stone built wall structures (KSH2012 SQ5-SQ7) were unearthed in the Phase 1 Archaeological Work Area. All of the walls were built with layers of granites and in a linear or "E" shape. For example, KSH2012 SQ6 was linear in shape and was built with one layer of stones. The dimensions of wall are approximately 440 cm (Length) x 70cm (Width) x 35 cm (Height). The structure was found below Layer 2b of TP93 in the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area.

The photographs and detailed drawing of KSH2012 SQ6 are shown in Figures E2a-4i and E2a-4j of Annex E2a and Figure E3a-4p of Annex E3a.

According to the stratigraphic relation, KSH2012 SQ5-SQ7 were found below Layers 1 and Layers 2a-2d, and are therefore grouped into FG4.

- Building Features

Four (4) building features (KSH2012 F1-F4) were found below Layer 1 of the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area. All of the features are stone building remains built with several layers of stones. The remaining features can be identified as building foundations. For example KSH2012 F4 was a stone structure built with six layers of granite blocks (with a dimension of approximately 1,650cm x 1,020cm) and was found below Layer 1 of TP112, TP113, TP114, TP122, TP123 and TP124 in the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area. Beneath the stone layers, a concrete foundation was found which was built as a base to support the stone layers. The base and stone layers were further supported by wooden columns beneath the concrete base. The feature is considered to be the underground foundation remains of a demolished built structure. The general layout of the building structure could still be identified; however, the findings indicate that some of the upper layer stones were removed during the subsequent developments at the same location. The photographs and detailed drawing of KSH2012 F4 are shown in Figures E2a-5e and E2a-5f of Annex E2a and Figures E3a-5c and E3a-5d of Annex E3a.

According to the stratigraphic relation, KSH2012 F1-F4 were found below Layer 1 of the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area and can be grouped into FG4.

- Ditches

A total of one hundred and forty eight (148) ditches were found below Layers 2b and 2c of the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area (KSH2012 G1-G95, G97-G104, G106-G142, and G144-G151). They are all linear in shape and filled with brownish soils. For example, KSH2012 G18 (with a dimension of 384cm (Length) x 35cm (Width) x 15 cm (Depth)) was found below Layer 2c of TP80 in the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area and filled with brownish soil. All of the ditches were irrigation ditches dividing small patches of farm fields.

The photograph and detailed drawing of KSH2012 G18 are shown in Figure E2a-7c in Annex E2a and Figure E3a-7a in Annex E3a.

According to the stratigraphic relation, these ditches were found below Layers 2a-2d of the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area and can therefore be grouped into FG4.

- Ponds/Pits

A total of thirty-three (33) pond/pit/large pit features were found below Layer 1 and Layers 2a-2d of the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area, which comprised fifteen (15) ponds and eighteen (18) pits/large pits (KSH2012 K2-K5, KSH2012 H1-H6, H8, H9, H11-H14, H16-H18, H21, H22, H24, H26-H35 and H57).

The fifteen (15) ponds identified (KSH2012 H1-H6, H12-H14, H16-H17, H26, H28, H29 and H33) were water storage features for agricultural use and therefore regarded as farming features. They ponds were mostly rectangular in shape and piled up with granite stones in rows. The surfaces of the walls were smooth, finished with clay cements (a mixture of clay, coarse sand and lime). Pond KSH2012 H1, for example, was rectangular in shape (around 275cm x 255cm) with slanted sides and a flat base. The pond was made with stones and mortar and the surface was finished with clay cement. The pond was found below Layer 2a of TP79 in the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area. The photograph and detailed drawing of KSH2012 H1 are shown in Figure E2a-1a of Annex E2a and Figure E3a-1a of Annex E3a.

Of the eighteen (18) pits identified, most were considered garbage pits used for discarding household garbage (KSH2012 K2-K5, KSH2012 H8-H9, H11, H18, H21, H22, H24, H27, H30-H32, H34-H35 and H57). The majority of the pits were oval in shape while some were rectangular, circular or semi-circular and irregular shapes. For example, KSH2012 K2 was a large irregular shaped pit (approximately 2,790cm x 1,360 cm in dimension), with slanted sides and a flat base. It was filled with blackish soil and found below Layer 1 of TP75, TP78, TP79, TP84, TP EA2 and TP EA3 in the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area. The photograph and detailed drawing of KSH2012 K2 are shown in Figure E2a-1as of Annex E2a and Figure E3a-1ap of Annex E3a.

According to the stratigraphy relation, the ponds and pits were found below Layer 1 and Layers 2a-2d and can therefore be grouped into FG4.

- Wells

Four (4) round shape wells (KSH2012 J1-J4 upper and middle part) were found below Layer 1 and Layers 2a-2d of the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area.

KSH2012 J1 to KSH2012 J3 were built with granite blocks with cement finishing on the interior. Cement was also used as the bonding agent for the granite blocks. All three (3) wells were found below Layer 1 of the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area. The diameter of the wells ranged from approximately 125cm to 240cm and with 2m-2.5m in depth. The photographs and detailed drawings of KSH2012 J1, J2 and J3 are shown in Figures E2a-6a, E2a-6b and E2a-6c in Annex E2a and Figures E3a-6a, E3a-6b and E3a-6c in Annex E3a respectively.

It is considered likely that well KSH2012 J4 was used during the Song-Yuan Dynasties to the Late Qing Dynasty to Republican period. It can be divided into three parts (Upper part, Middle part and Bottom part). The Upper part was covered by concrete, and below this layer was fill soils. The Middle part was built with granite blocks and finished with cement on top. Below the cement finishing, at the exterior of the well in the well pit, the well was filled with a brownish soil layer which contained some blue and white porcelain shards. A hard surface was found below the Middle part of the well, separating the Middle and the Bottom part of the well (the bottom part is further discussed under FG2).

The photograph and detailed drawing of KSH2012 J4 are shown in Figure E2a-6d in Annex E2a and Figure E3a-6d in Annex E3a respectively.

According to the stratigraphic relation, these wells were found below Layer 1 and Layers 2a-2d and can therefore be grouped into FG4.

Some wood strips (with 9 strips as a group) were discovered under Layer 1. These were most likely the foundations of the buildings dated to early-20th century.

FG4 can be dated to the Late Qing Dynasty to Republican period (Figure 4.4 shows the distribution of the features of FG4).

Feature Group 5 (FG5)

Features belonging to FG5 were unearthed in the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area and comprised four (4) stone built wall structures.

Only four (4) stone built wall structures were found in Layer 1 of the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area. All of them were built with layers of granites and were linear or "L" shape. It is likely that KSH2012 SQ1-SQ4 were temporary structures associated with reclamation work in the area. For example, KSH2012 SQ1 is linear in shape and was built with two layers of stones (with a dimension of approximately 1,790cm x 90cm).

The photographs and detailed drawing of KSH2012 SQ1 are shown in Figures E2a-4a, E2a-4b and E2a-4c in Annex E2a and Figure E3a-4a in Annex E3a respectively.

According to the stratigraphic relation, KSH2012 SQ1-SQ4 were found in Layer 1 of the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area therefore grouped into FG5.

FG5 can be dated to the Mid-20th century (Figure 4.5 shows the distribution of features of FG5).

4.3.2 Archaeological Features Unearthed from the Phases 2 and 3 Archaeological Work (KSWT2013)

A total of eighty one (81) archaeological features were identified from the Phases 2 and 3 Archaeological Work areas and comprised twenty-eight (28) stone built structures, five (5) building features, twenty-seven (27) garbage pits/pits, four (4) wells, two (2) water channels, three (3) tile built features, five (5) stone built column bases, four (4) path features, one (1) ditch feature and two (2) hard surface features. The detailed list, associated stratigraphy, drawings and photography of the features are presented in Annex E1b - Detailed Records of the Archaeological Features Unearthed in the Phases 2 and 3 Archaeological Work Areas (KSWT2013), Annex E2b - Photographs of the Archaeological Features Unearthed in the Phases 2 and 3 Archaeological Work Areas

(KSWT2013), and Annex E3b - Detailed Drawings of the Archaeological Features Unearthed in the Phases 2 and 3 Archaeological Work Areas (KSWT2013).

The features unearthed are classified into four (4) FGs (FG1 to FG4) based on the criteria below:

Stratigraphy

Almost all of the features in the same FG are found below/in the same layer. For example, all the features at FG1 were found below Layers 4b and 5a of the Phases 2 and 3 Archaeological Work areas.

Relationship between the features, such as coexistence, disturbance and overlaid relationship

The stratigraphic relation between the features is also an important consideration. For example, the disturbance relation between KSWT2013 H4 and KSWT2013 H5 indicates that some parts of these two (2) pits were likely to have coexistence relationship. They are therefore grouped into the same FG.

Dating of the artefacts unearthed from the features

If a disturbance relationship between features existed or there is lack of stratigraphy evidence to show their relationship, then the dating of the artefacts unearthed from the features is an important consideration. For example, as the cultural layer associated with KSWT2013 J2 (well body) had been disturbed, there was lack of stratigraphy evidence to prove its age. However, when comparing two jars with four (4) loops unearthed in KSWT2013 J2 (well body) with the same artefacts unearthed in KSWT2013 H14, the dating was relative and thus KSWT2013 J2 (well body) and KSWT2013 H14 could be dated to the same period and grouped into the same FG.

All features were classified into FGs based on the above grouping criteria and the sequential human activities in the past, such as during the Song-Yuan Dynasties were interpreted.

The grouping is presented in Table 4.7 and the overall plans showing identified archaeological features of each FG are presented in Figures 4.6 to 4.9, respectively.

Notes:

(1) Features codes KSWT2013 H1, H18, H21, H22 and KSWT2013 SQ3 were not used.

(2) Feature Group 1 (FG1): Features found below Layer 4b, Layer 5a (see Figure 4.6)

(3) Feature Group 2 (FG2): Features found below Layer 3b and Layer 4a (see Figure 4.7)

(4) Feature Group 3 (FG3): Features found below Layer 3a (see Figure 4.8); almost all features found under Layer 3a are belonged to FG3. Four pits (KSWT2013 H20, H23, H24 and H29) were found below Layer 2a and Layer 2b. However, according to the dating of the artefacts unearthed from the pits, they are dated to the Song-Yuan Dynasties which is of the same dating of artefacts unearthed in KSWT2013 H9 which was found below Layer 3a. The four pits therefore grouped to FG3. For details, please refer to p. 4-36.

(5) Feature Group 4 (FG4): Features found below Layer 1 and Layer 2 (see Figure 4.9)

(6) Associated features of a building feature identified during field excavation are regarded as part of a building feature under a single feature number and provided with sub-feature codes. As these sub-features are counted as part of a building feature, they are not included in this table. If individual features with assigned single feature number but found to be associated features of a building feature during post excavation analysis stage, they are counted as individual feature and listed in the table. associated features included in a building feature, please refer to Section 4.3.2 below and Annex E1b.

(7) J2 was divided into two parts, comprising J2 (water channel) and J2 (well body), in accordance to the disturbance relationship of the water channel with disturbed pit against the well body. Thus, with reference to the artefact dating and the stratigraphic relation of J2 (water channel) and J2 (well body), they are belonged to two different FGs. J2 (well body) belonged to FG2 of Phases 2 and 3 Archaeological Works as the porcelain and pottery shards found in well KSWT2013 J2 (well body) were consistent with those found in KSWT2013 H14 and have therefore been grouped into FG2. For J2 (water channel), it belonged to the FG4 of Phases 2 and 3 Archaeological Work according to its stratigraphic relation. Therefore, J2 is counted as 1 well under FG2 and 1 well under FG4.

(8) For details of stratigraphic relations between features please refer to Annexes E1b and E3b.

It should be noted that the discovery of the well KSWT2013 J1, the building feature KSWT2013 F3 and the water channel KSWT2013 Q2 of the Phase 2 Archaeological Work; and the stone built wall structures KSWT2013 SQ2, SQ4-SQ6, SQ12-SQ29, the building features KSWT2013 F4-F5, the stone built column bases KSWT2013 ZC1-ZC5 and the paths KSWT2013 L3-L4 of the Phase 3 Archaeological Work, are all dated to the Song-Yuan Dynasties. All of the above mentioned features were formed as a living FG which are not commonly found in Hong Kong. In order to better protect the features for future long term conservation planning and management by the relevant party, the features have been backfilled.

As presented in Table 4.7, the features unearthed in the Phases 2 and 3 Archaeological Work areas can be grouped into four FGs (FG1 to FG4) according to the associated stratigraphic relation and coexistent relation of those features. The dating of the features is discussed in Volume 4 of this Final Report with reference to the ceramic analysis results and finds assessments discussed in Volume 3 of this Final Report.

The FGs are discussed in more detail below. Each type of features for each FG discussed is provided with examples. For more information on each of the archaeological features and the stratigraphic relationship between archaeological features, please refer to Annexes E1b, E2b and E3b.

Feature Group 1 (FG 1)

FG1 includes all of the features that were found below Layer 4b and Layer 5a of the Phases 2 and 3 Archaeological Work areas. The feature group comprised two (2) garbage pits (KSWT2013 H7 and KSWT2013 H27) filled with soils and contained a large quantity of porcelain and pottery shards.

One (1) pit/garbage pit (KSWT2013 H27) was found below Layer 4b of A-TP23 of Zone A in the Phase 3 Archaeological Work area. KSWT2013 H27 is circular in shape, with concave sides and a flat base. The pit was filled with greyish clay and contained a large amount of porcelain and pottery shards in the upper part. Four (4) wood planks and two wooden sticks were found in the lower part. The dimensions of the upper part of KSWT2013 H27 are:

254cm (Length) x 240cm (Width) while the dimensions of lower part are: 100cm (Length) x 100cm (Width) and the total depth is 156cm. The photograph and detailed drawing of KSWT2013 H27 are shown in Figure E2b-1y of Annex E2b and Figure E3b-1u of Annex E3b.

One (1) pit/garbage pit (KSWT2013 H7) was found below Layer 5a of T6 in the Phase 2 Archaeological Work area. KSWT2013 H7 is oval in shape, with vertical sides and a flat base. The pit was filled with a reddish brown soil and contained a large amount of porcelain shards, pottery shards and tile fragments. The dimensions of KSWT2013 H7 are: 80cm (Length) x 66cm (Width) x 100cm (Depth). The photograph and detailed drawing of KSWT2013 H7 are shown in Figure E2b-1h of Annex E2b and Figure E3b-1e of Annex E3b.

KSWT2013 H7and KSWT2013 H27 are grouped into FG1 as they were found below Layer 4b and Layer 5a of the Phase 2 and Phase 3 Archaeological Work areas and were the earliest layers found associated with human activity at the Phases 2 and 3 Archaeological Work areas.

FG1 can be dated to the Song-Yuan Dynasties (Figure 4.6 shows the distribution of features of FG1).

Feature Group 2 (FG2)

FG2 includes all of the features found below Layer 3b and Layer 4a of the Phases 2 and 3 Archaeological Work areas. FG2 comprised one (1) stone built wall structure, one (1) building feature, ten (10) pits, one (1) well and one (1) hard surface.

- Stone Built Wall Structure

One (1) stone built wall structure (KSWT2013 SQ10) was found below Layer 4a and disturbed KSWT2013 YM1 of C-T5 of Zone C in the Phase 3 Archaeological Work area.

KSWT2013 SQ10 was linear in shape, and built with one layer of irregular stones and filled with yellowish brown soil. Its dimensions are: 280cm (Length) x 55cm (Width) x 15cm (Height). It is most likely the remaining part of a building feature, with the upper parts of the building being demolished. The photograph and detailed drawing of KSWT2013 SQ10 are shown in Figure E2b-2i of Annex E2b and Figure E3b-2i of Annex E3b.

According to the stratigraphic relation, it is belonged to FG2.

- Building Feature

One (1) building feature (KSWT2013 F2) was found below Layer 3b of T6 in the Phase 2 Archaeological Work area. It is rectangular in shape and comprised one (1) wall structure (KSWT2013 F2 QJ1) and one (1) ground floor (KSWT2013 F2 DM1).

Wall structure (KSWT2013 F2 QJ1):

The wall structure KSWT2013 F2 QJ1, found to be NW-SE oriented, was rectangular and formed by compacted reddish clay. The wall structure was found below Layer 3b of T6 in the Phase 2 Archaeological Work area.

Floor (KSWT2013 F2 DM1):

The floor (KSWT2013 F2 DM1) was a hard surface which was formed by compacted red soil, and was found below Layer 3b of T6 in the Phase 2 Archaeological Work area. It was likely the ground floor remains of a demolished building structure and was surrounded by KSWT2013 F2 QJ1.

The dimensions of KSWT2013F2 are: 483cm (Length) X 293cm (Width).

The photograph and detailed drawing of KSWT2013 F2 are shown in Figure E2b-3c and E2b-3d of Annex E2b and Figure E3b-3b of Annex E3b.

According to the stratigraphic relation of KSWT2013 F2, it is grouped into FG2.

- Pits

Ten (10) pits (KSWT2013 H3, H4, H5, H6, H10, H11, H12, H13, H14 and H15) were found below Layer 3b or Layer 4a of the Phases 2 and 3 Archaeological Work areas.

Nine (9) pits/garbage pits (KSWT2013 H3-H6 and H10-H14) were found below Layer 3b of the Phases 2 and 3 Archaeological Work areas. Most of these pits/garbage pits are circular in shape, with slanted sides and a flat base except KSWT2013 H3 which is semi-rectangular in shape. KSWT2013 H3-H6 were filled with a reddish brown soil while KSWT2013 H10-H14 was filled with a brownish soil. Except H6, all of the pits contained porcelain and pottery shards. KSWT2013 H10, for example, is circular in shape, with slanted sides and a flat base, filled with brownish soil containing porcelain and pottery shards. The dimensions of KSWT2013 H10 are: 228cm (Diameter) x 158cm (Depth). The photograph and detailed drawing of KSWT2013 H10 are shown in Figure E2b-1k in Annex E2b and Figure E3b-1h in Annex E3b.

One (1) pit/garbage pit (KSWT2013 H15) was found below Layer 4a of T1 in the Phase 2 Archaeological Work area. KSWT2013 H15 is circular in shape, with slanted sides and a flat base. The pit was filled with a brownish soil and contained porcelain and pottery shards. The dimensions of KSWT2013 H15 are: 40cm (Diameter) x 6cm (Depth). The photograph and detailed drawing of KSWT2013 H15 are shown in Figure E2b-1p of Annex E2b and Figure E3b-1m of Annex E3b.

According to the stratigraphic relation and coexistent relation of these pits/ garbage pits, they have been grouped into FG2.

- Well

A well (KSWT2013 J2 (well body)) was unearthed in A-TP10 of Zone A in the Phase 3 Archaeological Work.

Well KSWT2013 J2 (well body), can be divided into three (3) parts: the Upper Part, Middle Part and Bottom Part. It is circular in shape at the Upper and Middle Parts and square in shape at Bottom Part. Each part is further described as follows:

- Upper Part: Circular in shape and constructed with four (4) to five (5) layers of stones in irregular shapes.

- Middle Part: Circular in shape and constructed in a curved shape with one (1) layer of four (4) granite slabs.

- Bottom Part: Square in shape and constructed with three (3) layers of four (4) granite slabs in a rectangular shape at each layer.

The well was filled with a brownish soil and contained a large quantity of porcelain shards and pottery shards. Some of the shards are of high completeness with obvious dating characteristics but many of them were shards with low completeness. Although these less complete ceramic shards could not be dated obviously but they could generally be dated to the Song-Yuan Dynasties. Its dimensions are: 140cm (Length) x 90cm (Width) x 220cm (Depth).

The photographs and detailed drawing of KSWT2013 J2 are shown in Figures E2b-10b and E2b-10c in Annex E2b and Figure E3b-10b in Annex E3b.

KSWT2013 J2 (well body) is considered as an isolated feature located at the foot of the former Sacred Hill. The cultural layer around the well KSWT2013 J2 (well body) was disturbed during the levelling down of the Former Sacred Hill. The porcelain and pottery shards found in well KSWT2013 J2 (well body) were consistent with those found in KSWT2013 H14 and have therefore been grouped into FG2.

KSWT2013 J2 (well body) is most likely a well built at the foothill. As no bonding agent was found between the stone components, it is considered likely that the well was used to capture the water penetrated from the former Sacred Hill to the south.

- Hard Surface

One (1) hard surface (KSWT2013 YM1) was found below Layer 4a of C-T5 of Zone C in the Phase 3 Archaeological Work area.

KSWT2013 YM1 is rectangular in shape and was likely a hard surface formed by human activity. It was found below Layer 4a and disturbed by KSWT2013 SQ10 at the southwest of C-T5 of Zone C in the Phase 3 Archaeological Work area, and was later disturbed by KSWT2013 SQ7. Its dimensions are: 800cm (Length) x 450cm (Width) x 2cm (Height). The

According to the stratigraphic relation, KSWT2013 YM1 is grouped to FG2.

FG2 can be dated to the Song-Yuan Dynasties (Figure 4.7 shows the distribution of features of FG2).

Feature Group 3 (FG 3)

FG3 includes the features found below Layer 3a of the Phases 2 and 3 Archaeological Work areas. FG3 comprised twenty-five (25) stone built wall structures, three (3) building features, nine (9) pits, one (1) well, one (1) water channel, three (3) tile built features, five (5) stone built column bases, two (2) paths and one (1) hard surface.

- Stone Built Wall Structures

Twenty-five (25) stone built wall structures (KSWT2013 SQ2, SQ4, SQ5, SQ6, SQ7, SQ8, SQ11, SQ12, SQ13, SQ14, SQ15, SQ16, SQ17, SQ18, SQ19, SQ20, SQ21, SQ22, SQ23, SQ24, SQ25, SQ26, SQ27, SQ28 and SQ29) were found below Layer 3a of the Phases 2 and 3 Archaeological Work areas.

KSWT2013 SQ13, SQ14, SQ17, SQ18, SQ19, SQ20, SQ21 SQ22and SQ28 were associated with the building feature KSWT2013 F4 and are further discussed under the building feature KSWT2013 F4.

For KSWT2013 SQ2, SQ4, SQ5, SQ7, SQ6, SQ8, SQ11, SQ12, SQ15, SQ16, SQ22, SQ23, SQ24, SQ25, SQ26, SQ27 and SQ29, they were all built with granite blocks or rounded stones, linear or L in shape. Most of them were found below Layer 3a of the Phases 2 and 3 Archaeological Work areas. For example, KSWT2013 SQ27 is linear in shape, built with granite blocks, and filled with brownish soil. It is found below Layer 3a of A-TP18 of Zone A in the Phase 3 Archaeological Work area. Its dimensions are: 870cm (Length) x 26cm (Width) x 10cm (Height). The photograph and detailed drawing of KSWT2013 SQ27 are shown in Figure E2b-2z of Annex E2b and Figure E3b-2z of Annex E3b.

Most of these stone built wall structures are likely the remaining part of a building feature, with the upper part of the buildings being demolished. KSWT2013 SQ7 was most likely a levee as it was located at the bank of a stream.

According to the stratigraphic relation and coexistent relation of these stone built wall structures, they were all found below Layer 3a of the Phases 2 and 3 Archaeological Work areas, thus grouped into FG3.

- Building Features

Three (3) building features (KSWT2013 F3-F5) were found below Layer 3a of the Phases 2 and 3 Archaeological Work areas.

Building Feature KSWT2013 F3

KSWT2013 F3 was rectangular in shape and comprised one (1) ground floor (KSWT2013 F3 DM1), three (3) wall structures (KSWT2013 F3 QJ1-3), one (1) water channel (KSWT2013 Q2), one (1) tile feature (KSWT2013 SS1), one (1) well (KSWT2013 J1), one (1) pit feature (KSWT2013 H8) and two (2) stone built wall structures (KSWT2013 SQ2 and SQ5).

Floor (KSWT2013 F3 DM1):

KSWT2013 F3 DM1 was a hard surface formed by compacted blackish brownish soil which was found below the Layer 3a of T1 in the Phase 2 Archaeological Work area. It contained a large amount of carbon ash which is likely to be associated with burning activities. In the southeast part of F3 DM1, a pit feature (KSWT2013 H8) was found disturbed F3 DM1. It is in circular shape, with carbon ash and burnt soil at the bottom. It is likely a stove which was likely associated with F3 DM1. Taken into account the coexistence relation between KSWT2013 H8 and KSWT2013 F3 DM1, KSWT2013 F3 DM1 was likely the ground surface of a kitchen.

Wall structure (KSWT2013 F3 QJ):

Three (3) wall structures (KSWT2013 F3 QJ1-QJ3) were found below Layer 3a of T1 in the Phase 2 Archaeological Work area. KSWT2013 F3 QJ1 and KSWT2013 F3 QJ2 were NW-SE oriented and built with granite blocks and angular stones. KSWT2013 F3 QJ1 was likely the outer wall while KSWT2013 F3 QJ2 was the low wall of KSWT2013 F3. KSWT2013 F3 QJ3 was SW-NE oriented and built with granite blocks. It was likely a partition wall between rooms. The photographs and detailed drawing of KSWT2013 F3 are shown in Figure E2b-3e to E2b-3i of Annex E2b and Figure E3b-3c to E3b-3f of Annex E3b.

KSWT2013 F3 was found below Layer 3a of T1 in the Phase 2 Archaeological Work area and Zone B in the Phases 3 Archaeological Work area. Its dimensions are: 1,220cm (Length) x 920cm (Width).

Building Feature KSWT2013 F4

KSWT2013 F4 is rectangular in shape and comprised nine (9) wall structures (SQ13, SQ14, SQ17, SQ18, SQ19, SQ20, SQ21, SQ22 and SQ28).

Wall structures (KSWT2013 SQ):

Nine (9) wall structures (KSWT2013 SQ13, SQ14, SQ17, SQ18, SQ19, SQ20, SQ21, SQ22 and SQ28) were found below Layer 3a of the Phase 3 Archaeological Work area. KSWT2013 SQ18, SQ19, SQ20, SQ21 and SQ22 were located at the northwest part of KSWT2013 F4 while KSWT2013 SQ13, SQ14 and SQ17 were located at the southeast part of KSWT2013 F4. They (except SQ18) were the outer wall of KSWT2013 F4 while SQ18 and SQ28 were the interior walls. They formed a rectangular wall structure which was NW-SE oriented.

KSWT2013 F4 was found below Layer 3a in C-T1a of Zone C and Zone D in the Phase 3 Archaeological Work area. Its dimensions are: 1,378cm (Length) x 745cm (Width) and most likely the remains of a building. The photographs and detailed drawing of KSWT2013 F4 are shown in Figures E2b-3j and E2b-3k of Annex E2b and Figure E3b-3g of Annex E3b.

Building Feature F5

KSWT2013 F5 is rectangular in shape and comprised two (2) wall structures (KSWT2013 F5 QJ1 and QJ2), five (5) stone built column bases (KSWT2013 ZC1-ZC5), two (2) tile features (KSWT2013 SS2 and KSWT2013 WQ1), 6 stone built wall structures (KSWT2013 SQ23- SQ27 and SQ29) and two (2) pits (KSWT2013 H30 and H31). No DM was found.

Wall structures (KSWT2013 F5 QJ):

Two (2) wall structures (KSWT2013 F5 QJ1 and KSWT2013 F5 QJ2) were found below Layer 3a in A-TP11 of Zone A in the Phase 3 Archaeological Work area, which were built with reddish clay. Stone built column bases KSWT2013 ZC1 and ZC2 were set on the eastern part of KSWT2013 F5 QJ1 which was NW-SE oriented. KSWT2013 ZC3 and KSWT2013 ZC4 formed a straight line with KSWT2013 F5 QJ2 which was NW-SE oriented and parallel to KSWT2013 F5 QJ1. KSWT2013 F5 QJ1 and KSWT2013 F5 QJ2 formed a rectangular wall structure which was NE-SW oriented.

Stone Built Column Bases (KSWT2013 ZC):

Five (5) stone built column bases (KSWT2013 ZC1-5) were found below the Layer 3a in A-TP11 and A-TP12 of Zone A in the Phase 3 Archaeological Work area. The bases were square granite blocks with an approximate size of 25cm x 25cm. KSWT2013 ZC1 and KSWT2013 ZC2 were set on KSWT2013 F5 QJ1; KSWT2013 ZC3 and ZC4 and KSWT2013 F5 QJ2 aligned as a straight line; and KSWT2013 ZC5 was located at the south of KSWT2013 F5.

Stone Built Wall Structures (KSWT2013 SQ23- SQ27 and SQ29):

Six (6) stone built wall structures were found below the Layer 3a in A-TP11, A-TP12, A-TP17 and A-TP18 of Zone A in the Phase 3 Archaeological Work area. They were found with the same stratigraphic relation with KSWT2013 F5 and located within the KSWT2013 F5 area. Therefore, these stone built wall structures (KSWT2013 SQ23- SQ27 and SQ29) are regarded as associated features of KSWT2013 F5.

KSWT2013 F5 was found below Layer 3a and with a dimension of 725cm (Length) x 350cm (Width) and most likely the remains of a building. The photograph and detailed drawing of KSWT2013 F5 are shown in Figure E2b-3l of Annex E2b and Figure E3b-3h of Annex E3b.

According to the stratigraphic relation and coexistent relation of KSWT2013 F3, F4 and F5, they were all found below Layer 3a in the Phases 2 and 3 Archaeological Work areas, thus, they are all grouped into FG3.

- Pits

Nine (9) pits (KSWT2013 H8, H9, H20, H23, H24, H26, H29, H30 and H31) were found in the Phases 2 and 3 Archaeological Work areas which are all grouped into FG3.

Most of them were found below Layer 3a of the Phases 2 and 3 Archaeological Work areas, except KSWT2013 H20, H23, H24 and H29 which were found below Layer 2a and Layer 2b of the Phases 2 and 3 Archaeological Work areas. The pits are circular, semi-rectangular or irregular in shapes, with slanted sides and a rounded flat or uneven base. They were filled with brownish soil, greyish black soil, greyish brown soil or yellowish brown silty soil, and some of them contained porcelain and pottery shards. For example, KSWT2013 H9 is circular in shape, with slanted sides and a flat base, filled with brownish soil containing porcelain and pottery shards. The dimensions of KSWT2013 H9 are: 220cm (Diameter) x 166cm (Depth).

For those pits which found below Layer 2a or Layer 2b (such as KSWT2013 H20, H23, H24 and H29), it is found that H23 and H24 were located near KSWT2013 H26, H30 and H31. Besides, the artefacts found in KSWT2013 H20, H23, H24 and H29 are similar to those found in KSWT2013 H9, H26, H30 and H31 (dated to Song-Yuan Dynasties). Therefore, these four pits are also considered to belong to the same FG3 as KSWT2013 H8, H9, H26, H30 and H31.

According to the stratigraphic relation and dating of the artefacts, these pits were most likely garbage pits and are grouped into FG3.

- Well

One (1) well (KSWT2013 J1) was found below Layer 3a of T1 in the Phase 2 Archaeological Work area. It was square in shape and constructed with ten (10) layers of four (4) rectangular granite slabs in each layer. Its bottom was built with three (3) granite slabs in a rectangular shape.

The well was filled with dark brownish soil and contained a large quantity of porcelain and pottery shards and brick fragments. The well was found below Layer 3a of T1 in the Phase 2 Archaeological Work area and has a dimension of 90cm (Length) x 80cm (Width) x 330cm (Depth). The photograph and detailed drawing of KSWT2013 J1 are shown in Figure E2b-10a of Annex E2b and Figure E3b-10a of Annex E3b.

KSWT2013 J1 and KSWT2013 F3 are grouped into FG3 according to the stratigraphic and coexistent relation between them. KSWT2013 J1 is most likely a well supplying water for human activities. The well is near KSWT2013 F3 and has the same stratigraphic relationship as KSWT2013 F3. Thus, KSWT2013 J1 is considered to be an associated feature of KSWT2013 F3.

- Water Channel

One (1) water channel (KSWT2013 Q2) was found below Layer 3a of T1 and Zone B in the Phases 2 and 3 Archaeological Work areas.

KSWT2013 Q2 was an L shape water channel. Some parts of the water channel were covered by granite blocks which served as a drain cover. The channel was NW-SE and SW-NE oriented.

The channel was found below Layer 3a of the Phases 2 and 3 Archaeological Work areas, disturbed by KSWT2013 F3, and the dimension measured from NW-SE are: 1,285cm (Length) x 69cm (Width) x 64 cm (Depth) and from SW-NE are: 1,225cm (Length) x 67cm (Width) x 64 cm (Depth). KSWT2013 Q2 was found next to KSWT2013 F3, and with the same stratigraphic relation is considered to be an associated feature, likely drainage which served KSWT2013 F3.

The photographic record and detailed drawing of KSWT2013 Q2 are shown in Figures E2b-5b and 5c of Annex E2b and Figure E3b-5b of Annex E3b.

According to the stratigraphic and coexistent relation between KSWT2013 Q2 and KSWT2013 F3, KSWT2013 Q2 is grouped into FG3.

- Tile Built Features

Three (3) tile built features (KSWT2013 SS1 and SS2 and KSWT2013 WQ1) were found below Layer 3a of the Phases 2 and 3 Archaeological Work areas.

KSWT2013 SS1 was rectangular in shape and constructed with tile fragments in an irregular shape. It was filled with brownish soil, found below Layer 3a of T1 in the Phase 2 Archaeological Work area. Its dimensions are: 148cm (Length) x 20cm (Width) x 10cm (Height). This feature was most likely a water disperse of a Song-Yuan Dynasties building feature (KSWT2013 F3).

The photograph and detailed drawing of KSWT2013 SS1 are shown in Figure E2b-6a of Annex E2b and Figure E3b-6a of Annex E3b.

KSWT2013 SS2 is rectangular in shape and constructed with tile fragments in an irregular shape. It was filled with brownish soil, found below Layer 3a of A-TP14 of Zone A in the Phase 3 Archaeological Work area and with a dimension of 100cm (Length) x 55cm (Width) x 7cm (Height). The feature was most likely a water disperse of a Song-Yuan building feature (KSWT2013 F5). The photograph and detailed drawing of KSWT2013 SS2 are shown in Figure E2b-6b of Annex E2b and Figure E3b-6b of Annex E3b.

KSWT2013 WQ1 is linear in shape and constructed with tile fragments in an irregular shape. It was filled with brownish soil, found below Layer 3a of A-TP18 of Zone A in the Phase 3 Archaeological Work area and a dimension of 300cm (Length) x 40cm (Width) x 5cm (Height). This feature was most likely a wall structure which separated the area for different functions, such as a living area and a dumping area. The photograph and detailed drawing of KSWT2013 WQ1 are shown in Figure E2b-6c of Annex E2b and Figure E3b-6c of Annex E3b.

According to the stratigraphic and coexistent relation between KSWT2013 SS1 and KSWT2013 F3, KSWT2013 SS2 and KSWT2013 F5 and KSWT2013 WQ1 and KSWT2013 F5, they are all grouped into FG3.

- Stone Built Column Bases

Five (5) stone built column bases (KSWT2013 ZC1-ZC5) were found below Layer 3a of A-TP11 and A-TP12 of Zone A in the Phase 3 Archaeological Works area.

These stone built column base features were all square in shape constructed with granite blocks. All of them were found below Layer 3a of A-TP11 and A-TP12 of Zone A in the Phase 3 Archaeological Works area. They are most likely the column base of KSWT2013 F5.

For example, KSWT2013 ZC2 is square in shape, constructed with granite block, found below Layer 3a of A-TP11 of Zone A in the Phase 3 Archaeological Works area. It is considered to be an associated feature of KSWT2013 F5. Its dimensions are: 25cm (Length) x 25cm (Width) x 6cm (Height). The photograph and detailed drawing of KSWT2013 ZC2 are shown in Figure E2b-7b of Annex E2b and Figure E3b-7a of Annex E3b.

According to the stratigraphic and coexistent relationship between KSWT2013 ZC1-ZC5 and KSWT2013 F5, they are grouped into FG3.

- Paths

Two (2) path features (KSWT2013 L3 and L4) were found below Layer 3a of the Phases 2 and 3 Archaeological Work areas.

KSWT2013 L3 is linear in shape and constructed with tile fragments. It was a path formed after the collapse of the Song-Yuan building features. It was filled with brownish soil and contained tiles, porcelain and pottery shards. It was found below Layer 3a of Zone B, C-T1, C-T1a of Zone C, Zone D in the Phase 3 Archaeological Work area, with a dimension of 2,500cm (Length) x 280cm (Width) x 40cm (depth). The photographs and detailed drawing of KSWT2013 L3 are shown in Figures E2b-8c to E2b-8e of Annex E2b and Figure E3b-8c of Annex E3b.

According to the stratigraphic and the coexistent relationship between KSWT2013 L3 and KSWT2013 F3, they are grouped into FG3.

KSWT2013 L4 is linear in shape and constructed with boulders in irregular shape and granite slabs in a rectangular shape. It was filled with brownish soil and contained tiles, porcelain and pottery shards. It was found below Layer 3a of C-T1b of Zone C in the Phase 3 Archaeological Work area. Its dimensions are: 830cm (Length) x 280cm (Width) x 40cm (Height). The photographic record and detailed drawing of KSWT2013 L4 are shown in Figure E2b-8f of Annex E2b and Figure E3b-8d of Annex E3b.

According to the stratigraphy relation of KSWT2013 L4, it is grouped into FG3.

- Hard Surface KSWT2013 YM2

One (1) hard surface feature (KSWT2013 YM2) was found below Layer 3a of C-T6 of Zone C in the Phases 3 Archaeological Work area.

KSWT2013 YM2 was rectangular in shape and formed by compacted red soil. It was found below Layer 3a of the Phase 3 Archaeological Work area, disturbed by KSWT2013 SQ11. Its dimensions are: 420cm (Length) x 417cm (Width) x 5 cm (Height). The photographs and detailed drawing of KSWT2013 YM2 are shown in Figure E2b-4b of Annex E2b and Figure E3b-4b of Annex E3b.

According to the stratigraphic relation, it is grouped into FG3.

FG3 can be dated to the Song-Yuan Dynasties (Figure 4.8 shows the distribution of features of FG3).

Feature Group 4 (FG 4)

FG4 includes the features found below Layer 1 and Layer 2 of the Phase 2 and 3 Archaeological Work areas. FG4 comprised two (2) stone built structures, one (1) building feature, six (6) garbage pits/pits, two (2) wells, one (1) water channel feature, two (2) path features and one (1) ditch.

- Stone Built Wall Structures

Two (2) stone built wall structures (KSWT2013 SQ1 and SQ9) were found below Layer 2a and Layer 1 of the Phases 2 and 3 Archaeological Work areas.

KSWT2013 SQ1 is linear in shape and built with two layers of granite blocks. It was found below Layer 2a of T1 in the Phases 2 Archaeological Work area and filled with brownish soil. Its dimensions are: 500cm (Length) x 68cm (Width) x 40cm (Height). The photograph and detailed drawing of KSWT2013 SQ1 are shown in Figure E2b-2a of Annex E2b and Figure E3b-2a of Annex E3b.

KSWT2013 SQ9 is linear in shape and built with three layers of granite blocks. It was found below Layer 1 of C-T1b of Zone C in the Phase 3 Archaeological Work area and filled with blackish soil. Its dimensions are 393cm (Length) x 45cm (Width) x 65cm (Height). The photograph and detailed drawing of KSWT2013 SQ9 are shown in Figure E2b-2h of Annex E2b and Figure E3b-2h of Annex E3b.

According to the stratigraphic relation, KSWT2013 SQ1 and SQ9 are grouped into FG4.

- Building Feature

One (1) building feature (KSWT2013 F1) was found below Layer 1 of T6, T8, and T11 in the Phase 2 Archaeological Work area.

KSWT2013 F1 is rectangular in shape and comprised one (1) wall structure (KSWT2013 F1 QJ1), one (1) ground floor (KSWT2013 F1 DM1) and one (1) pit (KSWT2013 H2).

Floor (KSWT2013 F1 DM1):

KSWT2013 F1 DM1 was a blackish cement covered surface found below Layer 1 of T6, T8 and T11 of the Phase 2 Archaeological Work area. It was the ground floor remains of a demolished structure and was divided by KSWT2013 F1 QJ1 into three (3) parts. It appeared to extend westward beyond the Phase 2 Archaeological Work area and the southeast part was disturbed by a modern pit.

Wall structure (KSWT2013 F1 QJ1):

KSWT2013 F1 QJ1 was formed with bricks and finished with a cement surface and finally compacted with red clay. Parts of the wall structure were built with granite blocks and irregular and angular stones, but were largely disturbed. Only the eastern part was in better condition. The overall wall structure was NW-SE oriented.

KSWT2013 F1 QJ1 was found below Layer 1 of the Phase 2 Archaeological Work area, with a dimension of 1,448cm (Length) x 705cm (Width). The photograph and detailed drawing of KSWT2013 F1 are shown in Figure E2b-3a of Annex E2b and Figure E3b-3a of Annex E3b.

According to the stratigraphy relation, KSWT2013 F1 is grouped into FG4.

- Pits

Six (6) pits (KSWT2013 H2, H16, H17, H19, H25 and KSWT2013 H28) were found below Layer 1 and Layer 2 of the Phases 2 and 3 Archaeological Work areas.

All of the six (6) pits were garbage pits used for discarding household garbage. Most of them were oval and circular in shape, while one (1) was irregular shape.

For example, KSWT2013 H2 was circular in shape, with slanted sides and a flat base. It was filled with brownish soil, contained porcelain shards and pottery shards. Its dimensions are: 168cm (Diameter) x 41cm (Depth). The photographs and detailed drawing of KSWT2013 H2 are shown in Figure E2b-1a of Annex E2b and Figure E3b-1a of Annex E3b.

According to the stratigraphic relation, these pits are grouped into FG4.

- Well

Two (2) wells (KSWT2013 J3 and J2 (water channel)) were found below Layer 1 of the Phases 2 and 3 Archaeological Work areas.

KSWT2013 J3 is circular in shape and constructed with granite blocks in rectangular and irregular shape. Cement was used between granite blocks as a bonding agent and also to finish the interior of the well. It was found below Layer 1 of Zone D in the Phase 3 Archaeological Work area, with a dimension of 128cm (Length) x 124cm (Width) x 176cm (Depth). The photographs and detailed drawing of KSWT2013 J3 are shown in Figures E2b-10d and E2b-10e of Annex E2b and Figure E3b-10c of Annex E3b.

According to the stratigraphic relation, KSWT2013 J3 is grouped to FG4.

KSWT2013 J2 (water channel) is a part of well KSWT2013 J2 that disturbed the well body dated to the Song-Yuan Dynasties. KSWT2013 J2 (water channel) comprised a disturbed pit and a water channel. The disturbed pit was constructed by highly decomposed boulders and filled with a brownish soil. The water channel is linear in shape and constructed with granite blocks in a rectangular shape. Cement was used between granite boulders as bonding agent and used to finish the interior bottom of the water channel.

KSWT2013 J2 (water channel) was found below Layer 1 of A-TP10 of Zone A in the Phase 3 Archaeological area, with a dimension of 889cm (Length) x 85cm (Width) x 68cm (Depth).

As KSWT2013 J2 (water channel) was a later addition which disturbed the upper part of the well body (KSWT2013 J2), which is dated to the Song-Yuan Dynasties, it is regarded as a feature which is separated from the well body.

The photograph and detailed drawing of KSWT2013 J2 (water channel) are shown in Figure E2b-10b of Annex E2b and Figure E3b-10b of Annex E3b.

According to the stratigraphy relation, KSWT2013 J2 (water channel) is grouped into FG4.

- Water Channel

One (1) water channel feature (KSWT2013 Q1) was found below Layer 2a of T1 in the Phase 2 Archaeological Work area.

KSWT2013 Q1 was linear in shape with cylindrical ceramic water pipe. It was likely an exposed water pipe which was NW-SE oriented, with a dimension of 276cm (Length) x 16cm (Width) x 18cm (Depth). The photograph and detailed drawing of KSWT2013 Q1 are shown in Figure E2b-5a in Annex E2b and Figure E3b-5a in Annex E3b.

According to the stratigraphic relation, KSWT2013 Q1 is grouped into FG4.

- Path

Two (2) paths (KSWT2013 L1 and L2) were found below Layer 2a of T1 in Phase 2 Archaeological Work area.

KSWT2013 L1 was a linear shape and constructed with granite slabs in a rectangular shape. The path was found to disturb the Song –Yuan Dynasties building feature KSWT2013 F3. It was filled by brownish soil, contained tiles, porcelain shards and pottery shards.

KSWT2013 L1 was found below Layer 2a measured 155cm (Length) x 100cm (Width) x 20cm (Height) in dimension.

The photograph and detailed drawing of KSWT2013 L1 are shown in Figure E2b-8a in Annex E2b and Figure E3b-8a in Annex E3b.

KSWT2013 L2 was a linear shape and constructed with granite slabs in rectangular shape. It was found to disturb the Song–Yuan Dynasties building feature KSWT2013 F3. It was filled by brownish soil, contained tiles, porcelain shards and pottery shards.

KSWT2013 L2 was found below Layer 2a measured 340cm (Length) x 240cm (Width) x 20cm (Height) in dimension.

The photograph and detailed drawing of KSWT2013 L2 are shown in Figure E2b-8b in Annex E2b and Figure E3b-8b in Annex E3b.

According to the stratigraphy of KSWT2013 L1 and KSWT2013 L2, they are grouped into FG4.

- Ditch

One (1) ditch (KSWT2013 G1) found below Layer 1 and disturbed KSWT2013 H17 of Zone B in Phase 3 Archaeological Work area.

KSWT2013 G1 was a linear plan with slanted sides and rounded base. It was filled with brownish soil, contained tiles, porcelain shards and pottery shards.

It was found below Layer 1 and measured 1820cm (Length) x 250cm (Width) x 60cm (Depth) in dimension.

According to the stratigraphy of KSWT2013 G1, it is grouped into FG 4.

4.3.3 Summary of Archaeological Features Unearthed in Former Sacred Hill Area

- Summary of Archaeological Features unearthed in Phase 1 Archaeological Work

A total of two hundred and thirty eight (238) archaeological features were found in the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area and consisted of eight (8) stone built structures, seven (7) building features, one hundred and fifty one (151) ditches, forty seven (47) ponds/garbage pits, six (6) wells, three (3) kilns and sixteen (16) burial features. In accordance with the stratigraphic and coexistent relation of these features, they can be divided into five (5) feature groups. The dating of the period can only be discussed after the comparison between the feature groups and the typology of artefacts. The dating is discussed in Volume 4 of this Final Report with reference to the ceramic analysis result and finds assessments discussed in Volume 3 of this Final Report.

The archaeological feature groups can be categorized into several types.

The first type is the burial area features belonging to FG1. This included burials KSH2012 M1, M9–M13, M15-17, M20-M22, M25, M27, M28 and KSH2012 SQ8. All of the burials were concentrated to the north of the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area. KSH2012 SQ8 was probably a boundary indicator of the burial area as no burials were found south of KSH2012 SQ8. Thus, KSH2012 SQ8 is most likely a boundary wall which separated the burial area from the south area by the coast.

The second type is a burial and living area belonging to FG2. This includes a burial KSH2012 M2 and KSH2012 F7 (including KSH2012 G153, G154, KSH2012 H50 and KSH2012 J5) found at the northwest of the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area. KSH2012 F7 was most likely a living area as a well KSH2012 J5 was found in an adjacent area.

The third type is a workshop and living area belonging to FG3. This includes KSH2012 F6 and its associated features (KSH2012 Y2, Y3, G155 and KSH2012 H56). In comparison to KSH2012 F7, the building feature KSH2012 F6 is relatively simple, and two kilns (KSH2012 Y2 and Y3) are located adjacent to KSH2012 F6 area. This indicated that the function of KSH2012 F6 was most likely to serve kilns Y2 and Y3 and therefore KSH2012 F6 probably functioned as a workshop. This FG type also comprised the building feature KSH2012 F5 and some garbage pits (H41, H42, H45, H49, H53, H55, H59 and H61). The garbage pits were probably a waste dump for the users of building feature KSH2012 F5. According to the spatial distribution pattern of the components of feature KSH2012 F5 (such as the forty-two post holes (KSH2012 F5 D1, D3- D5, D9- D12, D16, D26, D27, D29- D35, D37, D40- D48, D52- D54, D56- D58, D60, D73, D74, D76- D80) and the four (4) wall structures (KSH2012 F5 QJ1, QJ2, QJ4 and QJ5), the original layout of KSH2012 F5 was considered to be a three-bay-two-hall structure (三間兩廊式). However, as the full extent of the feature KSH2012 F5 was not unearthed under this archaeological work, it yet to be confirmed if KSH2012 F5 is a three-bay-two-hall structure (三間兩廊式) through further studies.

The fourth feature type (FG4) is related to agricultural and living activities. Agricultural remains, as indicated in the old photos and maps presented in Volume 1 of this Final Report, include ponds (KSH2012 H1-H6, H12-H14, H16-H17, H26, H28, H29 and KSH2012 H33), ditches (KSH2012 G1 -95, G97-104, G106-G142, and G144 to G151) and the stone wall structures (KSH2012 SQ5-SQ7). Other features such as building features (KSH2012 F1-F4), garbage pits/pits (KSH2012 K2-K5, H8-H9, H11, H18, H21, H22, H24, H27, H30-H32, H34-H35 and KSH2012 H57) and wells (KSH2012 J1-J4 upper part) are mostly likely remnants of activities by inhabitants who resided in the area.

The fifth feature type is related to the reclamation activities belonging to FG5 such as the stone built wall structures (KSH2012 SQ1-SQ4). They are most likely the temporary structures constructed to facilitate the reclamation works in the area.

The features unearthed in the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area indicate different stages of development history of the area. At the very beginning (around Song-Yuan Dynasties (1)), the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area was only a sandy beach area with burials beginning in the sand dunes area (FG1).

After abandonment of the burial area (around Song-Yuan Dynasties (2)), new inhabitants of the area built a house (FG2). Inhabitants then settled in the area, collecting raw materials nearby and establishing a kiln workshop for the production of tiles and a house was to serve as a workshop. After the abandonment of the workshop (around Song-Yuan Dynasties (3)), the inhabitant built a house and settled here (FG3).

Following long abandonment of the area (4), the northern portion of the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area was mainly used as farmland. After a period of time (around Late Qing Dynasties to Republican period) (5), dwellers built houses in the area. Building features KSH2012 F1 to F4 reflected this occurrence (FG4).

Finally the area was reclaimed and the former Kai Tak Airport was built on top of the features being backfilled (FG5).

- Summary of Archaeological Features Unearthed in Phases 2 and 3 Archaeological Work areas

A total of eighty one (81) archaeological features were identified from the Phases 2 and 3 Archaeological Work areas and comprised twenty-eight (28) stone built structures, five (5) building features, twenty seven (27) garbage pits/pits, four (4) wells, two (2) water channels, three (3) tile built features, five (5) stone built column bases, four (4) foot path features, one (1) ditch feature and two (2) hard surface features.

Phases 2 and 3 Archaeological Work areas were mainly the living activities area. According to literature review and stratigraphic relation and features identified in the areas, the features can be divided into four (4) feature groups which indicate the stages of development in the area.

To start (around Song-Yuan Dynasties (6)), only two (2) garbage pits (KSWT2013 H7 and H27) were found in the Phases 2 and 3 Archaeological Work areas. According to the stratigraphic relation, they were found below Layer 5a and Layer 4b respectively (FG1) and were features with earliest era in

(2) Please refer to Section 6.3 of Volume 4 of this Final Report.

(3) Please refer to Section 6.3 of Volume 4 of this Final Report.

(4) It is noted that no traces of human activities observed from the Archaeological Work Areas during the Ming to mid-Qing Dynasties periods as no artefact or feature unearthed in the excavation areas.

(5) Please refer to Section 6.3 of Volume 4 of this Final Report.

(6) Please refer to Section 6.3 of Volume 4 of this Final Report.

the archaeological work areas; and no features dating to earlier periods were found. The discovery of these two features indicates that human activities started in the Phases 2 and 3 Archaeological Work areas. Nevertheless, no building features of this period were found in these excavation areas. The findings indicate that the Phases 2 and 3 Archaeological Work areas was probably used as a dumping area.

Later (around Song-Yuan Dynasties (1)), people started to build house and reside in the Phases 2 and 3 Archaeological Work areas. This evidence is supported by the discovery of building featureKSWT2013 F2 and the associated features (such as garbage pits KSWT2013 H3, H4, H5, H6, H10, H11, H12, H13, H14 and H15; stone built wall structure such as KSWT2013 SQ10; hard surface feature such as KSWT2013 YM1 and well KSWT2013 J2 (well body)). According to the stratigraphic relation and coexistent relation between these features, they are grouped into FG2 of the Phases 2 and 3 Archaeological Works. The Phases 2 and 3 Archaeological Work areas are therefore changed from a dumping area to a living area.

After the demolishing and abandonment of KSWT2013 F2 and other features (around Song-Yuan Dynasties (2)), such as the garbage pits (KSWT2013 H3, H4, H5, H6, H10, H11, H12, H13, H14 and H15), stone built wall structure (KSWT2013 SQ10), a well (KSWT2013 J2 (well body)) and a hard surface feature (KSWT2013 YM1), new buildings were built and human activities became more frequent. Three building features were then identified (KSWT2013 F3, F4 and F5), with other features such as stone built wall structures (KSWT2013 SQ2, SQ4, SQ5, SQ6, SQ7, SQ8, SQ11, SQ12, SQ13, SQ14, SQ15, SQ16, SQ17, SQ18, SQ19, SQ20, SQ21, SQ22, SQ23, SQ24, SQ25, SQ26, SQ27, SQ28 and SQ29), garbage pits/pits (KSWT2013 H8, H9, H20, H23, H24, H26, H29, H30 and H31), a well (KSWT2013 J1), a water channel feature (KSWT2013 Q2), tile built features (KSWT2013 SS1, SS2 and KSWT2013 WQ1), stone built column bases (KSWT2013 ZC1-ZC5), path (KSWT2013 L3 and L4) and a hard surface feature (KSWT2013 YM2). According to the stratigraphic relation of the features and coexistent relation between these features, they are grouped to FG3.

After a long period of time (around Late Qing Dynasties to Republican period) (3), inhabitants were also found to have returned in the Phases 2 and 3 Archaeological Work areas as shown by the remains of a built house (KSWT2013 F1). The discoveries of building feature (KSWT2013 F1), stone built wall structures (KSWT2013 SQ1 and SQ9), garbage pits (KSWT2013 H2, H16, H17, H19, H25 and H28), wells (KSWT2013 J3) and KSWT2013 J2(water channel), a water channel (KSWT2013 Q1), paths (KSWT2013 L1 and L2) and a ditch (KSWT2013 G1) indicated that in this period human activities in this area were more frequent. According to the stratigraphic and the coexistent relation between these features, they can be grouped into FG 4.

(1) Please refer to Section 6.3 of Volume 4 of this Final Report.

(2) Please refer to Section 6.3 of Volume 4 of this Final Report.

(3) Please refer to Section 6.3 of Volume 4 of this Final Report.

The Phases 2 and 3 Archaeological Work areas were reclaimed for housing development and later on for construction of the Former Kai Tak Airport.

The feature groups FG 1-FG5 in Phase 1 Archaeological Work area and FG1-FG4 of Phases 2 and 3 Archaeological Work areas indicate the different development stages of the three Phases of Archaeological Work areas. However, as the grouping of the features is mainly based on the stratigraphy and coexistent relations between the features identified, such a grouping can only provide the sequential development of the past human activities of the area. The dating of the feature group is discussed in Volume 4 of this Final Report with reference to the ceramic analysis result and finds assessments discussed in Volume 3 of this Final Report.

- Representative Archaeological Features Unearthed in the three Phases of Archaeological Works

The features unearthed in the three Phases of Archaeological Works at the former Sacred Hill area provide physical evidence to support future research regarding the history of Hong Kong, especially the Song-Yuan Dynasties history. Some features dated to the Late Qing Dynasty to Republican period unearthed were related to living and agricultural activities (such as ponds, ditches, building features and garbage pits/pits). The Song-Yuan Dynasties features unearthed are not commonly found in Hong Kong. Therefore, the representative Song-Yuan Dynasties features are summarised as below:

Building Features:

There are a total of 7 building features dated to the Song-Yuan Dynasties unearthed in the three Phases of Archaeological Works, comprising KSH2012 F5, F6, F7 unearthed in Phase 1 Archaeological Work area and KSWT2013 F2,F3, F4 and F5 unearthed in Phases 2 and 3 Archaeological Work areas.

All of these building features were highly ruined, only the remnant of the building features such as foundations of walls or some associated features were remained. However, they can still show the layout or distributions of the buildings. The associated features (including wells (J), pits (H), water disperse (SS), etc.) were found near these building features. Taken into account their stratigraphic and coexistence relations and spatial distribution, they were regarded as associated features of these building features. For the detailed stratigraphy and distribution of these features, please refer to Annexes E1a, E1b, E2a, E2b, E3a and E3b. With regard to the academic research value and the significance of these building features, as there were not many of this kind of settlement features found in Hong Kong or in Mainland China, the discoveries of building features and their associated features (such as KSH2012 F5, F6 and F7 unearthed from Phase 1 Archaeological Work area and KSWT2013 F3, F4 and F5 unearthed from Phases 2 and 3 Archaeological Work areas) provide important first hand records to support architectural research of the Song-Yuan Dynasties. Although these building features were highly ruined, the remains of the foundations and post holes still provide important evidence for researchers.

Through the analysis of their shape, layout or distribution characteristics etc., researchers could have better understanding on the structure or construction methods of the buildings and also settlement type and nature.

The building features, can be divided into two main types, comprising dwelling (KSH2012 F5, F7; KSWT2013 F3, F4, F5) and workshop (KSH2012 F6). KSWT2013 F3 is in the best condition among the dwelling features unearthed. It is located at the southwest foothill of settlement area of the former Sacred Hill. Stone built wall foundations (such as KSH2012 F3 QJ1-QJ2) still remained. Part of a floor surface (KSH2012 F3 DM1) and some associated features (such as KSWT2013 Q2 and J1) were preserved in good condition. For KSWT2013 F4, which is located next to KSWT2013 F3, although only part of its wall foundations remained, its general layout could still be revealed. All these features are valuable heritage for further academic researches on building materials used during the Song-Yuan period.

The building feature KSWT2013 F5 of the Phase 3 Archaeological Work area was found at the northeast of the former Sacred Hill. Although it was not in a good condition with only some stone built column bases (KSWT2013 ZC1-ZC5) and wall features (KSWT2013 F5 QJ1, QJ2) remained, some associated features (such as some stone built wall structures (KSWT2013 SQ23-SQ27, SQ29), pits (KSWT2013 H30, H31) and tile built features (KSWT2013 SS2 and WQ1)) were found in the vicinity. Taking into account the spatial distribution of KSWT2013 F5 and the associated features, and adjacent building feature KSH2012 F7 discovered in the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area, these features provide valuable information for future researches on the settlement pattern of the area during Song-Yuan Dynasties. However, as the area between these two building features was not excavated, the possible relationship between these two features is subject to future excavation/studies.

For KSH2012 F7, wall structures (KSH2012 F7 QJ1, QJ4), post holes (KSH2012 F7 D3, D4, D5, D6, D7, D8, D10, D11, D12, D16, D17, D18, D19, D20, D21, D22, D23, D24, D25, D26, D27, D28, D29, D30, D31, D32, D33 and D34) and floor surface (KSH2012 F7 DM1) remained. They are not in good condition. However, the features associated with F7 (such as the square well J5 which was well-built and preserved in good condition, and two Longquan Kiln celadon incense burner unearthed from a pit H50) provided valuable research materials for future studies.

Furthermore, the discovery of building feature KSH2012 F6 and its associated features (KSH2012 Y2 and Y3) is considered to function as a workshop. Although they are in bad condition, they provide important evidence of the primary industrial formation of Hong Kong during the Song-Yuan Dynasties.

Wells:

Two wells with high completeness (KSH2012 J5 and KSWT2013 J1) and parts of two disturbed wells (KSH2012 J4 (Bottom Part) and KSWT2013 J2 (well body)) dated to the Song-Yuan Dynasties were unearthed in the three Phases of Archaeological Works areas.

KSH2012 J5 of Phase 1 Archaeological Work area and KSWT2013 J1 of Phase 2 Archaeological Work area are in good condition while KSH2012 J4 of Phase 1 Archaeological Work area and KSWT2013 J2 of Phase 3 Archaeological Work area are in bad condition. KSH2012 J5, KSWT2013 J1 and KSWT2013 J2 (bottom part of well body) were stone built square well while KSH2012 J4 was a circular well. Well KSH2012 J4 was built by the coast while KSWT2013 J2 was built on the foothill of the former Sacred Hill. They were both disturbed and being reused in later period (Late Qing Dynasty to Republican period).

Wells KSH2012 J5 and KSWT2013 J1 were in better condition among the square wells. KSH2012 J5 is bigger and with a special well platform (but the platform was disturbed). KSWT2013 J1 is smaller and with simple structure and the whole structure from well mouth to bottom was preserved. Therefore, they provide good reference sources on the constructions of the well. KSWT2013 J1 is smaller and with simple structure. The whole structure of KSWT2013 J1 (from well mouth to the bottom of the well) remained.

The feature of well KSWT2013 J2 was unearthed without associated cultural layer and building feature at its adjacent areas. It was built at the foothill of the former Sacred Hill, which was likely used to collect the fresh water from the hill. Its upper part was round in shape while the bottom part was square. Due to its complexity, it is further discussed below:

The stratigraphy and location of the well feature KSWT2013 J2 are firstly worthy to be noted. It was located at the east of the eastern foothill of the former Sacred Hill, which was found below fill layer and cut into the sterile Layer. It can be divided into 2 main parts, the water channel with a disturbed pit (KSWT2013 J2 (Water Channel)) and the well body (KSWT2013 J2 (Well Body)).

KSWT2013 J2 (Water Channel) was a linear shape water channel and connected to the well body with a disturbed pit. Cement was used as the bonding agent of the water channel and the bottom of the water channel was constructed by cement. Thus, the water channel part can be dated to Late Qing Dynasty to Republican period.

KSWT2013 J2 (Well Body), it can be further divided into three parts: the upper part, the middle part and the bottom part. The upper part and middle parts were in round in shape while the bottom was square. The upper part was cut by a disturbed pit of KSWT2013 J2 (Water Channel).

It should be pointed out that the original cultural layers around well KSWT2013 J2 was disturbed during the levelling of the former Sacred Hill. In order to confirm whether the well was one-time constructed or being modified, an investigation of the upper part of KSWT2013 J2 was conducted.

Through the investigation, a disturbed pit was found at the southwest of the upper part of the well body of KSWT2013 J2. Highly decomposed granite stones were found in the disturbed pit which was different from those river gravels used for construction of the upper part of the well body. The semi-weathered granite stones found in the disturbed pit were connected with the bottom of the water channel. As a result, the water channel and the disturbed pit should be of the same dating, and they disturbed the upper part of the well body as per the stratigraphic relation. Thus, it is reasonable to conclude that the water channel with the disturbed pit was constructed in a later period and disturbed the upper part of the well body.

The investigation also indicated that the upper, middle and the bottom part of the KSWT2013 J2 (Well Body) were one-time constructed and therefore should be dated to the same period. With regard to its dating, the typical artefacts (shards with high completeness and obvious dating characteristics) unearthed from the fill of the well body were selected and compared with the artefacts unearthed in other features through typology analysis. The artefacts selected for the comparison should be with same category with those unearthed in the fill layer of the well body. It was found that the typical artefacts unearthed in the fill layer of well KSWT2013 J2 were the same as those unearthed in KSWT2013 H14. The artefacts unearthed in the fill layer of the well indicated the usage dating of the well, and thus, the dating of KSWT2013 J2 should be the same as KSWT2013 H14. Thus, dating of KSWT2013 J2 (Well Body) should be the same as the dating of KSWT2013 H14. Therefore, KSWT2013 J2 (well body) can be dated to the Song-Yuan Dynasties.

For KSH2012 J4, it was built at the edge of a sand dune, settled on top of a reef (礁石). It can be divided into three parts, comprising the upper part, middle part and the bottom part.

The upper part was covered by concrete, below the concrete layer was fill soils.

The middle part was built with granite blocks and with cement finishing on top. Below the cement finishing at the exterior was a brownish soil layer which contained some blue and white porcelain shards. These blue and white porcelain shards with dating characteristic can be dated to the Late Qing Dynasty to Republican period. Therefore, this middle part of KSH2012 J4 can be dated to the Late Qing Dynasty to Republican period.

A hard surface was found below the middle part of KSH2012 J4. It was a surface separated the middle and the bottom parts of the well.

The Bottom Part was built with granite blocks with a clayey soil mixture as the bonding agent and surface finishing for the exterior of the well. Celadon shards dated to the Song-Yuan Dynasties were found in the hard surface and therefore this part can be dated to the Song-Yuan Dynasties.

Taking into account the stratigraphic relation of the three parts of KSH2012 J4, the bottom part was found below Layer 3b of the Phase 1 Archaeological

Work and can be dated to the Song-Yuan Dynasties in accordance to the dating of the celadon shards. The bottom part was disturbed/reused by the middle part and the upper part of the well which can be dated to the period of the Late Qing Dynasty to Republican period. Thus, the upper and middle parts of KSH2012 J4 are dated to the same period.

Both KSH2012 J4 and KSWT2013 J2 were built in the Song-Yuan Dynasties and disturbed or reused in later period during the late Qing Dynasty to Republican period. In accordance to the 3 criteria of FGs as discussed above, the different parts of these two wells should be belonged to different FGs, for example, the upper and middle parts of KSH2012 J4 would be belonged to FG4 of the Phase 1 Archaeological Work which can be dated to the Late Qing to Republican period, while the bottom part would be belonged to FG2 which can be dated to the Song-Yuan Dynasties. Similarly, the KSWT2013 J2 (Water Channel) would be belonged to FG4 of the Phases 2 and 3 Archaeological Works which can be dated to the Late Qing Dynasties to Republican period while the KSWT2013 J2 (Well Body) would be belonged to FG2 dated to the Song-Yuan Dynasties.

Discoveries of these wells are a significant result of the excavation. Taking account of wells dated to the Song-Yuan Dynasties were first discovered in Hong Kong and Song-Yuan wells built in square shape are rarely found in Southern China, these Song-Yuan periods wells provided significant evidence to the future researches in architecture of well and related questions such as the methods to obtain fresh water during the Song-Yuan Dynasties period.

Pits:

Most of the pits/garbage pits were discovered in the adjacent areas of the building features. Large portions of them were associated with feature of the building features. Most of these pits were regular in shape and contained a large quantity of artefacts (such as ceramic shards). There are 4 pits that can be selected as representative features among the pit features. All of them were found in the Phases 2 and 3 Archaeological Work areas, comprising KSWT2013 H4, H5, H11 and H27. They are representatives as they are with different structural characteristics from other pits unearthed. All of them (except H5) are with wooden structures inside the pits.

KSWT2013 H4 and H5 were connected and found below same cultural layer (Layer 3b of the Phases 2 and 3 Archaeological Works) but H5 was cut by KSWT2013 H4. They were located at the southwest foothill of the former Sacred Hill with higher ground level. They were both deep and round in shape with relatively small openings.

KSWT2013 H4 was built with boulders at the pit wall and a wooden structure was placed at the bottom. White paste mud (白膏泥) (a material used for porcelain production due to its low water permeability) was found between the pit wall and the wooden structure. Boulders were placed to protect and stabilise the inner wall of the pit and the wood structure.

The same white paste mud was also found in the upper fill layer of KSWT2013 H5. Artefacts were found in both KSWT2013 H4 and H5. According to stratigraphy relation, KSWT2013 H5 was dug before KSWT2013 H4. However, it was likely abandoned and then KSWT2013 H4 was dug to replace KSWT2013 H5. The function of KSWT2013 H4 is worth for studies or discussions. H4 was a deep pit dug at a relatively higher level with wooden structure in the bottom and the surface was constructed with anti-water materials (white paste mud). It is likely a pit used for storage of food.

With regard to KSWT2013 H11 (a circular shape wooden structure with approximately 0.8m in height) was found placed at the middle and in the bottom of the pit. The wooden structure was similar to the one found in KSWT2013 H4 but the wooden structure is higher. It is most likely used for reserving water penetrated from the former Sacred Hill at the east.

A round shape pit KSWT2013 H27 was found at the east of the former Sacred Hill below Layer 4b of Phases 2 and 3 Archaeological Works. Peculiarly, a square pit dug from the bottom of the pit with wooden planks placed at the four walls of the pit was found. The function of the pit cannot be understood.

Burials:

There are a total of sixteen (16) burials unearthed (KSH2012 M1, M2, M9 – M13, M15-17, M20-M22, M25, M27, M28), and all of them were unearthed in the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area. These burials were mostly irregular in shape, shallow burial pits and with small amount of funerary objects. It is reasonable to conclude that they were all hasty buried. Almost all the burials (except KSH2012 M2) were found in the north of the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area. A stone built wall structure (KSH2012 SQ8) was found northeast to the burials, it was probably a boundary indicator of the burial area as no burials were found south of KSH2012 SQ8. Thus, KSH2012 SQ8 is most likely a boundary indicator separating the burial area from the southern area by the coast.

The outcome of this archaeological work provides important material evidence and data for further research in the future regarding the history of Hong Kong and , in particular, the Song-Yuan Dynasties.

Layer 3e only existed in the north baulk of TP113.
The north baulk is around 2m width and the east baulk is about 1m. They baulks were excavated after the pit reached sterile layer.
The north section and east section can be jointed perfectly before the baulks excavated.

(1) This brief matrix only show the stratigraphic relations between layers and archaeological features. Please refer to Annex E1b and drawings in Annex E3b for stratigraphic relations between features.

(2) The cultural layer around the J2 (well body) was disturbed during the levelling down of the Former Sacred Hill. It has no stratigraphic relation with cultural layers and therefore it is not shown in this brief matrix.

F5 DM1 (1600cm x 1320cm x 40cm) was formed by a hard surface and compounded of fill layers which were found below Layer 3a of TP90, ATP3 and ATP4. It is the ground floor remains of a demolished built structure. It was formed by reddish soil which was mixed with a large amount of coarse sands. The reddish soil was likely obtained from nearby hills. It was formed layer by layer. Below the hard surface were two layers of soil (a brownish soil layer and a yellowish brown soil layer).

Based on the findings, it is believed that the red soil layers were filled on top of the two layers and rammed to form a hard surface floor.

4 garbage deposits (F6 WL1, WL2, WL3 and WL4) were found below Layer 3a of TP110, and Layer 3e of TP111 and TP121. They were located at the east of F6 and were irregular in shape and contained a large quantity of tile fragments and pottery shards, and a small quantity of porcelain shards. They were overlaid by F6DM1 and likely to be the living deposits of F6.

								4 wall structures (F6 QJ1, QJ2, QJ3 and QJ4) were found below Layer 3a of TP90, TP110. F6QJ1 and F6QJ2 were located at the southeast of F6 while F6QJ4 was located in the middle. F6QJ3 was located at the north of F6. F6QJ1 was the interior wall of F6 while F6QJ2, F6QJ3 andF6QJ4 were the outer walls which separated F6 and the sand dune at the east of F6. F6QJ2 and F6QJ4 were built with granite slabs while F6QJ1 and F6QJ3 were built with dead corals and stones. In accordance to the distribution pattern of the features such as post holes and wall structures, a large quantity of tiles unearthed from the garbage deposits (F6WL1, WL2, WL3 and WL4) and the discoveries of kilns (Y2 and Y3), pits (H56 and H62) and ditch (G155) within F6, F6 was likely a tile production workshop in the Song-Yuan Dynasties. Figures E2a-5ax-1, E2a-5ax-2 and E2a-5ay (F6 Overall Plan), E2a-5az to E2a-5ca (Plan of F6 Post Holes), E2a-5cb to E2a-5cf (Plan and Section of F6 Wall Foundations) and E2a-5cg to E2a-5cj (Plan of F6 Garbage Deposits), Figures E3a-5s to E3a-5t (F6 Overall Plan), E3a-5u (Plan and Section of F6 Post Holes), E3a-5v to E3a-5y (Plan and Section of F6 Garbage Deposits), E3a-5z to E3a-5ac (Plan and Section of F6 Wall Foundations) Figure 4.3

F7 DM1 (915cm x 400cm) was formed by a hard surface and compounded of fill layers which were found below Layer 3b of ATP1. It was the ground floor remains of a demolished built structure. It was formed by reddish soil mixed with a large amount of coarse sands. The reddish soil was likely obtained from the adjacent hills. It was formed layer by layer. Below the hard surface was two layers (a brownish soil layer and a yellowish brown soil layer). It is believed that the reddish soil was filled on the two layers and rammed as a hard surface. F7 DM1 was only found in ATP1.

Table E1b-3 Archaeological Features List – Building Features

Feature Code	Location	Opening	Stratigraphy Relationship	Shape and Structure	Dimension（cm）		Dating	Remarks
					Length	Width
F1	T6, T8, T11 of Phase 2 Archaeological Work area	Below 1	1=>F1→2a	Rectangular shape and comprised 1 wall structure, 1 ground floor and 1 pit (H2).	1448	705	Late Qing Dynasty to Republican period	Floor: F1 DM1 was a blackish cement cover found below Layer 1 of T6, T8 and T11. It was the ground floor remains of a demolished built structure and was divided by F1 QJ1 into three parts. It appeared to expand westward beyond the Phase 2 Archaeological Work area and the southeast part was disturbed by modern pit. Figure E2b-3a, Figure E3b-3a Figure 4.9 Wall structure: F1 QJ1 was formed with bricks and finished in cement surface and finally rammed with red clay. Parts of the wall structure were built with granite blocks and irregular angular stones, but were largely disturbed. Only the eastern part was under better condition. The overall wall structure was NW-SE oriented. Figure E2b-3b, Figure E3b-3a Figure 4.9

F2	T6 of Phase 2 Archaeological Work area	Below 3b	3b=>F2→4a	Rectangular shape and comprised 1 wall structure and 1 ground floor.	483	293	Song-Yuan Dynasties	Floor: F2 DM1 was a hard surface which was formed by rammed red soil, which was found below Layer 3b of T6. It was the ground floor remains of a demolished built structure and surrounded by F2 QJ1. Figure E2b-3c, Figure E3b-3b Figure 4.7 Wall structure: A wall structure F2 QJ1 formed by rammed reddish clay found below the Layer 3b of T6. It formed a rectangular wall structure which was NW-SE oriented. Figure E2b-3d, Figure E3b-3b Figure 4.7

F3	T1, Zone B of Phases 2&3 Archaeological Work areas	Below 3a	3a=>F3→3b	Rectangular shape and comprised 1 ground floor (F3 DM1), 3 wall structures (F3 QJ1-QJ3), water channel (Q2), tile feature (SS1), a well (J1) , a stove (H8) and 2 stone built wall structures (SQ2 and SQ5).	1220	920	Song-Yuan Dynasties	Floor: F3 DM1 (393cm x 256cm) was a hard surface formed by rammed blackish brown soil which was found below the layer 3a in T1. It contained a large amount of carbon ash which was likely to be associated with burning activity. Together with a stove was found in the southeast part, F3 DM1 was likely to be a ground of a kitchen in F3. Figures E2b-3e, E2b-3f, Figure E3b-3c Figure 4.8 Wall structure: 3 wall structures (F3 QJ1-QJ3) were found below Layer 3a of T1. F3 QJ1 and F3 QJ2 were NW-SE oriented and built with granite blocks and angular stones. F3 QJ1 was likely to be the outer wall while F3 QJ2 was the low wall of F3. F3 QJ3 was SW-NE oriented and built with granite blocks. It was likely a partition wall between rooms. F3QJ1:Figure E2b-3g, Figure E3b-3d F3QJ2:Figure E2b-3h, Figure E3b-3e F3QJ3:Figure E2b-3i, Figure E3b-3f Figure 4.8

F4	C-T1 and C-T1a of Zone C, and Zone D of Phase 3 Archaeological Work area	Below 3a	3a=>F4→3b	Rectangular shape and comprised 9 wall structures (SQ13, SQ14, SQ17, SQ18, SQ19, SQ20, SQ21, SQ22 and SQ28)	1378	745	Song-Yuan Dynasties	Floor: No apparel DM was found. Plan: Figures E2b-3j ,E2b-3k, Figure E3b-3g Figure 4.8 Wall structures: 9 wall structures (SQ13, SQ14, SQ17, SQ18, SQ19, SQ20, SQ21, SQ22 and SQ28) were found below Layer 3a of Zone D, C-T1 and C-T1a of Zone C. SQ18, SQ19, SQ20, SQ21 and SQ22 were located at the northwest part of F4 while SQ13, SQ14 and SQ17 were located at the southeast part of F4, they (except SQ18) were the outer wall of F4 while SQ18 and SQ28 were the interior wall. They formed a rectangular wall structure which was NW-SE oriented. Figure 4.8

F5	A-TP11, A-TP12, A-TP14, A-TP17, A-TP 18 of Zone A of the Phase 3 Archaeological Work area	Below 3a	3a=>F5→3b	Rectangular shape and comprised 2 wall structures (F5 QJ1 and QJ2), 5 Stone Built Column Bases (ZC1-ZC5), two tile features (SS2 and WQ1) , 6 stone built wall structures (SQ23-SQ27 and SQ29) and 2 pits (H30 and H31).	725	350	Song-Yuan Dynasties	Floor: No DM was found. Plan: Figure E2b-3l, Figure E3b-3h Figure 4.8 Wall structures: 2 wall structures (F5 QJ1 and QJ2) were found below Layer 3a of A-TP11, which were built with reddish clay. Stone built column bases ZC1 and ZC2 were set on the eastern part of F5 QJ1 which was NW-SE oriented. ZC3 and ZC4 formed a straight line with F5 QJ2 which was NW-SE oriented and parallel to F5 QJ1. F5 QJ1 and F5 QJ2 formed a rectangular wall structure which was NE-SW oriented. F5QJ1: Figure E2b-3m, Figure E3b-3i F5QJ2: Figure E2b-3n, Figure E3b-3j Figure 4.8 Stone Built Column Bases: 5 stone built column bases (ZC1-ZC5) were found below Layer 3a of A-TP11 and A-TP12. They were granite blocks in square shape with the size of around 25cm x 25cm. ZC1 and ZC2 were set on F5 QJ1, ZC3 and ZC4 and formed a straight line with F5 QJ2 and ZC5 was set on the south of F5. Figure 4.8 Stone Built Wall Structures: 6 stone built wall structures (SQ23- SQ27 and SQ29) were found below the Layer 3a in A-TP11, A-TP12, A-TP17 and A-TP18 of Zone A in the Phase 3 Archaeological Work area. They were found with the same stratigraphic relation with KSWT2013 F5 and located within the F5 area. Therefore, these stone built wall structures are regarded as associated features of F5. Figure 4.8

5 FINDS UNEARTHED FROM THE THREE PHASES OF ARCHAEOLOGICAL WORKS

5.1 INTRODUCTION

This is the Volume 3 of the Final Archaeological Excavation Report (Final Report) of the three Phases of Archaeological Works at the former Sacred Hill for the Shatin to Central Link Tai Wai to Hung Hom Section Works Contract 1109- Stations and Tunnels of Kowloon City Section. It presents the finds unearthed from the archaeological works (Section 5).

Please refer to Volume 1 of the Final Report for the project background, objectives and methodology of the archaeological works, and topographical, geological, archaeological and historical backgrounds of the former Sacred Hill area (Sections 1 to 3); Volume 2 for the stratigraphy and features unearthed from the archaeological works (Section 4); and Volume 4 for the summary of key findings, interpretations, discussions and conclusions of the archaeological works (Section 6).

This Volume 3 of the Final Report is supported by the following Annexes:

Annex F1 Special Finds List

Annex F2 General Finds List

Annex F3 Samples List

Annex G Photographic Record of the Special Finds

Annex H Ceramic Analysis Report (in Chinese Only)

Annex I Photographic Record of Some Representative Wood Samples

5.2 STATISTICS OF FINDS UNEARTHED

5.2.1 Overall Finds Statistic

The finds unearthed from the three Phases of Archeological Works can be divided into three types: General Finds (GF), Special Finds (SF) and Samples (S). They are defined as below:

1. General Finds are:

    (a) Artefacts unearthed with low completeness;

    (b) Artefacts unearthed that show limited characteristics of their typology; and

    (c) Artefacts unearthed with lower specificity, such as same artefacts with large quantity or common decorations, etc.

2. Special Finds are:

(a) Artefacts unearthed with high completeness;

(b) Artefacts unearthed that reflect important characteristics of their typology; and

(c) Artefacts unearthed with higher specificity, such as similar artefacts of small quantity or special decorations (e.g. with inscriptions).

3. Samples included:

(a) Artefacts with representativeness of archaeological typology;

(b) Artefacts unearthed with high specificity;

(c) Artefacts (such as wood) unearthed that can be tested using current technology to provide more information on the typology of the artefacts or the associated site from where they were unearthed; and

(d) Ecofacts (such as soil) unearthed that can reflect the geological, ecological or environmental condition of the excavation site.

There are a total of 28,575 registered find items (1) unearthed from the archaeological works including SF, GF and S with a total weight of over thirty-five (35) tonnes. Most of the items (76%) were recovered from the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area. The artefacts specified as 'GF' account for approximately 70% of the total registered items and make up over 90% of the total weight. Tables 5.1 and 5.2 provide the statistics with a breakdown for each phase of the archaeological works (by Item and by Weight respectively).

The full lists of SF, GF and S are provided in Annexes F1 to F3, respectively. The registered items are listed according to the test pit, layer, feature and finds numbering sequence in numeric and alphabetical order (2).

Table 5.1 Overall Finds Statistic (by Item)

Archaeological Works	SF	GF	S	Total
Phase 1 Archaeological Work	6,514	14,746	398	21,658
Phase 2 Archaeological Work	814	1,274	47	2,135
Phase 3 Archaeological Work	681	3,992	109	4,782
Total:	8,009	20,012	554	28,575

(1) One item refers to one bag of registered find or finds and assigned with a number. Each item is listed in Annexes F1 to F3. Please refer to these Annexes for detail content of each item.

(2) For Phase 1 Archaeological Work, ATP1, ATP3 and ATP4 are put end of the Phase 1 items list.

Table 5.2 Overall Finds Statistic (by Weight in kg)

Archaeological Works	SF	GF	S	Total
Phase 1 Archaeological Work	657	23,696.7	466	24,819.7
Phase 2 Archaeological Work	326	1,463.5	117	1,906.5
Phase 3 Archaeological Work	97	8,254.6	232	8,583.6
Total:	1,080	33,414.8	815	35,309.8

5.2.2 Special Finds

Table 5.1 presents the total amount of SF items identified during each phase of the archaeological work. The data indicates that over 80% of the items were found during the Phase 1 Archaeological Work. The material type of the SF identified include porcelain, pottery, tiles, coin, stone, metal, wood, glass, bone, brick, plastic and others. Over 90% of the registered items are ceramics (porcelain and pottery). Other material types make up a small percentage.

Table 5.3 presents the total SF items found during each phase of the archaeological work, categorised by material type and weight. The photographic record of each item is presented in Annex G.

Among the SF items unearthed, one hundred and twenty (120) artefacts are selected that are considered representative of the finds across the three Phases of the Archaeological Works. The selection criterion is based on the specificity, completeness, rareness and representativeness of the find. The photographs with brief descriptions are presented below. Please refer to Section 5.3 for further discussion regarding the SF items.

5.2.3 General Finds

Table 5.1 provides the data on the GF items identified. Over 70% of the GF items were unearthed during the Phase 1 Archaeological Work. The material types include porcelain, pottery, tile, stone, metal, wood, glass, brick and others. Over 70% of the registered items are ceramics (porcelain and pottery). In general, the items are shards with low completeness that can only reflect limited characteristics of their typology or similar artefacts in large quantity or with common decorations. Approximately 20% of the items were tiles, mostly red, grey and white tile shards of unidentifiable shapes. A small percentage was unidentifiable fractions and is therefore classified as 'other'.

Table 5.4 presents the total GF items found during each phase of the archaeological work, categorised by material type and weight. Please refer to Section 5.3 for further discussion regarding the GF items.

Table 5.4 Statistics of General Finds (By Material Type, by Item and by Weight)

5.2.4 Samples

Table 5.1 presents the total amount of samples identified during each phase of the archaeological work. The data indicates that over 60% of the samples were found during the Phase 1 Archaeological Work. The sample material type consisted of soil, wood, stone, bone, carbon, shell, plant, ash, coal, concrete and components of a red brick well, with coral accounting for the largest proportion (see Table 5.5).

Table 5.5 presents the total samples found during each phase of the archaeological work, categorised by material type and weight. Please refer to Section 5.3 for further discussion regarding the samples.

5.3 FINDS ASSESSMENT

The material types unearthed and registered as SF, GF and S from the archaeological works include ceramic (porcelain and pottery), tile, coin, metal, stone, wood, brick, glass, bone, shell, coral, carbon, plant, ash, coal, concrete, plastic and others. The data indicates that ceramics were the major type of the finds (over 90% of the SF and over 70% of the GF are ceramics). The types of ceramics unearthed were quite diverse and a large quantity of the ceramics was dated to the Song-Yuan Dynasties, which is uncommon in Hong Kong. On this basis, the archaeological team conducted a ceramic typology analysis on the selected finds and undertook a comparison of similar finds unearthed in the neighbouring region in order to provide a more accurate relative dating of the ceramic finds. The results from this exercise provide valuable information to help date the archaeological features and the layers associated with them. As the Song-Yuan Dynasties' ceramics unearthed were from kilns at the southern provinces of China, a ceramic analysis report has been prepared by ceramic experts to study the typology, dating and production origins of the ceramics unearthed. The Ceramics Analysis Report is presented in Annex H of Volume 3 of this Final Report and a summary of the result is presented in Section 5.3.1 below.

5.3.1 Ceramics

Song-Yuan Dynasties Ceramics

With reference to the Ceramics Analysis Report, the porcelains and potteries can be classified into twelve (12) types and five (5) sub-stages respectively according to their characteristics such as materials used for production, glazing and production technology (please refer to Annex H for the classification details). Through the analysis of stratigraphy relation and typology, and by examining the accompanying types of ceramics unearthed, the ceramics dated to the Song-Yuan Dynasties can be sub-divided into five (5) sub-stages (SG) in order to further understand their relative age. These are listed in Table 5.6 and discussed in more detail below.

Typical units were chosen for the ceramic analysis. To facilitate an overall and comprehensive analysis, test pits selected as typical units for the analysis were all having continuous stratigraphy system and excavated until sterile layer. For example, TP90 of the Phase 1 Archaeological Work and TP1, TP6 and TP8 of the Phase 2 Archaeological Work.

For the test pits of the Phase 3 Archaeological Work, as the excavation work for most of the test pits were terminated at Layer 3, the latest Song-Yuan Layer, to allow for preservation in situ of the identified features, and therefore the presence of earlier periods layers in these test pits could not be determined. Thus, they were not suitable for selection for an overall analysis.

Table 5.6 Song-Yuan Dynasties Sub-Stages

Sub-Stages	Phase 2 and 3 Archaeological Works				Phase 1 Archaeological Work
	Test Pits/Grid
	T1	T6	T8	T11	TP90/EA3	TP95[(a)]
SG 5	Layer 3a	Layer 3a	Layer 3a	Layer 3a
SG 4	Feature H9	Layer 3b	Layer 3b	Layer 3b	Layer 3a	Layer 3e

SG 1	Layer 6b Layer 7	Layer 6a Layer 6b

Note: KSH2012 TP93, TP94 and TP95 were combined as KSH2012 TP93. In order to provide more accurate location of the finds, the artefacts coded remained unchanged. Therefore, TP95 refers to eastern part of the combined KSH2012 TP93. Layer 3e of KSH2012 TP95 refers to Layer 3e of the eastern part of combined KSH2012 TP93.

Sub-Stage 1 (SG1): Late Northern Song to Early Southern Song Period

This sub-stage is represented by the ceramics unearthed from Layers 6a and Layer 6b of T6 from the Phase 2 Archaeological Work area located at the southwest of the former Sacred Hill. Similar ceramics were also found in the disturbed layers dated to later period. A small amount of ceramic items were found in this sub-stage and items which could be refitted were few.

Porcelains were mainly dominated by Qingbai glazed porcelain from kilns in Zhangzhou (漳州) region; celadons from kilns in Longquan and Huangyan Shabu (黃巖沙埠); and black glazed tea bowls from kilns in Jiangyang Shuiji (建陽水吉). Also, a shard from a large brown glazed pottery jar marked with characters "大觀二年" (1108 AD) from Foshan Qishi Kiln (佛山奇石窯) was found from stream deposits (KSWT2013 HC(2) in C-T2 of the Phase 3 Archaeological Work area) and provides valuable evidence to support that the three Phases of Archaeological Work areas can be dated to as early as 1108 AD.

Further items discovered in this sub-stage include yellowish celadon bowls from kilns in Fujian such as Zhangpu (漳浦), Tongan (同安) and Fuqing (福清); greyish celadon bowls from the Minqing Yi Kiln (閩清義窯); and brown glazed small mouth pottery vases from kilns in Jinjiang Cizao (晉江磁灶). For examples of these ceramics, please refer to Annex H.

Sub-Stage 2(SG2): Middle Southern Song Period

This sub-stage is represented by the ceramics unearthed from feature KSWT2013 H7 of T6 from the Phase 2 Archaeological Work area. Ceramics identified include greyish celadon bowls, plates and basins from Minqing Yi Kiln; greyish celadon bowls from Putian Zuangbian Kiln (莆田莊邊窯); yellowish celadon bowls from kilns in Zhangzhou, Fuqing areas; black glazed tea bowls from kilns in Fuqing; celadon bowls with an incised lotus pattern from Longquan kiln; Qingbai porcelain bowls and boxes with a molded pattern (印花盒) from Dehua Kiln (德化窯); Qingbai porcelains with incised pattern (青白釉劃花) and bamboo-shaped bowls with a molded pattern (印花斗笠碗) from Jindezhen (景德鎮) Kiln; and brown glazed and green glazed potteries from kilns in Jinjiang Cizao. For examples of these ceramics, please refer to Annex H.

Sub-Stage 3(SG3): Late Southern Song Period

This sub-stage is represented by the ceramics unearthed from KSWT2013 H12 of T1 from the Phase 2 Archaeological Work area, KSH2012 H61 and Layer 3b of TP90 from the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area located to the north or northeast of the former Sacred Hill. Ceramics identified include greyish celadon bowl with a molded and incised pattern (印花劃花碗); half-glazed bowls (半釉碗); ewers (執壺); lamp dishes (燈盞) from kilns in Minqing Yi, Lianjiang Pukou (連江浦口窯) and Putian Zhuangbian (莆田莊邊窯); greyish celadon nail stick dishes (支釘折沿盤) from Nan'an Nankeng Kiln (南安南坑窯); yellowish celadon bowls (素面碗), bowl with incised pattern (劃花碗), plate with incised pattern (劃花碟) from Minnan kilns (閩南窯口); black glazed pottery tea bowl from Wuyishan Yulinting Kiln (武夷山遇林亭窯) (some may have golden Chinese characters marks such as "壽山福海"); celadons from Longquan Kiln and Wencheng Shanxi Kiln (文成珊溪窯); Qingbai porcelain from Minnan kilns such as Dehua Kiln, Jingdezhen Kiln and Taishun Yuta Kiln (泰順玉塔窯); and brown glazed pottery from kilns in Jinjiang Cizao and Guangdong. For examples of these ceramics, please refer to Annex H.

Sub-Stage 4(SG4): Late Southern Song to Early Yuan Period

This sub-stage is represented by the ceramics unearthed from KSWT2013 H9 of T1 from the Phase 2 Archaeological Work area and Layer 3e of TP93 and TP131 from the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area. The ceramics include greyish celadons from Lianjiang Pukou Kiln; yellowish celadon bowls from Minnan kilns; black glazed pottery tea bowls from the mouth of Minjiang River kilns (閩江口窯場); celadon bowls and plates from Longquan Kiln; Qingbai porcelains from Minnan, Putian (莆田窯), Minbei (閩北), and Pucheng kilns (浦城窯); black glazed pottery tea bowls and white glazed potteries from Jizhou Kiln in Jiangxi Province; and brown glazed potteries from Jinjiang Cizao and Guangdong kilns. For examples of these ceramics, please refer to Annex H.

Sub-Stage 5(SG5): Middle to Late Yuan Period

This sub-stage is represented by the ceramics unearthed from Layer 3a of T1, T6, T8 and T11 from the Phase 2 Archaeological Work area. The ceramics include celadon from Longquan Kiln and Qingbai porcelain from Jingdezhen Kiln.

Late Qing Dynasty to Republican Period and Mid-20th Century Ceramics

In addition to the Song-Yuan Dynasties ceramics, ceramics identified and dated to the Late Qing Dynasty to Republican period and the period of Mid-20th century were unearthed. They were mainly unearthed from Layer 1 and Layer 2 and discuss below.

The typology of the unearthed ceramic shards suggests that they originated mainly from mainland China and Hong Kong. Only a small portion of the ceramics was originated from overseas such as Europe and Japan, and is dated to around the early 20th century.

The products from Mainland China and Hong Kong are mainly blue and white porcelain shards, underglazed "Wucai" (釉下五彩) porcelain shards, overglazed or glazed pottery shards and opium containers. The unearthed blue and white porcelain shards originated mainly from Wun Yiu Kiln (碗窯) in Tai Po and from kilns in the Guangdong, Jiangxi (Jingdezhen) and Fujian provinces. Underglazed "Wucai" porcelains shards are products from Liling Kiln in the Hunan province. The glazed pottery shards are from kilns in the Guangdong province.

Re-Deposited Ceramics

In addition to the Song-Yuan Dynasties Ceramics, nineteen (19) items of SF were unearthed from stream deposits KSWT2013 HC(1) or HC(2) in C-T2/C-T3/C-T4 in the Phase 3 Archaeological Work area. According to their typology, the pottery shards are dated to pre-Qin Dynasty (770 BC – 221 BC) or Western Han Dynasty (206BC – 25 AD), such as KSWT2013 C-T2 HC(1) SF#50-56, KSWT2013 C-T3 HC(2) SF#53, 55-60 and KSWT2013 C-T4 HC(2) SF#35-38. However, they were unearthed along with other later period (Late Qing Dynasty to Republican period) artefacts from stream deposits of the former Ma Tau Chung, so they are regarded as secondary deposits probably transported by water from upstream. This provides limited or less significant information to understand the primary deposits in the Phase 3 Archaeological Work area. Apart from these redeposited pottery shards, no other ceramics earlier than the Song-Yuan Dynasties were found.

5.3.2 Coins

As listed in Table 5.3, a total of three hundred and fifteen (315) coins were unearthed from the archaeological works. Almost 60% of them had been severely damaged or eroded while being unearthed and therefore the precise dating of these coins was not possible. Information regarding the remaining legible 40% is presented in Table 5.7 below. The earliest coins are Kaiyuan Tongbao (開元通寶) and are dated to early Tang Dynasty to early Northern Song Dynasty. These were, however, unearthed and associated with the Song-Yuan Dynasties ceramics. A majority of these legible coins can be dated to the Northern Song Dynasties (960-1127 AD). Others coins from the Southern Song Dynasties (1127-1279 AD) and Qing Dynasty (1644-1911 AD) included a local one (1) cent coin, two (2) coins from Vietnam and one (1) French Indochinese piastre. The information provides valid material evidence to date relevant artefacts, features and layers. Foreign coins provide evidence of overseas communication during the Late Qing Dynasty to Republican period.

5.3.3 Metals

As listed in Table 5.3 and Table 5.4, fifty-five (55) items and three hundred and fifty nine (359) metal fragments were registered as SF and GF, respectively.

For SF, twenty-one (21) out of the fifty-five (55) items were dated to the Song-Yuan Dynasties. The functions of some fragments were identified, which included knife, nail, arrowhead, a crossbow trigger mechanism, bell, knob, hook, mirror, spoon, key, lock and hairpin.

Eleven (11) out of fifty-five (55) items of the SF were dated to the Late Qing Dynasty to Republican period. The remaining items were dated to the Mid-20th century. The functions of some fragments dated to the Late Qing Dynasty to Republican period were identified, which included a button, spoon, knife, lead bullet, nail, key, lock, hairpin and bell. The functions of the Mid-20th century metal fragments were identified, which included plate, pencil sharpener, button, hook, nail, plough, chisel, shell casing, nameplate, metal ladle and copper tube.

Examples of these items along with the artefact code are listed in Table 5.8 and photographs are presented in Annex G.

5.3.4 Tiles

As listed in Table 5.3 and Table 5.4, thirty-nine (39) tile items were registered as SF, and 3,937 tile items were registered as GF.

All of the SF items are dated to the Song-Yuan Dynasties. They are mostly eaves tiles either with chrysanthemum, lotus or linked-pearl patterns and semi-circular tiles. The major pattern is lotus pattern which were usually used for religious buildings. Other items include a shard of grey tile with wave pattern, a red pan tile with pattern and a shard of rounded tile. Nevertheless, eight (8) of them were unearthed from layers dated to the later period.

Examples of these items along with the artefact code are listed in Table 5.10 and photographs are presented in Annex G.

Tile Types	Artefacts Code
A red pan tile with pattern	KSH2012 TP76 (3d) SF#1
A shard of round tile	KSH2012 TP85-93 K5 SF#88

The tiles registered as GF are mostly shards of unidentifiable shapes and dated according to associated ceramics, coins or stratigraphy relationships. The Song-Yuan Dynasties tiles include shards of red, grey and white tiles, some of them with cloth impressed pattern. For those with an identifiable shape, eaves tiles (some with Simplified Lotus Pattern) and semi-circle tiles are recognised. Some of the Song-Yuan Dynasties tiles were found in layers dated to the later period. Further information regarding these tiles is presented in Table 5.11.

5.3.5 Bricks

As detailed in Table 5.3, one brick is registered as SF. It was found to be a shard of red brick with a diagonal pattern and was found in Layer 3a at the south of ATP1 of the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area dated to the Song-Yuan Dynasties (please refer to artefact code KSH2012 ATP1(S) (3a) SF#8 and Annex F1 and Annex G for the artefacts list and the photograph, respectively).

As listed in Table 5.4, there are one hundred and thirty seven (137) items of brick registered as GF. Those associated with the Song-Yuan Dynasties include shards of red, grey or white brick. Some of the bricks were from the later periods such as the Late Qing Dynasty to Republican period and include shards of flooring bricks, and white, red or grey bricks. Further information regarding these bricks is presented in Table 5.12.

In addition, a red brick well was found below Layer 1 of Part 6a in the Phase 3 Archaeological Work area. Samples of the red brick well were collected for future studies.

5.3.6 Woods

As listed in Table 5.3 and Table 5.4, eight (8) wood items were registered as SF, and four (4) wood items were registered as GF. The SF wood items are listed in Table 5.13.

The Song-Yuan Dynasties wood components were wood planks/strips and wood columns found as part of the feature KSWT2013 H4. In order to better conserve the items, they were collected and properly stored under the supervision of a conservation expert.

The four (4) items registered as GF were toothbrushes and chopsticks dated to the Late Qing Dynasty to Republican period.

As listed in Table 5.5, sixty-two (62) items of wood were registered as S. The wood samples (wooden stakes, wooden structures, block and planks) dated to the Song-Yuan Dynasties were from features such as KSWT2013 H4, H5, H11, H12 and H27, KSWT2013 J2 and TT2 from the Phases 2 and 3 Archaeological Works areas and features KSH2012 M16 and M21 and Layer 3 of the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area.

A total of seventeen (17) wood samples dated to the Song-Yuan Dynasties from TP94, TP102, TP112 and TP122 of the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area were selected for treatment to allow for further analysis in future. Each of the samples is assigned a wood sample number including KSH2012 MT1-MT4 and MT6-MT16 and KSH2012 MB1-MB2 (please refer to Annex F3 for the list and Annex I for the photographic record of some representative wood samples).

Other wood samples dated to the Late Qing Dynasty to Republican period were collected from stream deposit (KSWT2013 HC) or Layer 2 of the Phases 2 and 3 Archaeological Works areas.

5.3.7 Stones

As listed in Table 5.3 and Table 5.4, eighty-seven (87) items were registered as SF and eighty-eight (88) items were registered as GF.

Stone items dating to the Song-Yuan Dynasties include shards of inkstone, Chinese writing brush holder, net weight, weight, ball, stoneware, stand, basin, plank, base, mound, stone component and crystal.

Examples of these items along with the artefact code are listed in Table 5.14 and detailed list and photographs are presented in Annex F1 and Annex G.

In addition, four (4) stone samples were collected. One of them is the rock used to support the bottom of the stone trench for well KSH2012 J5 of ATP1 from the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area. Two (2) of the items were stone samples collected from feature KSWT2013 H5 in T6 and one (1) was a floating stone from feature KSWT2013 H26 of A-TP22 of the Phases 2 and 3 Archaeological Works areas. All of them were dated to the Song-Yuan Dynasties.

5.3.8 Corals

A total of two hundred and ninety-four (294) registered items of dead coral samples were unearthed and weighted 384 kg. They were mostly used as construction material for feature KSH2012 F6 QJ3 in TP90 (please refer to Annex E2a-5ce in Volume 2 of the Final Report for the photographic record of KSH2012 F6 QJ3). Four (4) items were coral deposits and coral from kiln KSH2012 Y1. All of the items were from the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area dated to the Song-Yuan Dynasties. Other remaining coral samples were dead corals unearthed from the later period layers.

5.3.9 Bones

As listed in Table 5.3, two (2) items of bone were registered as SF. They are bone ware and bone hairpin from the Late Qing Dynasty to Republican period or Mid-20th century layers (please refer to artefacts codes KSH2012 TP3 (1) SF#6 and KSH2012 TP93 (2b) SF#29 in Annexes F1 and G for the SF list and photographs, respectively).

In addition, as listed in Table 5.5, fifty-eight (58) items of bone were collected as samples. Most of them are animal tooth, jawbones or bones from the Late Qing Dynasty to Republican period or Mid-20th century layers. Animals that could be identified from the bones include dog, pig and chicken.

5.3.10 Glasses

As listed in Table 5.3 and Table 5.4, fifty-seven (57) and fifty-six (56) items of glass were registered as SF and GF, respectively. All of them were dated to the Late Qing Dynasty to Republican period. Glass with an identifiable function include bottles, bottle stopper, medicinal bottle, nail varnish glass bottle, some of them are with characters such as “施別靈皮膚水”,"救急大神水". "雙妹嗮花露水", and "Pai Nippon Brewery".

5.3.11 Plastic

As listed in Table 5.3, two (2) items of plastic were registered as SF. They include a small white plastic bottle with characters "百家利"; and a doll figure dated to the Republican period (please refer to artefacts codes KSH2012 TP5 (1) SF#20 and KSH2012 TP80 (1) SF#6 in Annex F1 and Annex G for the list and photographs, respectively).

5.3.12 Others

As listed in Table 5.3 and Table 5.4, two (2) other items were registered as SF, and one (1) other item was registered as GF. The SF items are leaf collected in feature KSWT2013 H4 of T6 in the Phase 2 Archaeological Work area; and a dice from Layer 3a of A-TP20 in the Phase 3 Archaeological Work area. Both of them were from the Song-Yuan Dynasties layers (for details, please refer to artefacts codes KSWT2013 T6 H4 (4) SF#1 and KSWT2013 A-TP20 (3a) SF#9 in Annexes F1 and G).

The GF item is a concrete building component from Layer 2a of KSWT2013 T1 in the Phase 2 Archaeological Work area which was dated to the Late Qing Dynasty to Republican period.

5.4 CONCLUSION

The three Phases of Archaeological Works unearthed a large quantity of artefacts which provide material evidence for the understanding of the past history of the excavated areas.

The unearthed artefacts dated to the earliest period were some re-deposited pre-Qin Dynasty (770 BC – 221 BC) or Western Han Dynasty (206 BC – 25 AD) pottery shards unearthed from stream deposits KSWT2013 HC(1) or HC(2) in C-T2/C-T3/C-T4 in the Phase 3 Archaeological Work area. They were unearthed along with other later period (the Late Qing Dynasty to Republican period) artefacts from stream deposits of the former Ma Tau Chung probably transported by water from upstream. The presence of the pre-Qin Dynasty and Western Han Dynasty pottery shards indicates human activity at those times but their original location cannot be determined.

Although two copper coins Kaiyuan Tongbao (開元通寶) issued since the early Tang Dynasty and continued to the early Song Dynasty were found in the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area, they were found associated with the Song-Yuan Dynasties features, artefacts and layer. Therefore, they were regarded as artefacts from the Song-Yuan Dynasties layer.

Other remaining artefacts were mainly dated to the Song-Yuan Dynasties, Late Qing Dynasty to Republican period and Mid-20th century. Most of them were ceramics and mainly from the north or northwest of the Phase 1 Archaeological Work area and lower level areas such as T1 of the Phase 2 Archaeological Work area; Part 6b of Zone A, Zone B, C-T1, C-T1a, C-T1b, C-T5, C-T6 of Zone C and Zone D of the Phase 3 Archaeological Work area.

The large quantity of unearthed ceramic shards (including a large amount of poor quality ceramic shards and a small amount of high quality ceramic shards) shows signs of being used which reflected that there were people living in this excavation area and in the proximity as early as the Song-Yuan Dynasties.

As the types of ceramics unearthed were quite diverse and a portion of them were relatively complete, a ceramic typology analysis on selective finds from the Song-Yuan Dynasties was conducted through comparison of similar finds unearthed in the region in order to understand more on their production origins, dating and characteristics. The results indicate that the Song-Yuan Dynasties period can further be divided into five (5) sub-stages ranging from the Late Northern Song to Early Southern Song Period, to the Middle to Late Yuan Period. The ceramics with an identifiable origin were mainly from southern China region such as Fujian (福建), Jiangxi (江西) and Guangdong provinces. This indicates that communication with neighbouring regions already existed during the Song-Yuan Dynasties.

According to the typology of the unearthed ceramic shards, Late Qing Dynasty to Republican period ceramics were also unearthed and they were mainly originated from Guangdong, Jiangxi (Jingdezhen) and Fujian provinces and the Wun Yiu Kiln (碗窯) in Tai Po of Hong Kong. A small portion of the ceramics unearthed was originated from overseas such as Europe and Japan.

Apart from ceramics, a certain amount of the artefacts were linked to construction materials, such as tiles and eaves tiles, bricks and dead corals. These artefacts provide material evidence regarding the materials used for construction and decoration of buildings.

In addition, unearthed coins, metals, wood, stones and bones artefacts provide broad information regarding the life of the people during those periods. Artefacts unearthed from burial pits also provide information to understand burial rituals or practices at the time.
In summary, the artefacts identified provide a general and broad understanding regarding the life of people living in the area during those periods discussed in this report. The findings provide data and information for further research studies in related fields and in particular about the local history during the Song-Yuan Dynasties.
